OUT OUR WAY

By WILLIAMS

man can listen to three conversations while carrying one on.

Love is often described as blind when frequently it is merely looking cross eyed.

It is easy to think of something to do after it is too late to do it.

How fresh the spring landscape looks with new paint on the hillboards.

Outside of jail the smallest place on earth is a room in a boarding house in the spring.

Utopia is where the tomato slightly resembles the picture on a seed catalogue.

There are two kinds of girls—those you can kiss and those you don't want to.

LAMERICK
A maid from the county of Deer said, "Amen, I've been married before, but if you mind I shall not resist. And I'm willing to try it once more."

She: "Look at Mabel's dress."
He: "I can't see it. Some fellow has an arm around her."

Most women can take hints if they are beauty hints.

Minding other people's business successfully is an occupation that requires great tact and much experience.

The chief trouble with being a man is that shaving takes more time than smearing a little rouge.

Another thing that is very good for the complexion is to let it alone.

Our kid wants to know, if it is the law or gravity that keeps us on earth, how did we stick before the law was passed?

DR. E. E. GILBERT DEAD

MEDFORD, Ore.—Dr. E. E. Gilbert, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city and formerly superintendent of the Salem district of the Oregon conference, died at his home in this city. Death was due to heart disease, from which he had been suffering for three months. Dr. Gilbert had filled pulpits at Salem and previous pastorates here.

Dr. Gilbert was born near Ontario, Canada. He was graduated from the Biblical Institute of the Northwestern University and for many years held pastorates in Iowa. He was 56 years of age.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, living in Portland, and a son, Wendell, of this city.

thoughtlessly. "Generally, I think the American people mean to obey our laws."

"Doesn't our multiplicity of regulations," I asked, "hamper law enforcement. Doesn't it make for a general disrespect of law? Any way, there are more arrests just now than ever. Prison populations are increasing."

"Our law," said the attorney general, "in the very nature of things, most naturally expand in proportion to our growth, nationally and internationally, for we live in a period of constant progress, social and industrial."

"You emphasize that there are more arrests for infractions of the law than ever before, to me that suggests better law enforcement, not laxity."

Lack of Funds May Cause Cathedral to Close Its Doors

LONDON (AP)—The poorest cathedral in Christendom is Southwark cathedral, according to the Bishop of Woolwich.

There is practically no endowment, the bishop explains, and the dean, the sub-dean and canons were not paid a single penny. The cathedral is in a poor locality and for 12 years the windows have not been cleaned because of lack of finances. The organization faces bankruptcy.

THE QUALITY STORE

Too many of us are inclined to calculate time by pay days.

It ought to be some time before those New York plasterers making $119 a week go to the wall.

An egg is accepted as admission in some theaters in Hungary. What sort of an egg one pays to see a punk play is not specified.

The election of von Hindenburg to the presidency of Germany is looked upon with much concern by other European nations, yet he takes office as the choice of the nation's majority. Whatever the future holds for the German people, it must be worked out from within, not by prejudiced international by-standers.

A HOME PAYS DIVIDENDS.
Interest in better homes and the designation of one period of six days as "Better Homes Week" may seem like petty propaganda of manufacturers to a few blind pessimists, but in reality the urge toward those things which make life more worthwhile and more productive of happiness—which are the same things that make for better homes—is being felt by increasing multitudes each year. We are all being educated in the new and improved ways in which our home life can be more comfortable and happier and we advance, not by the greater expenditure of money in the home, but rather by gaining more knowledge as to what should be done with what we have.

The more mercenary individual is inclined somewhat to look upon home improvement and beautification, simple though it may be, as unnecessary extravagance. As a matter of fact, however, nothing pays greater dividends than a home that qualifies in the true meaning of the word. No one will deny the value to a man, even in the execution of his every-day duties, of a home atmosphere that is pleasant, comfortable, and generally attractive. Nothing makes for more wholesome rest than such surroundings and nothing lends more to produce ambition and the energy that makes its attainment possible than a charming home. No matter how humble it may be, it possesses possibilities along those lines equal to those of the most lavish surroundings.

Residents of La Grande who have watched the city's development for a generation now may rightly marvel at the increased pride in property and the advanced appreciation for home-making in evidence here today. Yet the advance of the next few years will be even more marked, we are confident, as the civic pride and community co-operation become more firmly embedded in the lives of those who are making a greater and more beautiful city.

Paying Your Insurance Premiums the Rest of Your Life

Your life insurance premiums can be paid more or less easily during the years when your earning power is greatest but what of the time when your income is reduced and you need insurance protection more than ever?

The obvious solution to this problem is the making of an investment now, in your best years, that will return high enough interest to pay your insurance premiums the rest of your life without worry to you in later years.

Such an investment is available in two forms: one when combined with a life insurance policy, and the other when kept separate from your insurance—both being sufficient to pay an annual income that will cover the amount of your insurance premium. The first, when combined with your insurance policy, builds a sufficient investment in the hands of your insurance company to pay all premiums after ten, twenty, or thirty years—whichever you select. In case of death before that period expires, your estate receives only the life insurance itself, the investment that has been built up being lost. The second form, where your investment is separate, builds an investment to pay your insurance premiums after a period of 10 1/2 months, or such other period as you select. In case of your death, your estate receives the investment in full as well as the life insurance money it has helped protect.

The La Grande Building & Loan Association offers the second form of investment—an investment that can be used for this and many other purposes. Its stock can be purchased in easy monthly payments, in units of $100 or more. It deserves your immediate attention. Drop in or phone us at your earliest convenience.
