U. S. REVENUE IS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, (By the Associated Press)—Federal internal revenue for the fiscal year 1925 which ended June 30, was increased $212,188,409 from the previous fiscal year despite sharp cuts in income and other tax rates.

The total tax receipts for the fiscal year just ended, as announced last night, were $2,558,016,847, of which $1,761,461,641 came from the direct assessment on incomes and $796,555,205 was from the miscellaneous sources upon which the federal treasury draws.

While the present tax law was fully operative only half the last fiscal year, it gave evidence which treasury officials say confirm their belief that lower rates would increase the total internal revenue.

MANY LA GRANDE ELKS ATTEND PORTLAND MEETING

Although no official delegation will attend the R. P. O. E. national convention, which opens at Portland next Monday morning, the La Grande lodge, number 422 will be well represented.

Lester Bramwell, past exalted ruler, will be present at the convention in the capacity of representative. Officers of the lodge who will be in attendance are Cecil Bolton, exalted ruler, Colon R. Edgerhead, past deputy grand exalted ruler, Mood Eckley, secretary and Alfred Johnson, lecturing knight.

Two tributes of Elks are due through La Grande Sunday. A special train from Coquille, Nebraska is due at 7:30 Sunday morning and one from Dallas, Texas, and Oklahoma, is scheduled to arrive at 4:29 Sunday afternoon.

Each delegation will be in La Grande about an hour. The local lodge has made plans to entertain the visitors while in La Grande with an automobile trip through the valley and other features.

TEN MILLIONS YET UNCLAIMED

 woman to refuse to reveal their past. Cox has found. They held to this stubbornness even on their deathbeds.

"One of our most unusual cases," Cox says, "was that of a Minnie Price, who lived a reclusive life. She died in Detroit, leaving a priest that she was born in Powhatan, Va., in 1879, and that she had two half-sisters named Rose and Margie Skaggs.

"We turned up these Skaggs women after a long search, but they claimed they had never heard of Minnie Price. There the trail ended.

"But the case which Cox regards as the most complicated one he ever worked on concerned the estate of a woman named Lannon who died in Los Angeles.

"She left a fortune of $100,000 and from the faintest of clues a nephew was found after months of search in Louisville, Ky.

"Through this nephew Cox traced a sister of the dead woman to New Rochelle, N. Y. In New York he also found two other nephews.

"Just as the court was about to turn the $100,000 over to these heirs Cox received a wire from California saying: 'Don't claim Lannon estate. Petition filed today.'

"It was a thunderbolt from out of the blue.

Examined Paper.
 The alleged son had what amounted almost indisputable proof to support his contention, including letters signed in the name of the dead woman.

"Cox took one of the letters and finally found the firm that manufactured the paper on which it was written.

"Searching for the kin of mystery man and woman who turn up in the port of the missing at death, has been a hobby and business with Cox for 20 years.

"During that time he has unearthed some of the most wonderful mysteries of the human race. Some of the heirs never knew they had such a relative as the one who died and made them wealthy.

"The fake heir is the bone of this work," Cox says. "Thousands of such spurious heirs write him annually claiming interest in some estate he is working on.

GRAND JURY TAKES OVER CASE AGAIN

 session of the grand jury and a meeting of that body.

"This morning's session was marked by an outburst of cheer when William Jennings Bryan entered the court room, to begin the prosecution. A hot minute change in counsel for the defense was indicated when John L. Godsey, local attorney, failed to appear today.

Opened by Prayer.
 The court opened with a prayer by Reverend William M. Cartwright, pastor of the Dayton Methodist Episcopal church.

Activities were held up a few minutes while counsel for both sides posed with the judge on the stand. A dozen photographs were shown.

The judge instructed the sheriff to "send the spectators and permit others to stand along the walls."

The judge broke his eye glasses and was forced to leave the bench and get Mrs. Hamilton's assistance repairing the damage.

Crowds gathered early for the court this morning. By 5:45 o'clock few seats were untaken. The horns outside were thronged with visitors.

REUNITE AFTER 15 YEARS

MONTE VERNON, N. Y. (AP)—Having traced the wife from whom he was divorced 15 years ago, by appealing to all hospital intubator in New York city, George S. Mason, Baltimore public school teacher, has been reunited to Mrs. Mary Wood Mason after a five-minute courtship over long distance telephone.

"We were just a pair of foolish kids and spoiled as well when we were first married," Mrs. Mason said. "But we're older now and I guess it will stick this time. I looked around for 15 years but failed to find a better man than George Sylvester."

OLD FASHIONED SPANKINGS ADVOCATED BY TEACHER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Many old-fashioned spankings in the schoolroom might have the proper disciplinary effect on future grammar and high school students, Mrs. Bertha Bennett, director of kindergarten work in the Milwaukee public schools, said as delegates assembled here for the International Kindergarten union convention.

"A great deal of our trouble with older children comes from freedom allowed youngsters in their kindergarten days," Mrs. Bennett said. "Teachers seem to follow instead of lead the children."

BURGLARS IN ACTIVE NIGHT

Attempts were made to rob three La Grande business houses last night or early this morning. In two cases the burglars actually broke in but were unable to locate anything of value.

The Fleming Blacksmith Shop and the Ryan Fruit Company were entered and the stores tampered with and the Gibbons Service Station would have been robbed save for the fact that a service man slept there last night.

The burglars evidently started at the Fleming Blacksmith Shop, just across the railroad track on Fir Street. Here they entered through a back window, climbed over a tool box and into the office where they opened the small safe.

Opened Safe Door
 The combination on the safe was not entirely on but required only a turn in the right direction and the would-be thieves were evidently smart enough or clever enough to open the door without breaking the dial off.

The papers in the safe were scattered all over the floor but no cash was in the bill.

Appropriating several suitable tools from among the blacksmith equipment the burglars next entered the Ryan Fruit Company plant on Jefferson and Greenwood Streets.

They gained access to the office safe by the simple expedient of knocking out several hours nailed across a window at the rear of the building.

Policeman Arrives
 With their tools they hammered the dial off the front of the safe, took the pivots out of the hinges and had things already to open the safe when Night Officer Pryor appeared at the rear of the building, saw the back door open and came into the warehouse to look around.

Not suspecting that anything had happened other than that the Ryan men had forgotten to lock the door the evening before, Pryor looked through the building, closed the door and went on.

From the way the tools were found about 8:30 this morning by Bennett J. Moyle, efficiency manager of the Ryan Fruit Company who opened up the plant, it seems probable that Pryor's entrance started the burglars out just as they were about to blow the safe.

The tools, stolen from the blacksmith shop, were scattered about the floor and the bookkeeper's papers had been gone through and were littered about the office.

When Mr. Moyle entered, a large sledge hammer was lying on the floor directly in front of the safe, one smaller hammer, a brace with steel drill and two chisels were scattered about, left just as the thieves had dropped them.

Nothing Taken
 Nothing of any value was taken from the Ryan office, according to Mr. Moyle, who made an examination of the property after the police had looked the place over.

E. S. Sax, a young man who has been employed at the Gibbons Service Station on Jefferson Street was sleeping on a bench in the station office last evening, when he was awakened by a noise at the rear door.

Looking up he saw a man working with the small glass panel in the door. Jumping to his feet Sax grabbed a rubber mallet and yelled at the burglar who made off toward the railway yard.

Sax went back to sleep thinking that the man had been scared away, but about 10:15 minutes or a half an hour later he was again awakened and again the burglar ran out of sight behind the coal sheds near the tracks, according to Sax's statement.

In the gloom just preceding daylight, about 2:30 or three o'clock this morning, Sax got a peep view of the burglar but described him to the police as a man of dark complexion, medium height, wearing a cap.

TRUTH SOUGHT FOR CENTURIES

 tablets which have increased with the rise of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

The Brown Trial
 The last actual trial occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, in May, 1924, when William Montgomery Brown, former Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas, was pronounced guilty by a church court of holding beliefs at odds with the accepted doctrine of his denomination. He publicly avowed communion and so-called atheism.

In the 20s, Professor Charles A. Briggs, a Presbyterian minister of New York City, was charged with having expressed himself as a variant with the Westminster Confession. The New York Presbytery absolved him, but the General Assembly of the church reversed the decision and pronounced a verdict of suspension.

Dr. Richard Heber Newton, a New York Episcopalian, of the same period, cut short charges against his "heretic" churchmanship" by demanding a formal trial. His demand was met but the plaintiffs failed to appear.

David Swing's Case
 David Swing of Chicago left the Presbyterian faith to preach independently in the '70s when those citing him for alleged heresy refused to abide by his acquittal at the hands of the Chicago Presbytery and threatened to appeal to the Synod.

Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, Sunday School worker, was hated before the Presbyterian authorities in San Francisco about 1879.

Theologians to survive heresy proceedings and gain what was reported as a firmer position were Horace Bushnell, Congregationalist of Hartford, Conn., in 1849; Prof. Adin Schaeffer, whose acquittal in the German Reformed Church in 1845 was echoed for thirty-five years in the "Mercedburg controversy"; Lyman Beecher, father of Henry Ward Beecher, and Presbyterian pastor in Cincinnati, in 1825; and Rev. Albert Barnes, Presbyterian of Philadelphia, 1837.

EXPECT THIRD LARGEST CROP

WASHINGTON, (By the Associated Press)—Indications of an enormous (corn) crop, probably the third largest ever grown, slight improvement in prospects for wheat, predictions in the small-crop potato crop since 1919, and unfavorable (fruit) forecasts were made in the July crop report of the department of agriculture.

MOSCOW, IDA. MAN KILLED
 CHICAGO (AP)—Earl Reineke, 29, of Moscow, Idaho, a student of the University of Idaho, was killed as he walked along a road near Wheaton, when struck by an automobile.

A. P. Warrin, a garage man of Burlington, Iowa, was held in connection with the accident on the testimony of Dr. R. R. Schuler of Wheaton, believed to be the only eye witness. Pending further investigation no details of the accident were made known.

Reineke was a student of theology and planned to go to India as a missionary.
