Burglary Insurance

You may never experience a robbery—the valuables in your home may be as safe as if they were in a vault—but you can never be sure.

If your home is entered tonight and you lose a hundred dollars worth of silver, jewelry or clothes, can you afford the loss?

A burglary policy protects you against all but the sentimental losses. Ask us about it—the cost is small.

Opulent Home Field For Moving Pictures Stirs German Pride

BREITLIN, (AP)—There is a good light on in the motion picture world, the Germans say. The market, America leads in the contest of present, but English, as well as German, producers are showing determination not to let this situation pass indefinitely. German film business people, the rich home market and are endeavoring to make it thrive.

Germany is regarded as the most potential picture market in the world outside of the United States, for it admits a large, homogeneous and literate population. It has many good sized cities. It has plenty of excellent theatres and concert halls. It is a country with fine roads, houses and nearly all the modern conveniences. Poland, France and Austria, all with populations exceeding those contained in the German Empire.

Portents have been sent to England, Italy, Germany, and Sweden in the picture business. Bankers have looked producers heavily on hand of the producers who are not only making several million dollars but are also making a fortune and drawing into their sphere massive films which were supposed to be equal to American productions have failed to catch on.

The producers looked with a national rather than an international point of view, and found that even if their films went to their home country, they were not a success story.

America was the market they were all pitching for. It is more than all the rest of the world to picture producers. But the Americans refused to look at what the European films offered to them, and did not find funny the comic made in Europe.
