eral secretary, anticipates a registration of 15,000 delegates. Approximately 12,000 registrations were recorded at the last international convention held two years ago at Des Moines. The growth of the movement during the last two years and increased enthusiasm on the part of constituent groups are responsible for the increased registration, he said.

Kills Husband

MARY SKIBO (ABOVE), AND HER MOTHER, MRS. MARY SKIBO.
Mrs. Mary Skibo, 29, has confessed that she killed her husband, Frank Skibo, at Michigan City, Ind., by beating him with a crow bar as he lay in a drunken stupor. She is held on a charge of murder. But before confessing, she tried to fasten the blame on her daughter, Mary, 19, who she said had quarreled with Skibo over a loan of $4.
The girl professed her innocence, however, and police finally got Mrs. Skibo to admit the killing. She murdered Skibo, she said, because he drank, squandered his money and made her take boarders.
After keeping his body in her room for 24 hours, Mrs. Skibo laid it in an alley, where passersby found it.

They can't both be right concerning the question of the late President Harding's power to transfer control of the government's oil lands from the navy to the interior department.
Judge McCormick says Harding exceeded his authority when he made this transfer, that the land remained the navy's in spite of him, and that falls back on him disposing of what belonged to another department.

Nevertheless, both judges may theoretically be right as to the matter of fraud.

The amendment to empower the city to pay for the paving of street intersections without issuing bonds, carried by a vote of 352 to 292.

This mural painting on the wall of a more or less Bohemian restaurant in Los Angeles amused some of the patrons and roused the wrath of some of the others. The warty ones protested so loudly that the proprietor, Joe Coppa, had it painted out.

Capital Watches Over Oil Cases with Interest

Kennedy found no such evidence in Fall's deal with Sinclair.

There's nothing inconsistent in that. They were different transactions. There may have been fraud in one and not in the other.
S.H.L. Washington was surprised.
Of the two, she had been a little less suspicious of the Doherty than of the Sinclair lease.
Fall and Doherty had been old pals. Doherty was the type of man to help a friend who was in a financial lurch.
That, he said, was all there was to that $100,000 loan he made to Fall. It sounded a bit fishy, but Washington recognized there was a chance it might be true.

Sinclair, on the other hand, wasn't sized up as the kind of individual to let good money go for nothing.
Yet Judge McCormick refused to swallow the explanations of Fall and Doherty, while Judge Kennedy readily accepted those of Fall and Sinclair.

Nevertheless, both judges may theoretically be right as to the matter of fraud.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE
F. H. Soboy, of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted truss expert, will personally be at the Geiser Grand Hotel, and will remain in Baker Tuesday only, July 7. Mr. Soboy says: "The Spontaneous Straddle will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 15 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—employing instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incidental ruptures (following operations) specially suited. This instrument is the only one known in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions. Warning—All cases should be mentioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with underpans, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Soboy has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., in support of his claim. He will be glad to demonstrate without charge or ill will if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

HEALTH

CHILDREN'S DISEASES

(By Dr. Frederick Stricker)
What is "children's disease"? Plainly, one which is so catching and so widely distributed, that most of us get it before we are very old. Among the most contagious of these diseases are measles and chickenpox, which very few of us escape, and which most of us get either before we go to school or soon after we start. Other diseases, like scarlet fever, whooping cough or diphtheria, are most common among children. We often escape the latter, however, and as we grow older we are apt to develop resistance to them so that we often keep them having them all together.

We never become resistant to the first one—if we never happen to have had them in childhood, we are almost sure to get them the first time we are exposed, no matter how old we are. Many of the men who went into army camps at the beginning of the war came from small, isolated communities, like the mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee. These men had never been exposed to some of these diseases, because, moving in their lives had they come in contact with very many people. As a result, outbreaks of "children's diseases" were one of the first things that happened when camps were established. During these outbreaks usually everybody who had never had the disease came down with them. The policeman of Edinburgh, Scotland, are recruited largely from small Highland villages. There usually are one or two police recruits in the hospital in Edinburgh with measles or chickenpox.

Just because most of us must get these diseases is no reason for being in a hurry to let our children have them. Measles and whooping cough, for instance, are very fatal in young children and infants. The longer we can protect our family from these, the less dangerous they will be. If we can protect them long enough, they may never get some of the contagious diseases.

Smallpox used to be a "children's disease"; everybody looked forward, with a minimum of pleasure, to the time when they or their families must go through it. It was so certain, that children were exposed to mild cases or inoculated with smallpox itself so as to get a mild case posing an attack. With the present neglect of vaccination, smallpox is again in a fair way to become a "children's disease." Unvaccinated children are in considerable danger. Recently, four cases have been reported from an Oregon orphanage. It is merely a question of whether to vaccinate the children first and avoid all suspicion or to wait until some of them get the disease and then vaccinate the rest.

Watch your reputation. If you stay out all night you may come home and find it gone.
