Woman Surprises Her Friends

"After a spell of Typhoid Fever 7 years ago I began to suffer from indigestion and gas in my stomach and colic attacks. This gradually became so bad that my doctor advised an operation for gall stones. A friend advised me to try Mayer's Wonderful Remedy which I did with splendid results. My friends were astonished at my rapid improvement. I have no more bloating and can eat anything I wish. It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and always the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists.—Adv.

Swiss chard is a delicious vegetable too seldom used. The firm center of the leaves taste much like asparagus when cooked separately. The whole leaf is cooked and served like spinach and uncooked "greens" are served like lettuce or romaine. Children four or five years of age may be served chard as they would be spinach or asparagus.

Baked Timbale of Carrots.
Two cups minced cooked carrots, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 bouillon cube.

Put cooked carrots through a colander or put through the fine knife of the food chopper. Season with salt and pepper and parsley. Beat eggs slightly with salt and pepper. Heat milk and dissolve bouillon cube in it. Add to beaten eggs. Stir in the prepared carrots and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a pan of water in a moderate oven for thirty minutes or until firm. Serve in the dish in which the timbale was baked.

IMPRISONMENT URGED FOR CREDIT CRIMINAL

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The extension of credit to good people, the refusal of credit to the unstable and incompetent, and the imprisonment of the credit criminal, were urged by Secretary Hoover Tuesday, as methods of improving the credit procedure in the United States.

Stressing the enormous loss thru operation of credit criminals, the secretary told the National Association of Credit Men that he knew of "no worse waste than that which comes from commercial crime."

"We maintain credit based on character, for there is not only a large part of credit risk, but maintenance of character as a basis for credit is a stimulant to the nation. There is always a small proportion of criminals with us. They are the destructive insects who infest our commercial fabric. This sort of person is the bane of commerce. There is no greater service than to relentlessly pursue him."

Two Vacancies on Jury

CHICAGO, (AP)—Unforeseen difficulties prevented completion Tuesday of the jury to try William J. Burge Shepherd for the alleged murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson Melchinkoff. It was hoped the two vacancies on the jury would be filled Tuesday, but court was adjourned early, when the sixth appeal venire of 100 names was exhausted.

The prosecution Tuesday telegraphed three witnesses to come to Chicago immediately. They were C. A. Nordlund, of Auburn, Neb., and Stella Carson, Tilden, Iowa, expected to testify as to Shepherd's former financial status and Jerome Matillo of Indianapolis, Ind. Matillo is said to have heard Shepherd remark at Bay View, Tex., "Willie will come out of this with his pockets full." Robert E. Crowe, the state's attorney, Tuesday had named subpoenaes duces tecum for the records of Shepherd's account in one bank, and that of Mrs. Shepherd in two others.

British Inaugurate Movement to Save Village Blacksmith

HERTFORD, Eng. (AP)—Strenuous efforts are being made here and in other agricultural districts of England to save the picturesque old-fashioned village blacksmith from passing into oblivion. The south of England today is not "rolling and reaping" to draw undue attention to himself, but is "screaming" a great deal more than in the days when Langfellow idealized him—all because of the advent of the automobile and the motor tractor.

In their desire to "save" the village blacksmith the Hertfordshire county council members announced recently particulars of a plan designed to keep alive the dying industry which has been so hard hit by the modern organization of the big manufacturers and their agents who supply standardized parts of farm implements and machinery on lines of mass production. The industry of agriculture has become interested in the scheme to prevent the passing of the blacksmith and has agreed to cooperate in the movement.

Special committees appointed to investigate the plight of the smiths have reported that there are many articles in popular demand which cannot be satisfactorily produced by factory methods because of the skill and the handwork of the craftsman which should count more than mere cheapness. With a view of giving the village blacksmith a new lease on life a special exhibit has been arranged for the Herts agriculture show opening early in June where prizes will be awarded for agricultural implements, wrought iron gates, scroll work, door fittings, general utility wares, such as weather vanes and umbrellas and golf stands.

F. W. Spanght, director of the exhibit, has also proposed various other schemes designed to prevent the escape from repairing the camp.
