lished list has not yet been compiled.

Financial Success.

With the crowd yesterday fully as large as on the second day, the show came out financially successful, according to William Vogel, manager. Mr. Vogel reports that he received for the association many compliments on the clean, moral nature of the three days of the show. The rough element, so often contended with at similar shows, was almost entirely lacking and little drinking and carousing was observed.

A count made yesterday at the track showed that about 700 head of horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry were on exhibit, which is believed to be the largest number ever exhibited at a show in Eastern Oregon.

Prizes Awarded.

In the evening, before the final dance, trophies were awarded at a program at the Union hotel with Dr. W. T. Phy presiding. Addresses were made by O. M. Plummer, of the Pacific International Livestock show of Portland, Robert Withycombe, Eva Dineen, S. E. Miller, Prof. Norby and Mr. Vogel.

In the grade dairy class, with 23 entries, Vern Bean was given first prize, a registered Holstein bull, given by Dr. W. T. Phy. Second prize a pure bred Jersey heifer was awarded to J. R. Roberts of Cove and third prize went to Jacob Kohler.

Insomnia Conquered, Says Young Inventor

LONDON (AP).—Only the old-fashioned folk will go on counting phantom sheep as an inducement to sleep if half of the claims are realized of the inventor of a new machine designed to relieve insomnia victims of all their bothers.

This novel contrivance which was recently patented by a young Cheshire inventor after four years of experimenting, represents an attempt to adapt the science of chromopathy, or relief by colors to the treatment of sleeplessness. The user of the apparatus, upon going to bed, places the sleep producing machine, which in many ways has the appearance of a wireless receiving set, upon a nearby table, and presses intermittently at a switch which is held in his hand. This causes rays of 12 different colors to flash from the machine in a pre-arranged sequence, and it is the effect of this combination of colors upon the retina of the eye that is supposed to induce sleep for even the most restless persons.

Many stubborn cases of sleeplessness are declared to have been overcome in periods varying from 10 to 15 minutes, and furthermore, the inventor contends that by the use of his apparatus he is able to put an ordinary person to sleep at almost any time during daylight. The rays have no ill effect whatever, says the inventor, on the eyesight.

REPORTS OF AGENCIES DUN'S

NEW YORK (AP)—Dun's today says:

"The breaking of the unprecedented hot spell, which had adversely affected crops and repressed business activities in many directions, brought much needed relief.

"Mills that had been forced to suspend of curtail operations were able to resume previous schedules while the fall in temperature with rains in some sections was helpful to agriculture. The government's June wheat report, however, indicates the smallest harvest in eight years and in some commercial channels this disappointing prospect has led to greater caution in making forward commitments. Yet present trade conditions do not differ essentially from those of recent weeks, being marked by many irregularities and contrasts, but also by a number of strong points and by confidence in the future.

Buenos Aires Prepares Welcome For Prince

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—When the Prince of Wales see Buenos Aires by night for the first time, he may wonder whether he is a prince of the Arabian Nights, and what genii have transformed this southern metropolis into a dazzling fairyland of light and beauty to do him honor.

Buenos Aires is famed for its extravagance in illumination and decoration to celebrate carnival and national holidays, every year outdoing what was done the year before. It staged, perhaps, the most wonderful display of illumination ever seen in any city on the occasion of the visit of the Italian prince last year, and now for the visit of the scion of English royalty, it is preparing to break the record again.

Millions of multicolored electric light globes will be used. They will outline the government house, the capitol, all public edifices and hundreds of office buildings and institutions. The Avenida de Mayo, which is Buenos Aires' Broadway, will be a gleaming bower of electric garlands and arches, placed every half block. The many parks and plazas of the city will be planted with artificial columns joined with lacelike ribbons of light, and the walks and flower beds will be outlined with lights set in the ground. Electric lights, too, will flash out the flags and coats of arms of Great Britain and Argentina, placed at approximate points, and searchlights and indirect glow lights will also be used with effect.

Mingled with all will be a profuse display of streamers and flags of both countries which will make the city gay with color during the day as well as at night. Special palms will be taken in the artistic decoration of the streets leading to the mansion where the prince will live.

WHAT MAKES THE WILD CAT WILD? In this particular case Sacramento, Calif., naturalists are inclined to believe that it is the "tails." Count 'em. There are two. Otherwise the cat is a common alley cat. But it is so wild that its bowl of milk must be placed on an alley fence before the cat will touch it.

Miners Lay Plans to Circumvent Beavers

GOLDEN, B. C. (AP).—So thick and industrious have beavers become in the Windermere valley that they are seriously interfering with mining operations, according to H. E. Perlain, of Wilmer, who is developing claims on Horse Thief creek.

The beavers, by damming the creek, caused water to back up into the mine and it was some time before the reason was discovered. After a search the mine workers located a beaver dam and blew it up, but the mine immediately again filled with water. Another investigating party found that the destroyed dam had been reconstructed and reinforced in weak spots by the busy animals within 24 hours. Furthermore, some 60 saplings, cut into usable lengths, were found ready for further work on the dam.

Officials of the British Columbia game board, in an effort to overcome the difficulty, have suggested that the flume idea, evolved by the biological survey of the United States, be tried out on the creek. This is the cutting of a flume through the beaver dam so that the water will not rise above a certain point, on the theory that Mr. Beaver pays so much attention to his work that he never gives a glance upward. Though persistent as well as industrious, there is a limit to a beaver's patience and, finding that his dam does not succeed in holding the water back, he and his crew shift to some other place and begin home-making all over again.

Three years ago the game board closed the season for trapping beaver south of the Canadian Pacific railway and the animals have multiplied so rapidly that they are becoming a nuisance.
