Good Eating Assured Polar Explorers On Trip North

BOSTON, (AP)—Tea will be the preferred beverage on the steamers Peary and Bowdoin of Commander Donald B. MacMillan's Artic expedition which will sail late this month for exploration of Baffin Land, but there will be no definite restriction laid down. Coffee and cocoa will be available also in liberal quantities to the 40 men of the expedition, and even ginger ale and grape juice to a limited extent.

Commander MacMillan favors tea rather than coffee for steady consumption in the northern cold. Experience has convinced him, he said, that habitual tea drinkers keep in better condition and are better able to withstand the rigors of the Artic than coffee drinkers. In previous voyages, when he has remained in the north through the long winters, he has strongly advised the use of tea but, as the present expedition is to be a summer cruise only, he is not so insistent.

For the three months' trip the expedition will be provided with 100 pounds of tea and 200 pounds of coffee while 72 cans of condensed coffee will be carried also for emergency use, according to figures given out by Ralph Robinson, Commander MacMillan's chief assistant who is in charge of all supplies.

The commander list includes 6½ pounds of sugar and 12 cases of condensed and evaporated milk with 27 strips of bacon and a considerable supply of eggs in waterglass as a part of the breakfast menu. The two steamers will carry 1,400 pounds of flour with 200 yeast cakes, 150 pounds of lard and spices of all sorts. In addition to 350 pounds of butter, the expedition will have 50 pounds of peanut butter for a change of diet.

Other items on the supply list include 27 hams, two barrels of corned beef, eight cases each of corned beef hash, sausage, frankfurters, and Irish stew, two barrels of salt pork, 15 cases of baked beans, 14 cases of tomato and vegetable soups, 25 bushels of potatoes, eight crates onions, 25 pounds of split peas, and 35 pounds each of rice, tapioca, corn starch and molasses. Roast mutton, roast beef and plum pudding all in cans will also be available.

Approximately 100 cases of canned goods will enable the cooks to furnish string beans, tomatoes corn, peas, shelled beans, spinach, celery, pickles, peaches, pears, cherries, apricots, pineapple, black berries, loganberries, apple sauce, cranberries, currant jelly, prunes, strawberry jam, and mincemeat as desired. Dates, nuts and cheese may also be on the menu. In addition the expedition will have a generous supply of dehydrated vegetables and fruits, including carrots, turnips, onions, potatoes, apricots, pears, peaches, and apples.

One hundred boxes of chewing gum have been considered sufficient to meet the ruminant longings while tobacco (smoking and chewing), cigarettes and candy will be ready as required.

For the naval aviators who will maintain a base at Cape Thomas Hubbard for their exploring flights over Baffin Land and Crocker Land, petroleum rations will be provided for emergencies. This particular petroleum will be made of beef suet and buffalo meat from Canadian government herds.

The expedition will leave this country according to present plans about June 25, and will return late in September. Beyond this three months period, no provision has been made for supplies. "If we have to spend the winter in the north, we will have to live as the Esquimaux live," says the leader.

England Restores to Tokio Books Lost in Earthquake

LONDON (AP)—Under the chairmanship of Lord Balfour, learned men in every department of literature and science are meeting in London to choose tons of thousands of British books to replace those destroyed in the University of Tokyo during the great earthquake.

The committee was formed by the British Academy at the request of the government, and Lord Balfour was chosen as chairman because of his great knowledge of books. Already 12,000 volumes have been presented to the committee by learned institutions, publishers and private donors, and the government has now voted $125,000 for the purchase of additional books.

Watch the chicks more than the thermometer. They will show you if the temperature is right — no matter what the thermometer reads. Watch them constantly during the first week as this is the critical period, advises the O. A. C. experiment station.

Red spiders, which are likely to strike at almost any plant in Oregon from low-growing annuals to tall trees, develop most rapidly and become most harmful in dry weather. The best protection so far reported by the Oregon experiment station is dusting with sulfur. Most sulphur. Most sulphur containing insecticides are effective if applied thoroughly, and some growers use liquid sulfur solutions.

Britishers Told Of Slave Trading in Parts of Empire

LONDON (AP)—Rather a tone of uneasiness on the question of slave raiding in several parts of the world, including a suggestion that parts of the British Empire might be affected, was displayed in the House of Lords recently when several peers made demands for facts concerning the slave trade activity.

Earl Buxton started the ball rolling by asking the government whether the report upon slavery which the foreign secretary undertook to call for in 1922 had, as yet been received, and also whether the League of Nations had asked to be supplied with any available information on the subject of slavery. In northern Africa and the Far East, he said, slave raiding and trading still existed, and it was known, he alleged, that raids had been made in Kenya and the Sudan.

Lord Oliver asserted that there was a good deal of information on the subject of slavery in the possession of the government which the public had the right to know. The part in this connection, said conditions in Abyssinia were much as they had always been and slavery and slave raiding existed there today.

Replying for the government, Viscount Cecil explained that the government was eager to the utmost of its power to help in the suppression of slavery in general and slave raids in particular. The League of Nations had undertaken inquiries into this subject, he said, and one great advantage of the league was that it worked with the utmost publicity. That fact alone, it seemed to him, ought to put an end to any suspicion that the British government desired to hide in any way anything that its officials were doing in that direction.

Viscount Cecil went on to say that the government was prepared to place all its information at the disposal of the league. His information was that there had been no slave raids in Kenya, but he would cause further inquiries to be made.

Lord Gainford maintained that from information in his possession it appeared certain that raids had been made from Abyssinia and British subjects made slaves and transported across the Red Sea and through Arabia to Mesopotamia, and he could not understand why the government had no information along those lines. The subject is to be brought up again for further discussion.

Protecting Your Money

A manufacturer in an obscure little town builds a new product.

Within a year or two, thousands of women in every corner of America buy that product—and benefit by its merits.

What gives you this confidence in the value of goods made by a man perhaps thousands of miles away?

Advertising. Advertising brings you news of the new article. It tells you of its merits. It convinces you of its value. It protects your investment.

Products that are widely advertised are worthy of your faith. You buy from honest, neighborly folk when you buy from their dealers.

It pays to read the advertisements and to know advertised products. Buying them protects your money.

Every advertisement is a lesson in careful buying—read them all.
