African Butterflies Migrate Annually to Distant Arctic Circle

LONDON (AP)—The Painted Lady butterfly is an odd bird. It migrates over sea and land as far as the Arctic circle, according to scientific researchers. These butterflies in great numbers have been known to make journeys from Turkey to England.

C. B. Williams, chief entomologist of the Egyptian ministry of agriculture, who has been studying the habits of the Painted Lady for several years, gave an account of his work in a recent issue of Nature. The butterfly of this species, he believes, originates somewhere in the south or southeast of the long line of desert stretching across North Africa and Asia Minor, 2000 or 3000 miles from England. They leave the desert early in the spring and arrive in the vicinity of the southern shores of the Mediterranean usually about April.

From Palestine they appear to fly through Syria and Turkey to the Balkan states, and from Egypt, Tripoli and Algeria they cross to southern Europe. All during the flight struggles and workings are dropped out of the swarms and left behind.

By the more hazy lines England is reached late in May or early in June. Scotland a week or so later, and here many of them spend the summer. The Painted Lady, those which originate in the desert country, have been seen in Iceland in July, some 4000 miles from their starting place.

Whether in crossing the great stretches of water they continue flying all night or rest on floating masses in the water has not yet been determined. Neither is it known, so far as Mr. Williams was able to ascertain, whether a return journey is made.

A little night off now and then is refreshed by his married men.

The long dollar

THEY say a tight man squeezes his dollar until he makes "the eagle scream."

A wise man makes his dollar stretch. He buys—but he buys wisely, making every dollar go a long way.

He knows that the purchasing power of a dollar has shrunk considerably in the last ten years. He also knows there has never been a time when wise buying paid bigger dividends.

Every day, this newspaper contains information that you should have to increase your buying power. The advertisements are intimate little lessons in every-day economy. They teach you how, when and for what your dollar will go farthest.

Manufacturers and merchants tell of their products through the advertisements. Almost every new opportunity is offered through an advertisement. Practically every unusual buy is advertised.

You can stretch your dollar to its elastic limit by keeping abreast of the opportunities to get full value.

THE ADVERTISEMENTS WILL HELP YOU MAKE YOUR MONEY GO FAR

FOUR SENIORS WILL GRADUATE

COVE (Special)—The baccalaureate services were held at the L. D. B. church Sunday evening. Music was furnished by the community chorus and the sermon was delivered by Mrs. Zuley. The four seniors, Lucile Peck, Gladys Dixon, Daisy Breckers, and Claude Harford occupied the seat of honor. The church was decorated with lilacs. Commencement exercises will be Friday evening, May 15, at the hall.

Mothers' day was observed at the various churches with appropriate services. Miss Nina Conley rendered a very beautiful solo at the Methodist Episcopal church. After the services at the Baptist church the members of the congregation enjoyed a picnic dinner at Warm Springs. At 2 o'clock a baptismal service was conducted.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ames are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hefty. They have been spending the winter at Los Angeles, Calif., and are now en route to their home in Grand Valley, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Payne, Mrs. Edna Conklin and daughter, Gladys, of Walla Walla, Wash., spent Sunday at Cove at the home of Mrs. Lou Payne.

Miss Dorothy Del Bean, of Ilwaco, Oregon, an O. A. C. graduate, has been added to the Cove teaching staff. The faculty now reads as follows: Professor C. E. Cook, Mrs. Beadie Fletcher and Miss Dorothy Del Bean for the high school, and for the grade school, Mrs. J. E. Milk, Miss Grace Gayette, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Violet Bloom and Mrs. Helen Conklin.

Bible Student Prepares For Oriental Research

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Raymond P. Dougherty, professor of Biblical literature at Goucher college, has been appointed annual professor of the American Schools of Oriental Research at Jerusalem and Bagdad for 1925-26. He has been granted a year's leave of absence by the local institution, and will leave for the near east the latter part of July.

Dr. Dougherty said his work will include lecturing and field work along archaeological lines, with special time given to a study of the topography of the land and an examination of mounds with the possibility of identifying sites of ancient cities. The new appointment is well known for his work in the translation of Babylonian tablets.

New Montana Law Permits Killing of Wild Range Horses

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Wild horse roundups planned under the new law passed by the legislature last week, which was held tonight on sentimental grounds by old-time stockmen and ranchers in the legislature, is designed to rid sections of the state of the small, wild range horses, commonly designated as cayuses, which are considered by stockmen as utterly worthless.

Farmers complain that bands of these horses, when range feed gets poor, sweep down upon the unfenced pasture lands in the agricultural districts, break down fences and damage growing crops. The livestock department estimates that there are 400,000 head of these wild horses on the Montana range.

Under the new county commissioners, upon sufficient petition, may designate a roundup foreman, who organizes a drive, impounds the horses gathered, records their brands if any, and causes the publication of a notice under which owners may redeem such stock as they wish by payment of a small fee. The remainder are destroyed.

There is a market for about 2000 head of these horses annually. They are bought by an eastern concern to be slaughtered and the choice pieces of the meat prepared for export. Fertilizer and dog food are by-products.

It has been reliably stated that the amount of food consumed by Montana's worthless cayuses would sustain 2,000,000 head of sheep and 300,000 head of cattle annually.

rattled cattle along the Mexican border. One evening he was talking with me in a cafe on the Avenida, when the question of the year of the "A. H. H." strike came up. "I think it was in 1924," said Bob. "Yes," after a moment's reflection. "I know it was because that was the year they chased me out of Texas for killing a man, and the strike was going on at that time."

Why is it that Americans break more laws than any civilized people? asked ex-Governor Hatley of Missouri in a recent speech before the American Law Institute. Then, answering his own question, the ex-governor said the trouble is with our criminal courts—they let folk break the laws and "get away with it."

Dr. Charles H. Mann, talking before the American Council of Education, of which he's director offered a different explanation. His theory is that Americans violate more laws than any other nationality because they have so many more to violate.

If a penniless criminal falls into the law's hands he's in hard luck, Hatley says, but the one with money turns his case into a game between his lawyers and the prosecution and wins, provided he's had sense enough to provide himself with a better legal battery than the opposition.

If the American people are controlled by a fact they don't like, observes Dr. Mann, they pass a law changing the fact. Only facts can't be changed in reality, adds the doctor.

This wasn't a debate between Hatley and Mann. It simply happened they got onto the same subject at the same time at two entirely different meetings in Washington.

A painters' strike is on here. Word came into union headquarters that 88 men were painting a big house in New Hampshire avenue. An agent hastened to the spot. "What's that?" he demanded.

"That," said the foreman, "is the Italian embassy—foreign territory," he added, foreign embassies and legations are supposed to be like, observes Dr. Mann, they pass a law changing the fact. Only facts can't be changed in reality, adds the doctor.

What's the matter with the officials recognized it, when they attention was called to the fact, and didn't interfere.

The Old Town Scintillates When Oxford Boys Doll Up

OXFORD, Eng. (AP)—For several years past, Oxford men of adventure character have been experimenting with new fashions in evening clothes. They have tried coats without tails, and coats with white lapels, and double-breasted coats with knee breeches but always in vain.

At last a new style has been accepted. Young Oxford men of means and spirit now go out at an evening in silk stockings, light knee breeches, blue or purple velvet jackets and cream silk shirts with tails, tied at the throat and the cuffs.

While the fashion is not greatly suitable for subway or rainy evening wear it is destined to be more picturesque and a vast deal more pleasing than the "old dress" which they characterize as the height of last century. The crowd should excuse me, mankind when he steps out for a bit of an evening.
