listed, "Neighbors," a one act play by Zona Gals. This portion of the program has been personally coached by Miss Mabel Bennett. "The Beauty Shoppers," and "Down Cottage Lane" are skits whose description we will leave to the imagination of the reader. "Lady Francis" sounds very dignified but we are told confidentially that it is the title of a college farce.

Which mentions nearly everything but the circus and the incidental piano solo to be played by Ruth Bramwell and Lavinia Gray here. The program will be raised at 8:15 and then, "on with the show."

have been injured. The Charles R. McCormick, which proceeded up the stream to Astoria, is reported as taking water in her forward hold. The Maru absorbed the shock of the collision in the destruction of its forepeak tank, not taking water, it was reported.

The Maru was en route to Shouan with a cargo of lumber from Portland. Confused signals are blamed for the accident.

HIGHWAY CHANGE AIDED

EUGENE, Ore.—(Light of way for changes in the Willamette valley-Florence highway, where it is necessary to cut through the village of Blachly, will be an engineering matter to obtain, according to Pres. M. Morse, county engineer, who in company with members of the county court spent most of the day interviewing property owners through whose land the highway will extend.

The state highway commission will let the contract for the grading of the Blachly section, a distance of 2 1/2 miles, at its meeting April 23 and 24.

HISTORIC RELICS PLACED CORVALLIS, ORE.

Two large millstones that came around Cape Horn to Corvallis, via Portland, six years ago, are being erected on concrete pedestals in the city park here. They came from Germany and were used in a flour mill in the King valley region of that country.

A few years ago they were bought for their historic interest by citizens of Corvallis and are now being erected with suitable inscriptions at the entrance to the automobile park.

and emotional quality in her voice of a kind seldom heard. Each note, each trill, each run was a tribute to the artist and each song sung was sung flawlessly with no apparent effort or straining for effect on the part of the singer.

Miss Carney's first group contained "Care None" by Verdi, "Mondnacht" by Schuman and "Care Solve" by Handel. The first displayed the singer's ability, perhaps to a better advantage, than any of the other selections. The spiritual and dramatic quality in Miss Carney's voice as she sang this selection from Verdi's "Il Trovatore" was truly remarkable. A peculiar, slow vibrato in this selection served to display the singer's mastery of vocal technique.

For an encore to her first group Miss Carney sang "The Robin's Song" by Howard White. Her second and last suite of songs contained selections in a somewhat lighter vein than her first. In this group were "Wagner's Night Song," "Martin," "The Road Song," Novello, "The Wind's in the South" by Scott.

Twice Encored.

Miss Carney was encored twice at the conclusion of this group and in response to the insistent clapping sang "The Road Song," "The Road Song" by Strauss, "The Road Song" by Strauss, "The Road Song" by Strauss, "The Road Song" by Strauss.

The artist lifted this song to the heights of grand opera, indeed, she made it a classic. "Old Fall" another song written in the popular vein by Van Alstyne concluded Miss Carney's selections.

For her part Miss Notz contributed immeasurably to the evening's entertainment by her accompaniments at the piano. For solos she played "The Road Song" by Strauss, "The Road Song" by Strauss, "The Road Song" by Strauss, "The Road Song" by Strauss.

While Miss Notz's solos were not particularly selected to display her technique they showed her as an artist of great ability. Her tonal control and pedal work were exceptional.

THREE AFTER PRESIDENCY

candidate of the united right; Dr. William Marx, representative of the people's bloc and Ernst Thaelmann, nominee of the Communist party. The nominations closed at midnight Thursday night.

Although only 28,558,900 voters participated in the election of March 29, the federal election commission has received 28,500,000 ballots for the coming election, that being the number of eligible voters who have entered the polling lists throughout Germany.

Dr. Marx Thursday delivered a speech at a banquet here in which he said:

"The international economic development of our country is dependent upon the outcome of the election. Powerful circles abroad would welcome the possibility of a change in Germany's policy as an effective means for agitation. Also there are mighty foreign business groups which are anxious to re-assert the barely quelled suspicion of a feared competitor."

Foreign Aid Necessary.

He warned that Germany's domestic economy still requires foreign help on a large scale and that foreign cooperation can not be evaded on the road to freedom.

The united right bloc in a proclamation issued Thursday denies an allegation that it is an organization of industrialists and capitalists.

"The candidacy of Field Marshal von Hindenburg," says the proclamation, "is supported by non-party electors and a majority of the German people. We expect every one to lend the most financial aid to our candidate, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's election. We expect all who have means to forward appropriate contributions. Every penny given toward the election of our Hindenburg will be a further step toward the peaceful reconstruction of our fatherland."

Leavens Makes First Raid.

SALEM, Ore.—The first raid conducted by William Leavens since he was appointed state prohibition director netted three men and a still, two gallons of liquor and a quantity of cash. The men under arrest are James Williams, R. L. Wells and Lawrence Montgomery. The still was located by the officers in the timbered district near West Woodburn and was in operation.

Pet Dog Bites Child.

BWICKET HOME, Ore.—Vernita Russell, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. R. Russell of Foster, had quite a painful wound inflicted in her lower lip by a pet dog the late night of last week. The little girl is able to attend school, but has a hard time to eat or talk.

BETTER YEAR IS EXPECTED

My knowledge of German conditions, however, makes me believe that German affairs are in the hands of strong and sound men. As to France's finances, there is nothing new in the situation. France's present financial condition has been known for years. Jean M. Paul's receivership should not excite investors. The St. Paul property is better seen now than it has been for years, and some day there will be a chance to make a tremendous amount of money in connection with the re-organization. Against these adverse factors have been slowly improving business conditions, a fair crop situation, and very easy money."

It was then pointed out to Mr. Halson that although the above factors apply to the stock market situation, they do not explain the slackness in general trade. To this point Mr. Halson replied as follows:

"It should be remembered that the American people live in the Temperate Zone and consequently are subject to two modes of living, winter and summer. Moreover, the difference in temperature makes a great difference in the purchases of these people, ranging from fur coats to flax cotton dresses. Hence the climate is a tremendous factor in retail trade. Climate moreover is the great factor in determining the crop and hence the purchasing power of the people, as well as a factor in determining the purchasing needs of people. Now everyone knows what the weather has been this spring and winter. In most parts of the country it has been exceedingly abnormal and has upset all calculations. In other words, the weather since Christmas has been detrimental to business. Of course similar conditions may continue through the balance of the year, but the law of averages suggests a change. It may not be business weather would improve retail trade as much as this abnormal business weather has retarded it.

"Of course the textile situation is very bad while the shoe and leather industries are not doing well. Manufacturing capacity in many lines is greater than our power to absorb. Considering the facts that most plants make their money on the last 25 percent of capacity, it is not surprising that profits are very small when so many plants are operating only 75 percent capacity. On the other hand, business men need not be disturbed because manufacturers, jobbers and merchants are being 'killed to death.' This is not due to lack of funds or lack of confidence, but rather to the great improvement in the transportation system of the country. Goods were originally bought in large quantities because merchants reaped their goods by freight only about four times a year. This situation has gradually changed in that now fast freights are coming first daily. The improvement in railroad transportation, the introduction of auto trucks, delivery and other factors now make it unnecessary for manufacturers and merchants to carry large stocks. This is nothing to worry about because it tends to eliminate speculation and hence fundamentally is a good thing. It is possible that 1925 may be a quiet year. It may take several quiet years before the great inflation of war times has been fully readjusted. But there is nothing to worry about and I am willing to stake my reputation that 1925 will be a better year than 1924 taking in all sections of the country and all lines of industry.

"Of course we should not be surprised to see business fluctuate widely according to stock market and weather barometers. As we went up too far above the normal line the Halsonchart reaching 7 percent above normal in February, so it would not be surprising if we dropped considerably below the normal line for a month or two now. All of this, however, should average very satisfactory and I am sure that when the close of this year comes the business line for 1925 will run higher than 1924. These better results, however, will not come of themselves. We must work harder; both employers and wage workers must take a greater interest in their work; while all of us must seek to give greater value for the dollar we receive. When we again look upon business as a service and responsibility instead of a mere game, then real prosperity will return."
