EXPLORERS TO VISIT ORIENT

AMRITRAI, India (AP)—The Roosevelt expedition, in quest of rare animals of the mountains and jungles of Asia, had not decided when it passed through Kashmir on its way to the Pacific, by just what route it would return or how long its trip would last. There was some prospect, it was said, that the tour might be extended to January and that it was possible the expedition might be extended into China and not return to India.

The expedition, including Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt, George Thorne and Mr. Cutting, a cinema operator, made the first part of its trip into India without incident. The members traveled over the well-known route from Srinagar to Leh and Ladakh. There is abundant game in that section of the country but the expedition was interested in getting the ovis pallas on the lofty heights of the 15,000 feet and the long-haired tiger in the Thibetan mountains of Chinese Turkestan.

The ovis pallas, or Premier sheep, is not so rare as some may think, but as it habitates the high part of the Pamir range, the shooting of it is made difficult. This animal is the largest of the sheep family and sometimes weighs 200 pounds. Its head is beautiful by its horns, each of which grows into a spiral form, five to six feet around the curve. The long-haired Liger found in the Chinese Turkestan region often grows to a length of 12 feet.

The party went to Rawalpindi by train in the blazing heat of May and reached Pungab when the thermometer registered 115 degrees in the shade. From Rawalpindi the party went by automobile 200 miles up and down the mountains. The travelers were in the Kashmir valley were guests of Sir and Lady John B. Wood but they remained only sufficiently long for their transport arrangements to be made. Their taste in getting away was due to the fact that this year there is a serious epidemic of murr, a disease epidemic of murr. Deaths have been occurring at the rate of 1500 to 1700 a week since April.

Hands Assisted.

In the preparation of their equipment Colonel Roosevelt and his associates were aided unobtrusively in Kashmir by Major A. J. House, assistant resident of Kashmir and British joint commissioner of Ladakh. In the transportation of their equipment and supplies coolies and yaks were used during the first stages of the journey throughout the Leh region. Coolies are hired for 24 cents a day and ponies for 29 cents a day as far as Leh.

During the first 100 miles to Leh the expedition met Lieut. and Mrs. Huber of the Moravian Mission, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Jones of Chicago, and Major George Van R. Gillan, command general of Kashmir, who represents the American as well as British interests.

In order to go into Chinese Turkestan the Roosevelt expedition was obliged to obtain permits from the Peking government which enabled them to enter territory which is truly a sportsman's paradise and very little traveled by white people.

12 Passes Given.

iculties and also because of food problems, such as the food having to be taken from Srinagar.

In addition to their interest in the hunting for rare animals members of the expedition at times were confronted with food problems and some of them, especially Kermit Roosevelt, took every opportunity to help solve these. He always had ready his fishing rods and used them to good advantage for the entertainment of the Dries and Turkmen.

The progress and success of the Roosevelt expedition is being watched with considerable interest by English sportsmen now in India, although the news that rills down through is very meager. It is much the same as it was on the last Everest expedition when the mountaineers were sighted in London. Most of the dispatches that have come through up to this time merely said: "All's well with the Roosevelt," or words to that effect.

Portugal Exchanges Science Benefits and Ideas With Spain

LISBON (AP)—The recent congress for the advancement of the sciences is only one of many ways in which Spain and Portugal appear to be showing a desire for closer relations. Many scientists from both countries attended the congress to exchange ideas and give each other the benefit of recent scientific investigations in both countries.

The president of the republic was to have presided at the congress but was prevented from doing so by illness. His place was taken by the president of the cabinet, French and Belgian ambassadors and six other states represented in the congress.

According to an estimate of the bureau of the census the manufacturing machinery, tools and implements in use in the United States were worth $15,782,250,000 in 1922. In 1912 the figures were $6,921,451,000.
