Scientists Find Part Of Primitive Skull

JERUSALEM, (AP)—What appears to be a very substantial missing link was discovered recently near Tiberias when the front part of a primitive human skull was unearthed in a cave among well defined Neanderthal flint deposits. The new skull is characterized by prodigious development of the superorbital prominence and depressed forehead as in a chimpanzee, and contains exactly the Neanderthal European type not previously found on the continent of Asia.

It was the excavation by the British School of Archaeology of Jerusalem in a cave at Toghla near Tiberias that was rewarded with this remarkable discovery. Professor Garstang, director of the school, witnessed the discovery, which was made by Mr. Turville-Petre, formerly of Oxford and now a student of the school there.

Logging Camp Reopens

CULP CREEK, Ore. — The Rutland logging camp of Anderson & Middleton-Lunnen company has resumed operations and Monday the first train of logs was sent to the mills at Cottage Grove since the shutdown some two months ago. Latham mill, just south of Cottage Grove, has been in operation during this interval, however, working on reserves which were "cand-locked" earlier in the season. It was announced that the Culp Creek camp may not resume operation for possibly two months.

First Doctor—"Tell me, Doc, have you ever made a serious mistake in diagnosis?"
Second Doctor—"Yes, once. I told a man he had a touch of indigestion. Afterwards I found he was rich enough to have had appendicitis."

Sister Mary Says:

Breakfast—Blueberries with cream, cereal, thin cream, soft cooked eggs, toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Creamed kohlrabi, brown bread and cheese sandwiches, baked apple pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Baked bluefish, baked potatoes, buttered beans, cucumber salad, steamed blueberry pudding, rice bread, milk, coffee.
Kohlrabi is an out-of-the-ordinary vegetable that is really most delicious. It belongs to the cabbage family. If used when the bulb-like roots are small or a few inches in diameter the vegetable is tender and of delicate flavor.

Steamed Blueberry Pudding
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 2-4 cups milk, 1 cup blueberries, 2 more tablespoons flour.

Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar. Rub in butter with tips of fingers. Beat egg and cut into flour. Cut in milk. Sift extra flour over berries and add to dough. Turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam 1-2 hours. Serve with molasses sauce.

Hotel Where Governors Met Lincoln Is Doomed

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP)—Efforts are being made by local and other historical societies to mark old Logan House, which will be razed to make way for a new railroad station. It was in a room in the Logan House that the Union war governors, in September, 1862, met with President Lincoln and pledged to him their faith and support.

The meeting was informal and private, no written record of any kind was kept, and newspaper reporters were not present. It was called to take measures for more active support of the government and resulted in the pledge and the Union. The pledge was signed by 13 governors and endorsed by a number of others not at the conference.

Among the signers were A. G. Curtin, Pennsylvania; John A. Andrew, Massachusetts; Richard Yates, Illinois; Israel Washburn, Jr., Maine; Samuel J. Kirkwood, Iowa; William Sprague, Rhode Island; F. H. Pierpont, Virginia; David Todd, Ohio; N. S. Berry, New Hampshire, and Austin Blair, Michigan.

MRS. BRYAN TO WRITE MEMOIRS

CHATTANOOGA (By the Associated Press)—The Chattanooga News in a story published says the memoirs of William Jennings Bryan will be written by his widow.

The story says: "At the time of his death, Mr. Bryan had started on the framework of his recollections. He had intended to devote to the writing of this chronicle of American life for the past half century, the rest of the summer and fall, and in fact all the time up to his leaving for the Holy Land in February of 1925.

Most of It Dictated
"He had dictated in the rough to his secretary, W. E. Thompson, the first draft of six or seven chapters of the memoirs. Thompson now has these on yellow typewritten sheets. The headings include such topics as the great commoner's childhood and youth, the Chicago convention of 1856, the Baltimore convention of 1912, the work with peace treaties while he was secretary of state and one or two other incidents in his busy life. "These guide posts for his memoirs, for according to Thompson, they were more of a framework, giving the general trend of events, rather than the detailed particulars, formed around the commoner had expected to make by amplifying the first draft, were among the material which Mrs. Bryan will have at her disposal for her task."

"When she widow of the great commoner passed through Chattanooga, Wednesday—morning en route to Arlington with the hier of her husband, she told friends that she intended to give her attention to these memoirs as soon as conditions permitted. She said she would be aided in the writing by her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Owen.

and the latter's husband, Major Reginald Owen.

"Mrs. Bryan is a gifted writer and for many years assisted her husband in his literary endeavors. She is the author of the biography of Mr. Bryan which introduces the collected volume of his speeches. She is also the author of the account of the Baltimore democratic convention of 1912 as throughout their married life she was in intimate touch with the innermost details of her husband's career; with the train of thoughts leading to his noble political decisions; with his significant conversations and with his correspondence and files.

"It is likely that her work will be done at Marymont, the Bryan home at Coccolint Grove, near Miami, Fla."
