BUCKS WIN SUNDAY'S GAME, 13-4

by Imprestos, etc. Well, that's what the awful eighth inning was—with La Grande spectators filled with awe.

It was then that murderer's row really got into action. The score was 5 to 1 when Pendleton came to bat but it didn't stay that way long. After two outs had been made a terrific rally started just after Harstad had been given his second free pass to first. Clark singled, Jones doubled, Dunlap and Hodges tripled, Hargett singled, Taylor singled, Olsen walked and then Lind, formerly of Walla Walla, hit a neat homer. And all the while Pendleton runners were spring over home plate with an abandon that was "profoundly impressive." Seven hits netted nine runs—snuff out.

Rally Nets Three Runs.
La Grande, although submerged under a deluge of runs, was not broken in spirit. In its half of the ninth Cunningham started off a nice little rally with a single. An error put Lind on first and Knight, following Cunningham's cut, hit safely. So did Hartman and three runs were finally added to the homecoming one made in the seventh. But that was all that could be gathered.

It was a bitter pill to take but it had, at that, more sugar coating than the one Walla Walla swallowed from Dr. Baker.

WEST RANGES SHOW DECIDED IMPROVEMENT

Spring losses on both cattle and sheep heavier than usual. Stocks of hay on farms are quite low.

OREGON—Ranges show material improvement due to favorable temperature and moisture conditions with prospects good. Cattle and sheep are in good condition. Beef prices a little stronger.

IDaho—Timely rains all month kept pastures and ranges growing nicely. Sheep and lambs doing well and headed for upper ranges. Showing nearly finished. Wood market dull. Cattle look thin due to short feeding to during winter and entered the spring range rather weak. Moisture and irrigation water supplies excellent and stockmen are optimistic over the grazing outlook.

NEW ORLEANS (Special)—Most coincident with the arrival of the first white colonists in America, the practice of marking lumber, one of the most necessary and universally used commodities in the life of the people, has been put on the basis of a definitely identified quality product.

This innovation in the lumber industry has been achieved by the Southern Pine Association, which

FRENCH TO OFFER DEBT PROPOSALS

The action of this government, directed Saturday, in advising nine debtor powers that it desired funding proposals from them, was expected generally to develop into more than a question of settlements between the United States and the nations to which it made war and post-war loans. Belief prevailed that the American government taking a positive stand after three years of waiting, there would be a stir among all of the inter-armed debtors and creditors looking to a general disentanglement of debts.

Negotiations Expected
Immediate proposals from all of its debtors are not expected by the American government, its view, as expressed in responsible quarters, being that some of them will respond instead of proffer on which preliminary conventions can be arranged. Confidence is felt, however, that an important start will be made when any one of the allied powers submits a proposition for conversion of the demand notes held by this government into bonds with fixed rates and dates of payment.

Eleventh Century Coffins Found
In Restoration of English Church

LEICESTER, Eng. (AP)—During restoration work on Dunlup Church, Leicestershire, three dates back to Saxons times, three of the eleventh century windows were uncovered. Under the floor were found two coffins of children of the Danvers Butler family, ancestors of the present Earl of Lanesborough, whose county seat is at Swinstead Hall.

An interesting connection with Swinstead also is the tombstone of Sir Joseph Danvers who died nearly 20 years ago. It is said to be the only instance in England where half the grave is in a church yard and half in unconsecrated ground. Sir Joseph had instructed his son to bury him in this fashion, so that when the last trumpet was sounded he should be able to arise on the Judgment Day upon his own land.

An Optimist

Mrs. Mary Paige, 107, says "people are kinder today than they used to be and the world is getting better all the time." She lives with her daughter, 32, at Joliet, Ill., and is still able to assist with the housework. Her husband died at the age of 105.

Hard Times in Scotland Strip Famous Castles

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP)—Many of the picturesque castles of Scotland are gradually disappearing or at least being stripped of their articles of historic interest, despite efforts on behalf of various individuals and organizations to preserve them for future generations. The most recent to be invaded by the auctioneers is Slains Castle, on the Aberdeenshire coast, where the Earl of Erroll, hereditary high constable of Scotland, held their state. Most of the castle owners have been forced to sell the ancient dwellings because of high taxes and the cost of upkeep.

Before the war Slains Castle counted among its visitors the Earl of Oxford and his family, who spent a summer there. In 1914 Dame Clara Butt and her husband made a stay of several months. Recently, however, the castle has been uninhabited, and now the last of its furnishings have been sold under the auctioneer's hammer. At one time the art treasures of the castles were worth thousands of pounds and its library consisted of more than 6,000 volumes. Among its manuscripts were the charters of Bruce and the paintings included works by Van Dyke, Reynolds, Gainsborough and others.

The castle stands in a unique position. A person cannot walk around it. It was "built upon the margin of the sea," so that the walls of one of the towers seem only a continuation of the perpendicular rock, the foot of which is beaten by the waves. "I would not, for my amusement, wish for a storm," wrote Dr. Johnson in his "Scottish Tour," "but as storms, whether wished for or not, will

Violence Walks Abroad In Portuguese Capital

LISBON (AP)—The population of Lisbon has fallen recently under the terrorizing influence of the Red Legion, a secret society of malefactors notorious for bomb outrages, assassinations and robberies. Several groups of these bandits have, during the last few weeks, carried out their exploits in broad daylight, entering the principal national banks and demanding, with pointed pistols, large sums of money, and imposing silence by threats of vengeance on the clerks and their families.

A few days ago, in a busy thoroughfare, a collector was assaulted and robbed of his bag containing several thousand pounds. While two men attacked the collector, others discharged pistols, effectively covering the retreat of the attacking party to a side car, in which they made their escape.

As these repeated occurrences are being carried out without immediate intervention of the police, and without arrests being made, the newspapers have condemned the negligence of the police. Now, however, the authorities have arrested the principal persons implicated in the assault on the collector and several other members of the Red Legion. At the same time all the newspapers print a statement from the commissioner general of police in which he protests against the injustice of the references made to this corporation. He affirms that the impunity of the criminals is due of the terror and cowardice of the victims, who refuse to lay complaints against them.

As soon as the members of the Red Legion were arrested dynamite bombs exploded in various quarters of the city, fortunately causing no loss of life, though several places of business have suffered severely, one of them being completely destroyed.
