Zane Grey Cowboy Typical Mix Role.

Tom Mix fits the role of Jim Lassiter in his latest William Fox production, "Riders of the Purple Sage," so perfectly that it seems Zane Grey must have had the cowboy here in mind when he wrote this, his greatest novel. It is a typical Mix role, with ample opportunities for Tony, his wonder horse, to share in the daring deeds of his master.

"Riders of the Purple Sage" will come to the Star Theatre for a 3 days commencing today. It is a picturesque romance of the West of forty years ago. Mix plays the role of a chivalrous soft-spoken cowboy who comes riding forth to avenge his sister, kidnapped by an unscrupulous lawyer.

Pausing in his quest for his sister's abductor, Mix wins the love of a girl rancher while protecting her from the prosecution of a villainous cattleman who wants to marry her. Triumphing over a crooked judge, Mix learns he has revenged himself on the man who wronged his sister.

This romantic role shows Mix to best advantage. There are many thrilling episodes in which he displays his superb horsemanship, his skill with the lariat and his quickness in handling a brace of six-shooters.

The charming Mabel Ballin plays the role of the girl rancher, and Marina Nixon, a graceful figure in boy's clothes, gets the part of Lassiter's niece. Beatrice Burnham does a dramatic bit of acting as Lassiter's sister. Harold Goodwin is the gallant young cowboy who aid Lassiter in defense of the ranch.

Arch villains of the play are Warner Oland, Charles LeMoyne, and Wilfred Lucas. Fred Kohler, Charles Newton and Joe Bickem are lesser villains. Arthur Morrison plays the part of Lassiter's brother-in-law. Sessel Anne Johnson and Dawn O'Day, chubby little screen actors, have diverting roles.

Sherrys Showing "Prairie Wife," An Unusual Film.

A most unusual picture is offered in "The Prairie Wife," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release, produced and directed by Hugo Ballin.

"The Prairie Wife" is a screen adaptation of the novel of Arthur Stringer, and tells an interesting story of the struggles and hardships of a cultured eastern girl who marries a young engineer and goes to live with him on his prairie homestead.

Told with simplicity, feeling and a great deal of humor, "The Prairie Wife," is indeed something different in the way of pictures. It is told in a series of interesting incidents in the life of the young couple, rather than in a detailed plot.

Dorothy Devore, clever young comedienne, who has been starred in comedies for several years, steps out into drama with the leading role in this picture and proves that her long training in lighter pictures has given her excellent background for dramatic work. She is an appealing winsome young miss, with a feeling for drama as well as comedy.

Herbert Rawlinson provides excellent contrast to the delicate Miss Devore, as her virile husband does his usual good work.

Comedy showing "Don't Pinch."

Big 8-Star Cast in "One Year to Live" Coming to Arcade.

The process of careful selection was no doubt employed by M. C. Levee when he assembled the cast of "One Year to Live," the new First National picture which is coming the Arcade Theatre Saturday.

Eight stellar players, new and old claimants of great picture popularity, will bring to the screen performances that compare with, and perhaps supersede, the best known to filmdom.

Guided by Director Irving Cummings, himself a former matinee idol of the stage and leading man of the films, the histrionism races neck to neck with inspiration.

Aileen Pringle, whose worth as a feminine lead is established, is as much beloved by stage followers as film fans. Her appearance with George Arliss in "The Green Goddess" on Broadway is still a vivid memory, but that will be supplanted by her characterization of Elise Duchanier in "One Year to Live."

As a beautiful French girl who is told by her physician that she has but one year to live, and proceeds to live it in her own startling way, Miss Pringle will prove a revelation.

Antonio Moreno, whom Rex Ingram has formed the "Original screen sheik," will have the role of Tomi Hendrick, an American army officer for whom the French girl makes love an eternity during the few weeks of her allotted life. Moreno will be seen in one of the most stirring portrayals of his career.

To Dorothy Mackaill, also a star in her own right, has fallen the part of Marthe Duchamin, invalid sister of the unfortunate Elise. If stardom had never before been visited upon Miss Mackaill, it would be certain to come to her now as a distinct result of a marvelous bit of acting in "One Year to Live."

The statuesque Rosemary Theby will come to the fore again as a Circe with her interpretation of Lolette, a celebrated Parisian dancer, and Joseph Kilgour will temper a high order of villainy with a higher order of the acting for which he has become famous.

Rose Dione and Sam De Grasse familiar to admirers of ability as characterizers of no small power, will also be seen making "One Year to Live" a lasting memorable triumph. Miss Dione has been given the part of Nanette and Sam De Grasse that of M. Lapierre.

As the theatre janitor, Chester Conklin will prove a surprise to all. The surprise will consist of the first dramatic part for this former Mack Sennett comedian. The laughable Conklin, four inch mustache and all, will be serious in spite of his reputation and as humorous as the part of the janitor permits.

A London doctor has found the microbe causing mumps. It should be punished severely.

Gets Pleasant Surprise

"About 6 months ago my father was very sick with his stomach, which had been troubling him for several years. Three doctors said he had cancer and one said it was gall stones—all agreed an operation necessary, but on account of his age, I was afraid to risk it. I told a friend about it who said his wife had been through the same trouble and had been cured by taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I at once bought a bottle for father and he is now as strong as a bear and can eat more ham and cabbage than any three men." It removes the catarrhal mucous from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists. —Adv.

EUGENE PLUMBERS OUT

EUGENE, Ore.—(Special).—All union plumbers in Eugene walked out on strike here, demanding a wage scale of $8 a day instead of $7.

Boss plumbers went to work immediately after the strike was declared and are endeavoring to carry on during the time a settlement is pending. The former scale of wages for union men was $7 a day, although in some shops employes were receiving $8. These men, it was understood, also walked out in sympathy with their striking fellow workers, and also in recognition of union shop rules.

Efforts were being made to bring the employers and union officials together to arbitrate the dispute, it was stated tonight.
