Then under Branch Rickey, who had coached Sleser at Michigan. Pittsburg's claim to Sleser was declared void and he was made the property of the St. Louis club.

Since Carroll is considered to be the greatest college pitcher of the last decade, it will be interesting to see what disposition is made of his case. He is a pitcher worth fighting for.

Jack Barry, former star shortstop of the Athletics, now baseball coach at Holy Cross, is strong for Carroll. Some time ago while discussing college stars with me he commented as follows on Carroll: "Carroll is a finished pitcher. He can step right into the majors from the college field and deliver. He has everything a big league pitcher should have."

Like most major league clubs, Detroit can stand another good pitcher, incidentally, McGraw could use him as soon as the veteran Giants are going home too well.

New Architecture Spoils City's Beauty

ROME (AP)—The vandals who swept down upon Rome in the early centuries of the Christian era, destroying wantonly the great monuments of the empire, and the builders of the Middle Ages who continued the destruction by tearing down such magnificent structures as the Colosseum to obtain free stone, did less to destroy the beauty and personality of the city than modern architects and builders are doing.

This is the lament of hundreds of Italian and foreign artists and lovers of architectural beauty who complain that the curse of standardization has fallen upon modern Italian architecture. The charm of old Rome, they say, will have been sacrificed within a decade to the ill conceived idea of making the city a weak imitation of some bustling unbecomingly middle western American town.

Scores of ugly apartment houses, each like the next, with no architectural distinction, are rapidly being built in the new Prati and Ludovisi quarters and in many other sections of the city, while most of the new public buildings are distinguished only by their ugliness.

Italians do not object to the construction of houses with modern improvements, but they maintain that some effort should be made in the external decorations to conform with the already existent beautiful examples of medieval and ancient architecture.

Berlin Conductor's Leg Treated as Fractured Leg

BERLIN (AP)—Patrons of the Berliner theater have witnessed nightly the odd spectacle of the conductor, Herr Schmidt-Genator, being carried by two stalwart men into the pit and gently placed in his seat.

The conductor was injured by a fall and the first doctor who examined him diagnosed the injury as a fractured leg. The member was placed in a plaster cast, but as the intense pains continued a second doctor made an X-ray examination, but found no trace of a fracture. Instead, Herr Schmidt-Genator was suffering from gonorrhea, but he insisted upon fulfilling his contract with the theater.

"The best worker on the ranch"

"Yes, sir, that old Ford hasn't soldiered a day since I took to using this new Zerolene 'F' for Fords."

Ford owners who "tried out" Zerolene "F" for Fords when it was first put on the market have been sticking to it ever since.

Zerolene "F" for Fords is made by the Standard Oil Company's patented vacuum process. It lubricates all the bearing surfaces where oil is needed, especially the wrist-pin bearings and the upper half of the cylinder walls, which are frequently "oil-starved" when an unsuitable lubricant is used. The result is improved gasoline mileage, quicker starting and increased freedom from carbon and other motor troubles.

A Ford is an A-1 transportation investment. Protect your investment by proper lubrication.

ZANE GREY'S "Thundering Herd"

At The STAR COMMENCING FRIDAY

Mighty Adventure, Drama Epitomizes Spirit of Pioneer America

Mad Buffalo Stampede and Terrific Indian Battle, Two of Many Tremendous Scenes in Picture—Notable Cast Featured

Here is a photoplay that tells a big, vital story in a bold, startling way. "Thundering Herd" is one of the few really great epic pictures of America in the making—a worthy successor to "The Covered Wagon" and "North of 40."

Produced on the same spectacular and gigantic scale, it deals with another tremendously important period of American history. It illustrates the courage and sacrifices of those men and women who, in 1876, left their farms in Illinois and Indiana to settle the far west, which today includes the states of Wyoming and Montana. The picture vividly recreates the west as it was then—a vast wilderness ranged by great herds of buffalo and inhabited by fierce, nomadic Indians.

Much of the story was filmed on its actual locale, on locations personally selected by Zane Grey. Many of the scenes were taken in Yellowstone Park. Many others were photographed in the rugged and majestic mountains of the north—twelve thousand feet above sea level and one hundred miles from the nearest railway.

Against this picturesque and scenically beautiful background is reproduced one of the most stirring and significant chapters in "the winning of the west." Many exciting adventures fall to the lot of those hardy, red-blooded pioneers, and the picture faithfully depicts their hardships, dangers and privations.

Aside from its historical appeal, the picture is noteworthy because of its technical excellence. It has every necessary film element—action, suspense, heart-interest, romance, drama and thrills. The stampede of the buffalo is a scene never to be forgotten, and the Indian attack is one of the most realistic bits of action ever flashed on the screen. These are but two of the many super-thrills in the film.

The direction of William K. Howard is a notable achievement. Although practically a newcomer to the ranks of producers, he displays in this production a directorial shrewdness that would do credit to a veteran.

The cast is perfect and includes some of Hollywood's most popular favorites—Jack Holt, Lois Wilson, Noah Berry and Raymond Hatton.
