ing the first year of life," Dr. Stricker says. "There is nothing inevitable about this mortality. Much of it is no more necessary than that which occurs from diarrhea and enteritis and which has been shown to be amenable to health work."

"The death rate," he continued, "can be reduced by following these essentials: skilled care of the mother before, after and during the birth of the baby; intelligent feeding; fresh air day and night; scrupulous attention to cleanliness; regular hours of sleep; formation of good habits from the first."

Death Rate Diminishes

The death rate in the first year of life has diminished from 56.3 per thousand births to 33.3. The infant death rate has also decreased rapidly in the last few years and at present Oregon has one of the lowest records in the United States.

The fact is, however, that of every 100 babies born in Oregon, 53 die before they reach one year of age. In other words, more than one in twenty die in their first year of life.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—

F. L. Kent, agricultural statistician of the U. S. department of agriculture, says the wheat crop of this year in Oregon will be even lower than the light crop of last year. He estimated that more than one-half of the acreage seeded last fall has either been reseeded to spring wheat or other spring-sown crops, and that the condition of the remaining acreage is probably the lowest in the history of large scale wheat growing. The percentage figure being placed at 55 per cent of normal.

Mr. Kent says the conditions of the United States crop is placed at 68.7 per cent of normal, compared with 85 a year ago, and the five-year average of 81.2; that indications are that the production will amount to about 47,433,000 bushels, compared with 59,927,000 bushels a year ago, or a decrease of about 116,000,000 bushels.

Housing Experts to Help Middle Classes

NEW YORK (AP)—The need of proper housing for people of the middle class, for intellectual workers, will come up for serious study this summer at Paris. The subject will be given primary consideration at the International Congress of Building and Public Works to be held in the French capital June 15-19, according to Willard Reed Messenger, of New York, who recently inaugurated a movement for better housing for intellectual workers in the United States following his investigations abroad.

"The conference will be under the patronage of the French premier and other high officials and participants will be entertained by the president of the republic," says Mr. Messenger.

"Detailed comparisons will be made of the different methods of different nations to combat the housing shortage. All new means and methods to reduce costs of building will be considered, and a practical constructive program fostered."

The same policy has been adopted by the highway board throughout the state and some land has been acquired along the road over the Blue Mountains. More will be bought as rapidly as negotiations can be closed.
