Paris who knew the Theres in 1905-06 will remember him, John Bohnanks, who came to the club the same year that Ty Cobb did, of all the players in the American league then, just two remain, Cobb and Walter Johnson, and Bohnanks has vivid memories of each.

Bohnanks, who lives at Bellevue near here and pitches for the Bellevue United States team, recalls Johnson's first game in the American league and says that Walter's spoked shoes were the cause of the young rookie's defeat in that contest.

Walter was only 19, just a kid, when he pitched for Washington against Detroit in that sudden big league game of his," Bohnanks said.

"He had never worn spoked shoes until that day, always preferring rubber shoes.

"When he got on the field he easily stumbled all over himself. He wasn't used to the shoes. But he could pitch, and the score was three to nothing in favor of Washington in the seventh, with none of our boys hitting.

Coolidge Expected to Be Candidate in 1928

(Continued from Page One) he's permitted this information to leak out through "administration spokesmen" — which is the way presidents transmit to the public information they wish disseminated but prefer not to articulate personally.

It's doubtful if a single politician in Washington isn't certain the president would have announced it already, if he didn't want another term. He isn't an uncommunicative man at all.

There are plenty of good reasons why he shouldn't say he does want it, if he does. There's no imaginable reason why he shouldn't say he doesn't want it, if he doesn't. On the contrary, in the latter event, he could clear the ground and improve his party's prospects by expressing himself.

The question, "Can he get another term?" is different. If he'll take his chances with the voters. And if this were 1928 he could get the nomination.

The old line Republican leaders don't like him but the voters certainly do. While that lasts the old liners will have to go on making the best of it.

If, however, he loses his hold on the voters, by any chance, the party leaders will be tickled to death to throw him overboard. In other words, they won't let him have the 1928 nomination.

He won't be like Taft, who, when he lost his grip on the voters, still held it on the party leaders.

If, then, the country still seems as well disposed toward Coolidge three years hence as today, he'll have everything his own way in the 1928 convention, and assuredly he'll help himself to a renomination.

Maybe he'll be as popular then as he is now. Then again, maybe he won't. Three years is a long time for public sentiment to stay put in a republic like this.

Something may happen. Or perhaps the people will fire so much conservatism, without anything in particular happening. In that event—if he loses enough of his popularity — Coolidge will be eliminated automatically.

The old line Republican leaders won't try to force him on the electors. The electorates forced him on them last time. But if he lives and keeps his health and doesn't get a renomination, it won't be because he doesn't want it.

The politicians are just pretending to wonder about him — and wishing they had a little better reason for doing it.

Free Mail Delivery Extended EUGENE, Ore.—Announcement has been made that 40 additional blocks in the outskirts of Eugene will have free mail delivery service from this date on.

The 13 letter carriers and two parcel post carriers will serve this territory until fall when several new carriers are expected to be appointed, according to Darwin H. Yoran, postmaster.

Quarantine Is Modified MELBROOK, Ore.—County Agent Cate announced that California quarantine regulations had been modified so that Jackson county potatoes may now be shipped provided they have been inspected before shipment.

He said a quarantine certification had been made for Jackson and Josephine counties permitting them to ship cherries into California.
