WHEREFORE the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure; for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall.—1 Peter 1:10.

That once well-known old-timer who used to brag that he could drink everybody else under the table is himself under the sod.

The fellow who doesn't believe in a vacation may be one whose work is so poor he fears they'll find out while he's away how useless he is.

A college president says that scholarship and brains are beginning to be recognized as the big advertising assets of a college—but the athletics still get more space in the newspapers.

It's the driver at the wheel, not the car, that makes the trouble. Out of some 1500 automobile accidents in Oregon during a definite period, approximately 1,100 were traced to faulty or careless driving—nothing else could be blamed. Faulty mechanism of the car, poor highway conditions, etc., cause so few comparatively, that our problem of safety has to do with the individual driver and educating him on the value of taking every precaution possible when on the public streets and highways. If a driver takes the attitude that every other person on the road is a fool and conducts himself accordingly, accidents will be reduced to a minimum.

A SPLENDID TOWN.

A gazetteer informs us that Canton, New York, is "a banking post-village, the capital of St. Lawrence county, on the Grass River and the New York Central and Hudson River railroad, 59 miles northeast of Watertown; it has extensive steam sawmills and flour mills, boat works and manufactures cheese and cheese boxes, printing presses, etc., and is the seat of St. Lawrence university. Its population is 2,757."

There appears to be nothing particularly startling or noteworthy in these facts. There are bigger sawmill towns along the Kennebec, more ambitious flour mills in Minneapolis, more cheese produced in any of a hundred Wisconsin towns and more boats built in any Eastern harbor. What especially distinguishes this northern New York town is that of the 763 houses in Canton, 652 are inhabited by owners, that the proportion of owners to renters is approximately 6 to 1. This precisely is the condition that makes more directly than any other for splendid citizenship. The pride and satisfaction that accrues to the owner of a home because of that fact inevitably reflects itself in every manifestation of that citizenship, in his attitude toward his community, toward his state and his government, in his sense of civic and social responsibility, in his attachment to hearth and family which is the base on which our whole structure of civilization rests. Canton, New York, must be a splendid town.
