Mrs. Dora B. Schilke Is Called to the Beyond

then in a broader sense when she entered the grand chapter.

Almost paralyzing her work in that order was the individual interest she gave to the Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association while she was state president of that worthy organization. The Neighborhood Club, the P. E. O., the White Shrine, philanthropic organization, civic and social welfare undertakings, her church, her neighborhood troubles and enjoyments, these and a score of other local and state organizations were her joy and sorrow as the exigencies of life demanded. For several years she has been pointed out by men and women who know her as the personage who gave more for the welfare of her fellow folk than any other Oregon woman of the present decade.

Her home life was as idealistic as her public services.

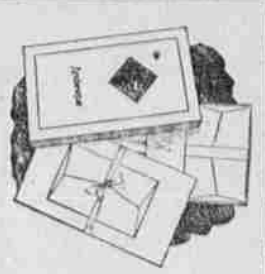

For 17 years she taught school in La Grande, much of the time in the old 2 room brick on the north side and the old white building near the present central school properties. In the meantime she was rearing her family as a dutiful wife and mother should. There lives to remember her, the husband, Fred G. Schilke, veteran railroad engineer; her daughter Edna, Mrs. Rison Dudley, of Coles, Washington, but for the past two months a constant and patient attendant at the sick bed; her daughter Miss Friederike, recently called home from her New England musical work where she went after completing her scholastic course at the University of Oregon; by her sister, Corn Verina, waitress of Salsburg, California, and her brother Dick Brown of Los Angeles.

The body will lie in state at the W. H. Holtkamp Chapel from 7 to 9 tonight.

Head of School Missing

HILLSBORO, Ore.—Harry Johnson, ex-service man, owner and operator of the Oregon Military school at Oreoc, has been missing about ten days. It is reported he visited all the parents of his students before leaving, collected many advance tuitions, and left many unpaid bills.

It is generally supposed he was heading for Canada. Father of one of the students said that his son told him they had been seeing nothing but macaroni and bread for a week, which apparently were the only provisions left at the school.

106 Blooms on Stalk

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—A freak blossom spike of Mount Hood lilacs, on which appeared 106 perfectly shaped blooms, created considerable attention when exhibited here.

The stalk was picked by Mrs. Mary Spangler in her flower garden. The stalk of the mountain lilac is ordinarily round. The spike on which the blooms appear, however, is flat, more than a quarter of an inch thick and 30 inch and a half wide.

Oranges and lemons are said to contain stored sunlight, while juce contained distilled moonshine.

GRANGE MEET AT WALLOWA

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special)—Wallowa grange held a very successful meeting here Saturday afternoon, with a fair sized crowd of members in attendance, this is the first meeting which has been held for several weeks, due to the extreme busy season. Arrangements were completed to hold only one meeting each month during the balance of the summer and fall, while everyone is busy. The first of these meetings will be held June 20th in the basement of the M. E. church, the ladies of the grange have charge of this meeting, and provide some surprises for the entertainment part of the program. Dinner will be served at noon hour. The matter of ordering grain sacks and binding twine in large lots was discussed and a committee appointed to find out the needs of all farmers in their respective communities, regardless of whether they belong to the grange or not. It is hoped that at least a carload can be secured in this way, and avail farmers of the reduced prices possible by buying in large quantities. G. C. Mook, G. L. Martin, Frank Reed, H. H. Oliver, James Leonard, George Colman and Andrew Fishman were named as this committee. The matter of ordering other supplies cooperatively was also discussed.

Howard Collins was brought to the hospital here Thursday from Powalla, suffering from severe bronchitis and pneumonia. A car of lumber fell on him while working at the Harry Maughan sawmill there. He was caught by the falling lumber and was covered by it from the waist down for several minutes before fellow workers were able to get him out. He was able to be out of the hospital for a short time Saturday, but is still very sore from the bruises, and does not expect to be able to resume work for several weeks.

Mrs. Elsie Cook of Lostine was visiting relatives here at the last of the week.

Five members of the Salvation Army of La Grande, were here Saturday afternoon and held a short service in the street. The program was enjoyed by a good sized crowd. They expected to hold short services at some of the other towns of the valley during the afternoon.

"Wise Worms" Active

Farmers from various sections of the county report the wire worms have been very active during the past two weeks, while the weather has been damp and cold. Considerable damage has resulted to spring sown grain and gardens, and farmers are hoping warm weather will come soon.

The hay crops in the valley section have made a very slow growth during the cool weather of the past few weeks, and indications are at this time, that unless warm weather comes soon the first cutting of alfalfa will be quite short. Several bands of sheep have been moved through the Whiteley creek section during the past few days going to summer range. Some of the sheep are in poor condition, especially those which have been shipped here from other parts of the country. Good grass is reported from practically all range sections.

The Sunday school which was organized several weeks ago at the Willow Springs school house, in the Dry creek section, is reported to have proved very successful, as a large turnout is reported each Sunday. Plans are being made for a picnic dinner to be given next Sunday.

Engine Gastin went to Powalla the first of the week, to look after some stock they have on summer range there.

Farmers were able to begin work in the fields the latter part of the week. Some are busy working summerfall at this time, and others finishing plowing.

CORVALLIS MAN SUICIDE

CORVALLIS, Ore.—H. G. Anthony, known here as "Tommy the Tailor," ended his life with a revolver, which he placed in his mouth, sending the bullet through his brain. He left a note saying, "Life is a failure, but I am not afraid of death." He also left word to notify J. W. Morehouse, Santa Monica, Cal.

Mr. Anthony had lived in Corvallis 11 years. He had been married twice. He left no relatives that anyone here knows about. He enjoyed a good business. The body is being held waiting word from California.

Federation of Music Clubs Awards 2 Prizes to Texas

PORTLAND, (AP)—Texas was awarded two prizes in the national membership-extension contest in the National Federation of Music Clubs, Mrs. Cecil Frankel, Los Angeles, vice president, announced at the convention here. Texas received a prize of $100 for the state showing the most consistent growth in club membership between June, 1924, and May, 1925, and $50 for the state whose clubs showed greatest growth between January and May of this year.

'ALIEN' DOOR WIDE OPEN ON BORDER

at into Canada.

I was about half-way in the line of passengers as we reached Detroit. I assumed my best accent. I reached the inspector.

He gave me a quick up-and-down glance.

"Where are you from?" he asked.

"Chicago," I heard my accent.

"How long have you lived in America?" "All my life." "All right, next." "Repeats Four Times." The same thing happened on the next four trips. Only once did my accent arouse interest, and then not enough to make the inspector question me further. He merely gave me another up-and-down glance.

I talked with other passengers on the ferry, one who crosses frequently. He told me that in cases of doubt of American residence, the inspector's chief test to determine if the passenger is telling the truth is to examine his clothing.

"If his suit has an American label it proves he's an American citizen and he passes," said this passenger.

If an alien in Windsor wants to enter he could do just as I did. If his friends had provided him with American clothes, if he looked all right and answered their questions quickly the inspectors would pass him as they did me—five times. Remedies. What are the remedies for this situation? Dr. P. L. Prentiss, district immigration service director, has them: The same rigid standards of examination should prevail here as at Ellis Island.

If this cannot be worked out, regular visas for all ferry passengers, with photographs affixed, should be established. This would entail no great hardship on the regular user of the ferries, Dr. Prentiss said, and would prevent guess work and give the inspectors a chance for orderly examination.

There should be more inspectors and better paid ones. Co-operation by Canadian authorities, who put no check on aliens' movements, would help.
