LUMBER MART STRONGER NOW

The lumber market has reached a distinctly stronger position in the last few weeks, according to reports reaching the American Lumberman, Chicago. The latest statistics available are for the holiday week, and show that the 352 principal softwood mills reporting shipped ten per cent more, and received new orders for ten per cent more, than they produced during the week. The mills shipped during the first twenty-seven weeks of the year an amount equal to their cut. Southern pine mills during the week ended July 2 shipped 4.52 per cent more than they cut, so that mill stocks have been further depleted, and producers have practically no reserves, while heavy consumption has much reduced retail yard holdings, and dealers are becoming very insistent on cash shipment. The west coast fir mills were closed around the Fourth, and orders for the week were 27 per cent above their production, while shipments were 22 per cent above. The movement of fir to the Atlantic coast is heavy, the California market is bright with promise of increased consumption owing to the state's heavy fruit crops, and foreign buyers, long from the market, are now beginning to place orders. Prices realized for softwoods have been exceeded by low and unprofitable, and individual operators show a marked sentiment in favor of keeping output in line with demand so that the present upward trend of prices may bring them to and sustain them on a reasonable level. Southern hardwoods are completing their adjustment to the changed buying policy of producers, output having been much reduced, while demand has increased, especially from flooring factories and millwork plants, and buyers for country trade are now entering the market. The northern hardwoods continue their seasonal trend, production declining as orders increase so that prices are firm and beginning to strengthen. Stocks of northern maple flooring are now less than on April 1.

Trick on Peasants Sends Men to Prison

MINSK (AP)—An amazing trial illustrating the ignorance and superstition of the Russian peasantry recently was held in this district. In order to increase the income of the village priest and to strengthen his authority over the local peasantry a group of village parishioners resolved to frighten the peasantry with the presence of a "real" devil in the village.
A village boy was dressed up to resemble a devil. During the night he was to the village dwellers to frighten them. He was instructed to carry out secretly slight damages to peasants' property. This went on for several months and the ignorant peasants took it all in earnest, as a penalty for their sins. They flocked to the church, induced the priest to hold special services and organized common prayer and religious processions. A special commission had to be sent from the district town to investigate the peasant's troubles, which were brought to an end only

Valuable Nippon Art Collection for Sale

TOKYO (AP)—The collection of art treasures in the possession of Marquis Katsunobu Inouye, former ambassador to the court of St. James, is to be sold at public auction in September. The collection was made by the late Marquis Sekai Inouye and is known among connoisseurs as one of the finest in the country. Its estimated value is between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 yen.
Among the many rare articles in the collection is a carving by the celebrated Choin representing "Enodo," the God of Fire. It was an image, according to the tradition attached to it, that Emperor Kameyama offered prayers for victory when the land of the Mikado was invaded by the Chinese some 600 years ago. This carving alone is valued at 150,000 yen.
Another rare work of art is a painting by Haku Shi-kei. It is the most valuable work of a Chinese artist in the collection. It is an unusually large picture showing the figure of Buddha mounted on an elephant. There are many other fine paintings by Japanese masters such as Motonou, Soshu and Tanyu. The collection comprises 2,000 pieces, including paintings, carvings, pottery and lacquer work.

Prussian Teachers of Music to be Licensed

BERLIN (AP)—All music teachers in Prussia are henceforth to be licensed according to the latest decree issued by the government.
"A degree of order and uniformity of qualification in a world hitherto based by many charlatans and opportunists may be expected from such a decree," says the Vorwaerts, which describes how private musical instruction had become a very negligible quantity during the war and subsequently in

ONE-THIRD OF OREGON TEXTS TO BE CHANGED
A third of the textbooks used in Oregon's grammar and high schools will be changed this year, in accordance with the Oregon law that one-third of the books be changed every two years, giving a complete change at the end of six years.
New texts in the grammar grades will be civics, geography, United States history and content readers, with no change in the Beacon basic readers. In addition a text book of Oregon history has been adopted.
In the high school the changes are in civics, economics, biology, general science, Spanish and French, with the adoption of world history and sociology.
A small refund will be given on the price of new textbooks when old texts are given in exchange in the buying of new books. Pendleton children in the first three grades will not be required to buy the new content readers as schools of the city have been using them as supplementary readers and they were purchased by the schools.
The commission which decided on the new textbooks is made up of Alfred C. Schmidt of Corvallis; Margaret J. Casper of Salem; Milton A. Miller of Portland; A. C. Hampton, of Astoria, and George A. Briscoe of Ashland.

DAYTON, Tenn. (By the Associated Press)—Organic evolution from the point of view of the null investigator was discussed by Jacob G. Lippman, in a statement admitted to the record of the "Bones case" today. Mr. Lippman is dean of the college of agriculture and director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station.
"A direct relation may be traced," said Dr. Lippman, "between soil, plants and animals in the evolution of organic life."
Among the early forms of life there were bacteria capable of developing in a purely mineral medium, such forms being found today in the sea, in mineral springs and in soils.

There is such a thing as spending money in order to make money or save money. When you find such an opportunity you should be immediately interested.
Our knowledge of fabrics and experience in cleaning have convinced us that expert cleaning is an investment—not an expense. Good cleaning and frequent cleaning adds months and years to the life, usefulness and attractiveness of fabrics. Without it materials rapidly deteriorate from the dirt and grit and grease that they accumulate.
By taking the utmost care in doing your work, by taking special pains with the dainty things, other methods would destroy we believe our service represents a distinct economy to you. Will you let us demonstrate that fact with YOUR next cleaning need?
