French Air Pilots Eager to Fly Ocean

PARIS (AP).—Paul Tarascon, French "ace" and pioneer in prewar flying in Europe, has been bringing all the pressure he can to bear on M. Painleve at the war office and M. Laurent Eynac of the aeronautic department to enable him to make his proposed non-stop flight across the Atlantic this summer.

Tarascon, who lost a leg before the world war, had difficulty in getting into the service, will be accompanied by another skilled air pilot, if the flight is made. Francois Coli, a naval officer who accompanied Roget on his France-Roumania flight and on his "stunt trip" of crossing the Mediterranean twice in one day.

It is planned to start the flight toward the end of July, provided the necessary government authorization can be obtained, leaving from Le Bourget airdrome, just outside of Paris, and making the jump to Mitchel Field on Long Island. The French air authorities are counselling the two pilots to take off from Ireland or nearer the French coast than Le Bourget, and to aim for Newfoundland as a first landing place. Tarascon and Coli, however, persist in maintaining the flight can be made without a landing and are demanding a fair chance to prove it.

The plane they intend to use is the Breguet "Paris-Tokyo" model made famous by Captain Pelletier D'Oisy on his flight a year ago. The engine will be either the Hispano-Suiza or the new Renault.

LONDON (AP). — Tanks and other motor equipment will not supersede the horse in the next war is the opinion of Field Marshal Haig. Acknowledging an honorary diploma as associate of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons recently, the field marshal expressed the opinion that the need of horses in future wars would be as great as in the past.

"We have heard a good deal about modern war inventions which are likely to supersede the horse," said the earl, "but the production of these inventions invariably produces an antidote, and in order to gain the greatest efficiency in the long range war appliances we will need well bred horses for a great many years to come."

Electoral Ambulance Rescues Many, Declares Lloyd George

LLANDUDNO, Wales (AP)—In an address before the Welsh teachers recently, David Lloyd George, former British premier, characterized Whitehall as "a misty and malarial swamp." He had been to Whitehall 17 years, he said, and "the ague entered at times into one's bones."

The former premier declared he had seen many stout-hearted and "many more stout-mouthed" gentlemen enter that area feeling they were going to pull through, and in a very short time they "became trembling and bed-ridden until the 'electoral' ambulance carried them away."

Sun Causes Fire in Berlin.

BERLIN (AP).—The sun's rays shining on a shaving mirror caused a fire in a Berlin home. A concave mirror left standing near a window caught up the sun's rays and reflected them upon the curtains which became ignited. In a few minutes the entire room was aflame.

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE By Condo

La Grande Theatres

All Star Cast in Film Showing At Arcade.

Seldom do movie fans have true opportunity of seeing an all-star cast such as Earl Hudson has selected for the presentation on the screen of Elenore Meherin's famous newspaper serial, "Chickie," which will be seen today at the Arcade Theatre.

In the cast of this latest First National picture are Dorothy Mackaill in the title role, John Bowers as the poor lover, Hobart Bosworth as Chickie's father, Myrtle Stedman as her friend, Gladys Brockwell as her mother, Olive Tel as the wealthy rival of Chickie, Paul Nicholson as a millionaire who thinks of women usually as playthings; Lora Sonderson, former star in musical comedy, and Louise Mackintosh.

Lovers of screen drama will never forget Dorothy Mackaill in "Mighty Lak' a Rose," following that picture she was swamped with offers from producers. In "Chickie" she portrays the poor typist who longs for a millionaire husband, and with the opportunity to get one, turns it down.

John Bowers has one of the big followings among the movie folk ever since he appeared long ago in "Richard the Lion-Hearted" and "Lorna Doone." Recently he won added laurels in First National's "So Big."

Hobart Bosworth needs no introduction to the screen fans. Almost since the industry began he has been one of its outstanding figures. Myrtle Stedman, who recently signed a long time contract with First National, started in pictures in the old Selig days in Chicago and was long noted for her acting in Westerns. Gladys Brockwell gained her first fame in "vamp" roles; then to show her versatility she turned to character parts, for which she is in great demand.

Olive Tell is an actress well known on the stage. Paul Nicholson scored heavily in First National's "As Man Desires" and again in "I Want My Man." He was the first legitimate stage actor to appear in moving pictures in New York. Lora Sonderson was one of the outstanding hits of the Music Box Revue in New York a year ago.

Crowning the production of "Chickie" was the selection as director of John Francis Dillon who directed First National's phenomenal success, "Flaming Youth."

Startling Story Told In the "Battling Fool" at Sherrys.

"Once again it is proved that a real live story plus an excellent cast with such stars as William Fairbanks and Eva Novak will go on pleasing movie fans as long as there are theatres in which to show them.

The Battling Fool at Sherrys is the story of a small town chap who is a bon fighter but always a gentleman, never the bragging, noisy, blustering type, just a boxer for the love of sport. But his love for athletics was more or less kept down by his father who, by the way, was the minister of a village church. Then a twist of fate forced him into the fight game to save the girl he loves from permanent invalidity. The girl's parents and the boy's father turn their backs upon him but in the end he wins out. W. S. Van Dyke, who directed the picture, again demonstrated his right to be called "one of the best." His sets are beautiful, artistic and practical and there is no place in the picture where he introduces a false note.

The element of mystery and suspense plus a wonderful love interest is well carried through the entire picture.

The fire scenes in The Battling Fool are most spectacular and keep the thrill and action of the story to the last.

As big-hearted Mark Jenkins, William Fairbanks is given an opportunity to create the finest role of his career.

Eva Novak as Helen Chadwick is at her best. They are supported by Fred J. Butler as Hiram Chadwick, Mark Fenton as Rev. Josiah Jenkins, also Catherine Craig, Jack Byron, Pat Harmon, Andy Waldron, and Ed Kennedy.

Comedy showing, "Home Cooking."

"Adventure" at Star, Has Colorful Story.

In fiction the South Sea Islands are described as an earthly Paradise. In actuality they are a land of enchanted horror.

The true story of the terrible yet fascinating South Seas is vividly brought out in Jack London's "Adventure," at the Star, which Victor Fleming produced for Paramount with a tip-top cast, including Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in featured roles.

The action of the plot centers around Moore, the fighting, fearless owner of a copra plantation on one of the remote and isolated of the savage Solomon Islands. Financial worries, troubles with the natives and a sudden attack of black water fever bring Moore to the verge of a collapse.

His life is saved by the timely arrival of Pauline Starke, woman adventurer and soldier of fortune, who nurses him back to health and courageously quells the uprising savages.

When he recovers, Moore does exactly what any other red-blooded man would do who discovers that he owes his life to a beautiful and daring young miss. Yes, he falls in love with her, but Miss Starke turns him down with a decided "no." She explains that what she is looking for is adventure, not a husband. However, she is willing to stay as his business partner, and rather than lose her altogether, Moore reluctantly agrees to this arrangement.

Miss Starke soon proves her worth as a partner, and incidentally has her desire for adventure fulfilled in overflowing measure. She matches wits with Beery and Hatton, two usurious money-lenders, who hold a note for a considerable sum of money against Moore. Miss Starke pays the debt and then proceeds to get her money back by playing cards with the two sharks. In fact, she trims them completely, leaving them only with the clothes on their backs.

From the point on the story develops complications galore and some fast and furious action. Walter McGrail suddenly arrives at the plantation and he and Moore fight over Miss Starke. The natives take it into their heads to revolt, egged on by Beery and Hatton who return bent on getting revenge. All in all, the picture lives up to its title, winding up with a dynamic battle on board ship and a hand-to-hand fight under water.

British Business Man Orders Ban on Girls' Light Stockings

CARDIF (AP). — The manager of a large business house has created consternation among his women employes and those of other concerns, by issuing instructions that his staff must not wear champagne-colored or flesh-colored stockings during business hours. This has developed into quite a controversy and the great question of the day is "Are light stockings and abbreviated skirts permissible for business girls?"

One girl has revolted and resigned rather than wear the orthodox black stockings. She says:
