twent dioceses and districts; that missionary bishops within the province shall be elected by the synod of the province; that consent to the election of bishops shall be given by the synod of the province; and that the resignation of a bishop within a province shall be acted upon by the house of bishops of such province.

In advocating "these changes" the majority urge that they are necessary for the "revival of larger interest in the church's program of work in order that it may be adequately supported"; that a more effective organization of the church for carrying on its work will thereby be created; that they will reduce the congestion of business in the general convention, and will develop the province into an effective unit as a means of accomplishing the foregoing objects.

FEW CHOSEN IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AP)—Variety types are included in the many thousands of men, women and youths who come here each year seeking careers in the motion pictures. Few ever reach stardom.

Estimates compiled recently revealed that since 1917 more than 150,000 persons registered with screen employment agencies on the Pacific Coast. Today the list of those steadily employed numbers little more than 15,000. Therefore, some 135,000 failed to find a footing on the stepping-stone to cinematic fame.

Statistics obtained from film labor bureaus here and in Los Angeles show that 300 bald-headed men, whose principal bid for screen fame is their lack of hair, and 100 one-legged men, who believe that they should be in the pictures because they have but one limb, are registered. On the list of those registered are also 100 of the so-called "men of letters," 200 professional and non-professional gamblers, 12 judges, glass eaters and sword swallowers.

So great is the desire of persons to get into the pictures that in an hour's time counterparts of all famous men of the past, enough cowboys to start a revolution or sailors sufficient to man a ship can be brought together. In a day's time 5,000 persons for a mob scene or 1,200 women for a ballroom can be assembled. They bring their own costumes.

The wage scale at a majority of the studios is similar. Extras for mob scenes, who are taken in respect of age, size, or nationality, receive an average of $3 a day. Hand-picked extras of approximately the same size, similar features and color of eyes are paid $5. Character extras, those who are "camera wise" including window messes and young men who possess complete wardrobes, are paid $7.50 a day. Young women to afternoon and evening gowns, capable of giving proper atmosphere to gatherings of the elite, are given $10.

A screenwoman is paid $7.50 for a few minutes work before the camera. A stunt man is paid $15.00 to drive a motorcycle at forty-five miles an hour into a racing car. Swimmers are given $100 to dive 100 feet into the sea and a rider $100 to "fall" a horse over a cliff into a mountain stream. An ex-prizefighter earns from $50 to $100 to give and take five rounds in a ring of a few minutes duration and a pugger receives as high as $200 for "sitting" his tracks in a circus side-show scene.

Sixty percent of the thousands of persons registered at the film employment offices are women. The greatest number of an individual group are girls and young women seeking employment in bathroom scenes and similar work. Many girls who are taken possession of by an glamorous or any owned by a millionaire's daughter.

He Started New Monkey War

Here is Loren Wittner, who stirred up what promises to be another "evolution trial" at Washington by filing suit to withhold pay from teachers who "teach disrespect to the Bible" by giving instruction in various sciences. He is shown here talking it over with Jocko, of the monkey tribe.

recommendations with regard to budget and appropriations of funds the minority say: "This recommendation would place in the hands of a few dioceses in missionary provinces the control of the missionary work within the province. This work is done by bishops who represent the whole church, and with funds supplied by the whole church. We believe that the proposed recommendations, if adopted, would introduce a feeling of sectionalism and would also seriously interfere with the proper administration of the missionary work of the church. We believe that the present method by which the making up of the missionary budget in the domestic field receives the careful consideration and approval of the missionary bishops before it is presented to the national council is a much better method than the alternative proposed in this report of the commission."

"There are in the church eight provinces," says the report, "in five of these provinces there would be no enlargement of powers if the most drastic of these recommendations were adopted as there are no missionary districts, for which bishops could be elected, or to which funds could be allocated. The corresponding loss in missionary interest in those five provinces, where nearly all the funds for our missionary work are contributed would be most serious."

Summing up their objections, the minority members of the commission say: "At a time when we are endeavoring with success to awaken the national conscience of the church and to get away from 'parochialism' and 'denominationalism' the report of the commission proposes to introduce a feature which in our judgment would create provincialism. We believe those who support missionary work support it because it is the work of the whole church, administered by the national council; and we believe that the sectionalizing of our missionary work would be a fatal mistake. Such action would not be a distribution of responsibility; in our judgment it would be a surrender of a great principle."
