

ORDINANCE ON PARKING READ TWICE

Parallel-to-Curb System May Be Adopted in La Grande

CITY DADS AWAIT MOTORISTS' IDEAS

Many Good Features of Plan Pointed Out at the Commission Meeting Last Night.

If the plan meets with the approval of La Grande motorists, this city will adopt the parallel parking plan now in use in Portland, Seattle, Seattle, The Dalles and other cities in the northwest.

The ordinance, in brief, calls for parking of cars parallel with the curbs and provides that no car shall be parked nearer than four feet to the car ahead or behind.

Good Features Pointed Out. The ordinance is not supplied with an emergency clause and, if adopted, would not go into effect for 30 days after final passage.

- 1. Would give La Grande a parking system like the greater share of cities of the northwest. 2. Would give more driving room in the streets, especially on Adams avenue which is a part of the Old Oregon Trail and carries a great deal of through traffic. 3. Would give fire trucks more room.

SOAP KING IS CALLED TODAY

LONDON (By the Associated Press)—Viscount Leverhulme, aged 73 years, industrial leader and millionaire "soap king" died of pneumonia today after a brief illness.

From this humble beginning he became one of England's greatest industrial capitalists. Lord Leverhulme—multi-millionaire "soap king." His factories and enterprises have followed the British flag over the earth, from Port Sunlight, his model English village to the Congo, to China, South Africa, Australia, the United States and Switzerland.

Four years after William Lever began cutting soap he had won promotion to a clerical job in the factory, and when he married two years later every one who knew him thought that he had settled down for life.

Part of it was spent in creating his model works and model town of Port Sunlight. With its quaint old English style houses, red tiled roofs and latticed windows, its gardens and tree-lined streets, Port Sunlight is one of the marvels of industrial England. The houses are rented to employees of the factory for $2 a month.
