CHEMISTS TO DISCUSS GAS

LOS ANGELES, (By the Associated Press)—Wholesale electric light, synthetic rubber, and the war-time possibilities of poison gas are among the many important topics to be discussed by scientists and inventors at the seventh annual meeting of the American Chemical Society opening here August 3.

Among the approximately 1,000 delegates expected there will be men who, though little known to the general public, are engaged in laboratory work which is responsible for almost daily changes in the country's industry methods.

Demonstrations of the radio transmission of electric power by Dr. W. R. Whitney, research director of the General Electric, will constitute one of the most spectacular features of the convention.

from the layman's point of view. Dr. Whitney has carried his experiments to the point where he is able to make an electric light bulb held in a man's hand and not connected with any wires, burst into radiance several feet from the source of power.

Discussion of processes for the manufacture of synthetic rubber will also hold a more than usual interest for the layman due to the layman's habit of running rubber-tired automobiles and the recent phenomenal rise in rubber prices, which threatens to make those rubber tires costly.

Lewisite, the war gas credited with being the most destructive compound devised for military use, will be discussed by its inventor, W. L. Lewis, head of the chemistry department at Northwestern University.

Other chemical discoveries slated for discussion range from new formulae to prevent mayonnaise dressing from breaking and separating and separating to the new German method of making wood alcohol from coke and steam.

JAPANESE MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS TO EXPLORE CANADIAN ROCKIES

TOKYO, (AP)—Under the joint auspices of the Tokyo Nichi Nichi, the Osaka Mainichi and the Japan Mountaineering Society, an attempt will be made by a party of Japanese climbers to ascend the heretofore insurmountable peaks of the Canadian Rockies. The party, which will be captained by Mr. Maiki, one of the leading mountaineers of Japan, will include representatives from the Peers' School and Keio University. La Grande Theatres

Last Showing of "Reckless Romance" At Sherrys Tonight.

Lovely Wanda Hawley, whose fragile beauty has been enhancing English productions of late, returns to the American screen in "Reckless Romance." At Christie's great laughing feature, "The Man From Brodway," and "Broadway."

Miss Hawley has one of the two principal roles in "Reckless Romance," which gives her a fine opportunity to prove that she is as good at farce as she is at emotional roles.

"Comedy showing 'Dan's Life Terrible.'"

"Forty Winks," Super-Comedy, at Arcade Theater.

"Forty Winks," adapted to the screen from "Lord Chumley," one of the outstanding comedy successes of the last thirty years of stage history by Daniel Defoe and Henry G. De Mille, comes to the Arcade Theatre for a two days' run today.

Paul Lelie and Frank Erson, who made "Changing Husbands," directed the production which features Viola Dana, Theodore Roberts and Raymond Griffith in leading roles.

The story is one of Chumley, a titled Englishman who is so funny that nobody takes him seriously. However, through a series of adventures as dangerous as they are laughable, he succeeds in solving a mystery, winning a society beauty and saving her brother from disgrace. All of which is claimed to be portrayed in a manner that makes "Forty Winks" splendid entertainment.

The picture is a light, fast-and-furious comedy flavored with that element of romance and tingling mystery that made "Grumpy" so enjoyable. It stars the role of a retired rear-admiral of the United States Navy, Miss Dana is cast as his daughter and William Boyd is his son, a naval lieutenant who starts all the trouble by losing a valuable official document which had been entrusted to him. Cyril Chadwick, who played the father in "Peter Pan," is the Butterworth family lawyer, an cracked as they come. It is he who robs the young lieutenant of the plans through an accomplice, an oriental girl, a part portrayed by Anna May Wong. The lieutenant is in a fine fix. His superior officer informs him that if the lost documents are not recovered within forty-eight hours he will have to face court-martial and disgrace. Chumley stumbles in on the scene and at every blundering turn manages to do just the right thing. Matters are straightened out—and Chumley wins the girl, but not until after some genuinely funny scenes have taken place.

Here's a picture made to make you laugh—and it will!
