1925 Laughs at Hats

Worn By Men in 1825

BERLIN (AP)—Men's hats of olden days afforded the Berlin public amusement during the recent exhibit of clothing, held to contrast the styles of the last 100 years with the styles of today. High hats, much taller than those worn today, and as shaggy as a Newfoundland dog, appeared in the windows of many historic department stores. Circled strings hung by museums also produced broad smiles among the throngs which gathered about show windows. Many of these were shaped like old-fashioned silk hats, and were made of bamboo and oriental woods.

Gas on Stomach

Won't Let You Sleep

Gas pressing on heart and other organs sometimes causes a restless, nervous feeling and prevents sleep. Alkeria helps any gas on the stomach, unless due to over-eaten causes. The quick action will surprise you. Because Alkeria is such an excellent intestinal evacuant it is wonderful for constipation—it often works in one hour and never grips. Barthelmess Gets U. S. Aid in "Classmates"

Richard Barthelmess' new First National production, "Classmates," which comes to the Grand theatre on Friday and Saturday has an interesting and unusual history.

This picturesque and colorful story of West Point life was written by William De Mille and Margaret Turnbull long before either thought of motion picture associa-

Last Showing of "Breath of Scandal" At Sherrys Tonight.

Two seasons ago Cosmopolitan Magazine published an absorbing serial story of America's social set called "The Breath of Scandal." Then this work by Edwin Balmer was printed in book form and went through several editions. Now "The Breath of Scandal" appears in a new medium, namely a film produced by H. P. Schuberger at Sherrys.

The phase of life which "The Breath of Scandal" touches is one which is right around the corner from us all. It proves that the young person of the present generation—the flapper—is not entirely responsible for her all too liberal view of life. It is in truth, said to her at least in part from the attitude toward domestic obligations which her parents have exacted for her example.

Mr. Schuberger made a happy choice in the selection of Patsy Ruth Miller for the role of the daughter who becomes suddenly disillusioned by the conduct of her father, opposite this charming and capable young actress is Forrest Stanley, a thoroughly likable character with a keen sense of screen technique. tions. Now Mr. De Mille is a famous director and Miss Turnbull a widely known scenario writer. Then, however, they were struggling playwrights.

"Classmates" is based upon an actual incident at West Point. Charles Klein, one of the most successful dramatists of some twenty years ago, saw a clipping of a hearing incident at the Military Academy and took it to the theatrical manager, Henry H. Harris. Both of them saw drama in the incident, but neither could develop the right sort of plot. In time it was turned over to Mr. De Mille and Miss Turnbull.

Upon its presentation on Broadway, "Classmates" proved to be a huge success. The cast included Robert Edison in the role now played by Barthelmess, Wallace Toddinger and Frank McTavish. As a stage play "Classmates" ran for some four years in New York and on tour.

Following out his policy of playing various phases of American life, Barthelmess hit upon doing "Classmates" for the screen. But there were unusual difficulties in the way. It was necessary, first of all, to obtain the permission of the Military Academy and government officials. West Point had never been used as a background for a motion picture story. The academy executives, jealous of the fine traditions of the institution, had always refused such permission.

Luckily, however, Brigadier General Frederick Sladen, superintendent of the Academy and Colonel Frank Caldwell, father of Mary Hay (Mrs. Barthelmess), had been classmates at West Point years ago. This fact, coupled with Barthelmess' unique position as the leader of the younger actors of the screen, made the production of "Classmates" possible. "Classmates" was made with the full cooperation of the Military Academy. Every scene was personally supervised by Major Henry H. Lewis, adjutant of the Academy.

Gibson's Latest At Star Is First Rate Film.

Cowboys, cowgirls, Indiana, old-time drivers of horse pulled stages and others possessing vital knowledge of Western habits, customs and sports, to a total number of three in 1916 to see nothing of outlaw horses. Then, there are big horn steers and such that had a part in the making of Charles Wellington Parlon's novel, "Let 'er Buck." Universal-Gibson special which opened yesterday in the Star theatre and proved itself to be one of the most thrilling colorful pictures of Western life ever shown on a screen.

Hot Gibson, the star, long ago Hook convinced motion picture patrons that he is the real stuff as a cowboy. He has shown time and again that he can ride 'em straight up as well as give a pleasing character portrayal. But in this case Hook apparently used discretion and rode right into the center of a carnival of the most desperate, hazardous, thrilling sports ever held—nothing less than the biggest Round-Up where the best cowboys in all the land were competing for honors.

Hook established a precedent for a motion picture actor, which he previously established back in 1912 in the same arena. When that original three-day program had been completed, he rode out again with the honor of all round champion as his reward. Hook Gibson was a top hand long before he thought of motion picture cameras.

"Let 'er Buck" was filmed at Pendleton, Oregon last year while that city's famous annual Round-Up was in progress. The story of the picture was adapted from Charles Wellington Parlon's novel. The story hinges on certain of the program's events. Having such a colorful atmosphere, Ed-ward Sedgwick, the director, took every advantage of the unusual occasion and the result is that the picture really furnishes two fine entertainments in one. There is the story which is good, and is told by a cast of sterling screen players, and there is the atmosphere supplied by the real thing in Western atmosphere at its most exciting period, thanks to director Ed Sedgwick.

Marian Nixon has the part of the daughter of the Texas cattleman for whom Hook worked. She is the cause of his romantic troubles. Josie Sedgwick plays the part of the woman ranch owner.

27 YEARS AGO

Daily Morning Observer, April 29, 1898.—Messrs. W. B. Sargent and S. A. Gardiner entertained the Jolly Whist club yesterday afternoon at the home of the former. Mrs. Andrews was the fortunate winner of the first prize which was a handsome rose jar and Mrs. Quackenbush succeeded in capturing the second prize, a beautiful pickle dish. After the cards were put away the guests were served with delightful refreshments. Those present were Messrs. Cassey, White, O'Tool, Andrews, Finn, Henry, Heber, Spaulding, Clark, Holman, Quackenbush, Samner, Nowlin and Dunn. The following visitors were present: Messrs. Atkins, Cox, Lyle, Cockendall and Murphy. The club will be entertained next by Messrs. Henry and Andrews at the former's home.

J. C. Henry received a carload of furniture which will keep him busy for the next few days unpacking and arranging. The first embargo of Chinese arrived Thursday to take care of the sugar beet contracts with our farmers. They are to care for the crop from the time it is planted until it is harvested and loaded into the wagons, at $1.15 per ton. Of the 2,500 acres they have contracted to take care of about 2,800 acres.

The Farmers was called to court yesterday in the interest of the Observer.

Air Raid Sufferers Still Unpaid.

LONDON (AP)—Expatriates who suffered damage during the war from the German air raid over London have been paid a total of $25,000,000 as compensation by the government. The amount is, however, considered as advance by the claimants, some of whom have received nothing, and they now suggest that German re-
