CAILLAUX'S APPOINTMENT Pleases U. S. Officials

If the chamber of deputies in Paris turns down the Caillaux taxation plan, out of office he'll go, and probably the whole cabinet with him. That this will be perfectly quick is one of the safest of bets.

Of course it would be a big thing for America if France paid out...

Getting the four billions also owes a bill. But not, for, quite a while. But not, for, quite a while. But not, for, quite a while.

He was a young job with a naval squadron at Charleston...

He was a young job with a naval squadron at Charleston—a nice chap but only a kid. Going through some old papers at the navy department recently, an officer accidentally unearthed the record of the court martial which tried this youth some years ago. Details were made public at the time. Navy men were too sore at this late date they laugh.

The boy was tired of Charleston. He longed for Broadway...

He longed for Broadway. He so claimed that he was a wireless operator—on the flagship. So what did he get but a wireless to the admiral to take his ship to the Brooklyn Navy yard forthwith. Up anchor and away!

In due season the admiral reported snappily to the Brooklyn navy yard commandant...

"What a joker you do!" he queried the astonished commandant. "I got a wireless to come," intimated the admiral. "The hidden you did!" exclaimed the commandant. "Oh to ha-ha-ha-ha where you belong?"

But they investigated first. It didn't seem so funny then as now...

It didn't seem so funny then as now that a whole squadron of big warships had made an expensive voyage from Charleston to New York and then had to turn right around and go back. Not to advance one centing cost. They cast him out of the service and he was lucky not to get a few years on the rockpile thrown in. He's a rising engineer today and it wouldn't be fair to identify him more exactly in connection with the story of his graduation from the navy.

HEALTH IS DISCUSSED AT MEETING

He stated that a meeting of the county health association once each year was not enough, that a definite health program should be arranged and the association meet quarterly in a chamber of commerce. He said more interest was shown in the commercial part of a city or county than in the upbuilding of the health of the children. He mentioned a health week to be held each year and a campaign initiated for a better health program. The mentioned conditions prevailing in schools at the present time, children going to school with whooping cough when they should be at home.

Praises Health Work

Mr. Hampton before introducing the second speaker spoke a few words in praise of the schools and of the work of the county health association. He said the climax for the association has been upheld and more good has been accomplished than Mr. Day gave them credit. As for the schools he said "they do have whooping cough, but what can we do?" He then introduced Mrs. Dunbar who spoke briefly on the work of the state board of health and their cooperation with the county associations. She stated that the state board will do everything possible when the county presses the health question. She recently introduced the "health week" plan spoken of by Dr. Phipps. Mrs. Dunbar spoke briefly of the work of the Union county association and said she believed this association would gradually educate the people of this community to the need of a definite health program.

This afternoon as the Observer goes to press the association is in session at the Neighborhood club rooms, Dr. W. P. McAdory being the speaker of the afternoon.

Passengers Smoke on Italian-Indian Lines

LONDON (AP)—England's giant airship, the R-101 which is to fly between this country and India, is to be constructed of stainless steel, and is to have two separate decks and accommodation for 100 passengers. The use of stainless steel in the framework of the dirigible is considered by experts to be a decided advance in airship construction because of its strength. Passengers and crew on the R-101 may smoke pipes, cigars or cigarettes during voyages, as the engines will not use gasoline as fuel, but a heavy gas oil instead, and by this system virtually all danger of fire while in the air will be eliminated. Provision for a smoking room has been made in the plans and this compartment will be built along the line of those upon an ocean liner, only on a somewhat smaller scale, of course. The sleeping quarters will consist of two-bed cabins, also similar to steamship berths.

According to the present plans of the builders who are working in conjunction with the air ministry, the keel of the ship will be laid down some time in July. The R-101 is to be 720 feet in length and 140 feet in diameter and is expected to begin its flights via the great eastern airway some time in 1926.

From Aloft Birdmen Evolve Many New Maps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aviation has developed an one of its by-products in an entirely new science, the making of topographic maps for the use of those who wing their way through the air. The precise, everyday map of geographic boundaries is limited to accurate aerial navigation. The army air service has evolved experimental air maps in strips, with the aid of the topographic branch of the geologist's survey. When a pilot takes off he is handed a strip, one of the length of his wings, but with wide ends. Besides the emergency landing fields, this map shows the form of a city as it appears from the air, depicts the improved roads, excavated the altitudes of the land in various colors so the birdman may find a course consistent with the height of the terrain over which he flies. All bodies of water are shown, as are courses of railroads with particular attention paid to where they cross roads, and at what point of the compass they enter a community.

Before this type of map was evolved the pilot took an ordinary map, drew a straight line in red ink on it, and followed this to his destination as his ability permitted. The new maps make for increased speed in flying a direct course.

Strip maps have been used in conjunction with the army's model airway system, running from New York to Belleville, Ill., and southward to San Antonio, Texas. Southward from England to Boston is mapped in this manner, as is the southern border to San Diego, Cal. Parts of the south are mapped and strip maps have been completed across country from New York to Chicago.

Special Fashion Shows Put On For Working Girls of London

LONDON (AP)—Special displays of business suits by manufacturers for shop girls and women generally employed in offices have been put on in London at convenient hours for those persons who have not the time nor opportunity to do their buying early in the day. The shows begin usually about 4 o'clock. There is usually tea in view, and each model is clearly marked with its price, what it costs for each, as well as the price if purchased on installment.

ORATORS WILL C. M. T. CAMPS BECKON BOYS HAVE CONTEST

Cove (Special)—An oratorical contest will be held at the L. D. S. church at Cove between the Cove and Indoor M. L. A.'s. There will also be a singing contest between La Grande and Union at the same time.

The swimming pool is again becoming the center of attraction at Cove. Many people from surrounding towns are visiting it daily. It is under new management and has been enlarged and beautified and many attractive features have been added.

Miss Sallie White, who has been ill at Hot Lake Sanatorium during the past six weeks is home at Cove again. She is at the residence of Mrs. Hugo Blank.

Miss Margery Claholm, of Union, spent the week end at Cove the guest of Miss Ethel Quimby.

Signal Corps Radio Net Covers Entire Country

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Coolidge's economy program has found an active ally in radio which army signal corps officers say, saves the government about $100,000 annually in communication charges.

The army handles the message business of many of the departments inland, just as the navy takes care of government coastwise and off-shore traffic, and the signal corps has built up what its officers term "the most complete and perfected radio network in the world."

The changing center of the war department, located in the Munitions building, is the nerve focus of the radio system. Twelve stations link the various corps area headquarters with Washington and within each of the corps units there are radio stations for inter-area work, comprising 60 stations in all. There are 21 Alaskan stations, and 17 distributed through the insular possessions and Panama. Army transports also are equipped with radio.

The signal corps is using this government business to train its personnel, the equipment and traffic being controlled from Washington. At Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Salt Lake City, Utah, are installed ten-kilowatt tube transmitters to relay transcontinental messages. From Washington to New York and also to Baltimore, the corps maintains leased telegraph wires, but the rest of the system is a wireless one. It is entirely self-contained and entirely by signal corps personnel.

In conjunction with its radio system, the signal corps maintains a weather forecasting service for army airplanes.

Captain E. F. French is in charge of the radio net under Colonel N. P. McClure, signal corps officer in charge of communication facilities.

BRITON OBSERVES SANE TASTE IN WALL COVERINGS

LONDON (AP)—All the jazz arrangements of stripes, circles and triangles in wall paper are rapidly being shuffed into discard, according to Professor Henry G. Downing, speaking recently before the Royal Society of Arts on the history of wall paper as a decoration of the home.

Immediately after the war a vogue set in for fantastic designs of all kinds, the professor explained, and for a time nothing appeared so extravagant in color arrangement or too wild in motif. But that phase of color decoration is beginning to pass and the idea now is for something more sensible.

"Whatever you have in your room think first of the walls for it is they which make your home and your home," asserted Professor Downing. The artistic treatment of wall space, he insisted, was the first factor in the making of a beautiful home, and the rooms would have a kind of make-shift, boarding house appearance about them if this factor were neglected.

Published Brass Losses Out Before Wave of Economy

LIVERPOOL (AP)—Brass work, with which the front doors of most homes have been adorned for centuries and which contributes to the beautifying of our homes, is going out of fashion because of the expense involved in keeping the fixtures shiny. Many new buildings in Liverpool and elsewhere in England are being up without brass or copper decorations.

DIVORCE TRIAL ENDED

THE DALLES, Ore.—The divorce case of Mrs. Clara Heinrich against her millionaire husband came to a sudden end tonight when it was announced that a reconciliation had been effected. Trial of the divorce case was to have been started, but at the suggestion of Judge Wilson a last-minute attempt at an agreement was made. The conference which resulted lasted during the entire day. Mrs. Heinrich is the owner and manager of the Great Southern railroad, and recently purchased extensive timber holdings in southern Washington with the idea of establishing a big mill in The Dalles.
