Start Young to Win Out, Says Film Star.

If a girl is twenty-five years old should she try for a screen career? "I shouldn't advise any girl to take up motion pictures as a career after she is twenty-five years old," advises Constance Tainade, the star of First National's comedy, "Her Night of Romance."

"In fact," she adds, "in my opinion, eighteen is a ripe old age for a girl to make her debut in screen work."

"Most of the successful actresses of today went into dramatic work at a tender age and many of the famous stars were child actresses. Many of the well known players of today had achieved success by the time they were twenty years old."

"Norma and I went into picture work at the old Vitagraph studio when she was fourteen years old and I thirteen."

Constance's latest First National comedy is "Her Night of Romance."

"Her Night of Romance," a First National release, will be shown at the Arcade theatre today. It is a comedy, presenting Constance in a love mix-up with an English lord and a London money lender.

"Ace of Cactus" Sherry's Today.

"Ace of Cactus Range," a Sherry's today, is a modern Western melodrama full of action, stunts and thrills. It is so rapid, fast moving, thrilling that it holds the audience spellbound. Being suspended in the air by a cutting high, powered air, capturing a tormented desperado, the escape, the capture of the crooked diamond dealers are what help to make this the unusual Western drama that it is.

The performance of the play is per excellent and the changes taken by the actresses, actors, and cameramen are alone enough to mystify the most critical audience. There are a score of scenes here, a desirable villain and a virtuous heroine woven into this story that will bring tears, laughter and suspense. It is a story containing human interest as well as the other ingredients that are necessary to make a worthwhile picture.

Comedy showing, "Husbands Wanted."

Universal's Latest At Star Has All Star Cast.

versal-Jewel comedy-mystery picture with an all star cast is coming to the Star theatre next Thursday. James Kirkwood and Madge Bellamy are featured players.

Among those who have important parts are Zasu Pitts, Rosemary Thorpe, Otto Hoffman, Tom Ricketts, Tom S. Gules, Arthur Steward Hull, Tom Wilson and Joseph Singleton. Herbert Blane directed.

This release is the screen version of the famous stage play, "The Nightcap," written by Max Marcin and Guy Bolton. The story is one of thrilling intensity, despite the fact that it is in great part accorded comedy treatment. Most of the action takes place in a fine home where a number of persons are assembled in a hastily conceived week end party, the real purpose of which is to delay the examination of their bank books by a federal examiner.

Strange forms move about in the semi-darkness. Cross purposes are everywhere, and as a culmination of things that have produced a high tension atmosphere, the host is shot while in the company of a woman whose husband is jealous.

While the coroner and police officers are making an investigation, which results in virtually every one of the party being suspected, the body disappears, making the crime all the more perplexing.

The sensation thus created is at its height when there comes a disclosure that starts the story toward a hilarious ending, after a few startling revelations are made.

Toys With Military Suggestion

Returning to Favor in Europe

LONDON (AP)—Medieval knights in shining armor have taken the place of the little tin soldiers which were popular here prior to 1914. After the war, toy soldiers all but disappeared from the shops, not only in England, but in many countries on the continent, particularly Germany and Austria, and in their stead came little tinny boys and other leaded figures of agriculture.

Models of cows and horses, ducks and chickens and terra cotta to scale have been displayed quite generally. Hunting scenes, with the huntsman in bright colors on horse, foxes, hedges, ditches and other suggestions of the country have been an display this spring on a larger scale than heretofore, but the demand of the public for the knights suggestive of the troublous days of the twelfth century indicates, say the toy dealers, that war playthings are again coming into favor.

Story of Pilgrim's Progress

Found in Translation of Psalms

SEATTLE (AP)—An old Testament translation of Psalms has been found in four of the psalms by Dr. Herbert H. Gowen, professor of oriental languages and literature at the University of Washington.

Dr. Gowen's translation differs from the standard one. He says he has preserved as nearly as possible the original meter of the Old Testament songs and his diligent combed the four chants into a continuous story of the pilgrim's return to the Promised Land.

"The conception behind the four psalms, which begin with the 120th was the return of the Jewish exiles from Babylonian captivity," Dr. Gowen said. "The joy of the returning captives as they noticed the towers of their native land and the towers of Jerusalem is reflected in the songs."
