own game by scoring Knight with a single.

The afternoon, which seemed so dark at first brightened up perceptibly after this inning and the La Grande fans felt considerably better about the whole thing.

Sensational Catch
When Baker came to bat in the third the Pirates were three runs ahead. Lefty Brandt made some of the bench warmers' axioms their own by scoring Knight with a high one out center field which threatened for a time to go over the fence. But, no, Cunningham backed up against the canvas and earned the plaudits of the multitude by making a perfect catch with one hand.

In the fourth inning the Pirates made their last run. Remembering Barth's nice hit in the third, no doubt, Brandt walked him to first. This bit of strategy was disastrous for Tom Gossett got one across his shoulder. Smack! The ball and bat met like the crack of a rifle and Barth had all kinds of time to come in while the Baker left fielder and center fielder were chasing it around in the grass. Gossett was tagged out on third base, but the score was made which

Game Protested.
Word received here in reference to the Walla Walla-La Grande game, which the "Baz" won 2 to 1 in 13 innings at home yesterday, says that Pendleton protested the game on the grounds that Walla Walla played some men whose names had not been filed in the league early enough to make them eligible.

interest should be charged on these advances.

"That where projects include land in private ownership held in excess of homestead units, development should not begin until an agreement has been reached with these owners fixing the price of that land to settlers and methods of colonization."

All government irrigation projects, Secretary Work said, should be organized into districts, managed and operated by the people living on them, who would decide all local questions themselves.

He expressed the hope that the next congress would pass legislation requiring states to assume part of the financial risk and responsibility for every new project undertaken within their borders.

"I am convinced that government aid in construction of irrigation works is fundamentally sound in theory, although its policy has failed in results," he declared. "If irrigation works are to be built on a large scale, the government must assist in it, as private enterprise will not build them because there is no margin of profit in such undertakings."

"The fact that it does not pay directly is no evidence that it has no great potential value to the government, but this value is in fertility and we must plan accordingly."

"Reclamation of arid lands is only an incident to the agricultural problem of this nation as a whole. It is the loss of the soil's fertility in every farming state that alarms me, for there is a direct dependence between fertility of the soil and fertility of the mind. Irrigation is intended to popularize 'farm life' so that the farm shall be the best honor unit and may continue to be the base supply for young men who may later become the nation's advisors."

"It is our purpose to build reclamation from the ground up. From the farmer to the government, rather than from the government to the dam and the dam to the desert."

TEN COMMANDMENTS MAY BE SHORTENED
NEW YORK (AP)—Recommendations that the word "obey" and the promise of the bridegroom to "obey" the bride with all his "wordly goods" be stricken from the marriage service, together with the optional adoption by the clergy of a shortened and more modern form of the Ten Commandments, are urged in the fourth report of the joint commission on prayer book of the Episcopal church, made public Sunday.

The report, which is to be submitted for approval to the forty-eighth triennial convention of the church at New Orleans October 2 to 23, also recommends the elimination from common prayer book of the instructional paragraph withholding from the baptized, excommunicated and schismatics the rite of the burial service.

"I'm not so doubtful whether planes can compete with ships as I am whether ships can compete with planes—in 15 or 20 years."

Martin's captancy is of the sea. A master mariner, he followed it for years. So he's an authority on ocean problems as well as those of the air.

"Are surface war fleets obsolete?" I asked.

"As the dodo," said Martin positively.

"Then the plane has supplanted the battleship?"

"Absolutely."

"But planes," I argued, "must have a base to operate from."

"So," rejoined the captain, "most battleships. They're as helpless as any craft afloat—take a mile and a half to stop, 19 minutes to get up full speed, aren't very fast at best, steer reluctantly and have to have 10 times their own number of attendant craft to safeguard and keep them supplied."

"Why, battleships," went on the captain, "hardly were used at all in the last war—had to be kept virtually inland—couldn't be trusted at sea on account of submarines. And submarines aren't safe with planes overhead.

"They can't go deep enough to hide, except in dirty water. Anywhere it's clear, an aviator can spot them and then they're lost."

"In short, a plane has no handicap that a surface ship or submarine hasn't got, and it's minus many that they have."

"The truth is," Martin concluded, "there's no defense against planes—not even other planes, if the attackers strike at night. The whole strategy in future wars will be to land the first blow."

"It's a cruel thing to say, but it must knock out an unprepared, defenseless enemy. Once knocked out, it will be beyond his power to retaliate, at any rate for a long time to come."

demonstration was a success from the onlookers' point of view. More than three thousand men participated with artillery, machine-guns, rifles and automatic rifles.

The company is to go to Crater Lake in the morning, Saturday, at 5 o'clock. It is rumored that a seven-mile hike will be made through snow to reach the lake. The Medford Chamber of Commerce is furnishing the cars for the trip. We will return to Camp Sunday afternoon. The company is looking forward to the trip.

The menu for this evening consisted of fried chicken, peas, mashed potatoes, peaches and milk. The company felt flattered when Harvey Swartz, company cook, was picked as cook for all the companies going to Crater Lake. It seems as though Conspiracy E is not to be kept down. We sincerely believe that the officers who picked the cook had excellent judgment for we certainly got plenty of well prepared food.
