Danzig Official Says Polish Postboxes in Harbor Unnecessary

DANZIG, (AP)—There is no economic, commercial or business reason, whatsoever, why Poland should have her own postboxes in the harbor of Danzig, in the opinion of President Heinrich Danzig, President of the so-called post-box committee further for The Association of Danzigers, Danzig, popularly known as the "father of the Danzigers" said.

"Under the Treaty of Versailles the right is given to Poland to maintain her own postboxes in the harbor of Danzig. Mail arriving in Danzig and intended for Poland can be handled just as expeditiously by us as it can possibly be handled by a Polish postoffice in the port."

"What we chafe under particularly is the insistence that Danzig is on a plane with Chinese cities like Shanghai where the foreign residents have their own facilities because the natives are not, or have not been, adequate. Danzig, which means such an imputation of inefficiency."

A further complication in the postbox question arises from Poland's contention—that by the term, "harbor of Danzig" is meant the whole city. The Danzigers hold—and in this they have repeatedly been sustained by the British high commissioner assigned to Danzig by the League of Nations to arbitrate disputes between Poland and Danzig—that the term was intended only to include the port proper.

"Men and Women" Showing at Arcade Today Only.

"Excuse Me" Turns Out to Be Riot of Laughter.

Someone said that laughing makes you fat, but that very heavy convulsions are thinning. Considering this premise, all thin people had better stay away from "Excuse Me" which came yesterday to the Sherry Theatre, for this picture is just about the most girl-reducing entertainment of the year.

"Excuse Me" was a famous stage farce by Rupert Hughes, and this indefatigable worker adapted his play and supervised its production for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization. The laughs brought by this picture are not just occasional squeaks, but continual rousers.

Maybe the familiarity of the audience with experiences on a Palladium car made the misfortunes of the characters seem especially funny, but certain it is that the locale of the story—a train speeding across the continent—seemed very lucrative for developing comedy and it must be said that neither Mr. Hughes nor director M. J. Cagney have overlooked any opportunities for collection laughs.

"Excuse Me" is a swift, joyous farce, and it is deftly acted by an excellent cast. Norma Shearer played Marjorie Newton, a society girl who is persecuted by her fiancé, Harry Mahony (Conrad Nagel), to take a chance of finding a minister on the train, so that she can accompany him to his wife to his new Navy post in the Philippines.

SO DELICATE is the torsion pendulum used by this machine in weighing the earth that the presence of a person within 19 feet of it causes it to give the wrong weight. So the machine is sunk 25 feet underground at Washington to avoid all disturbances. Dr. Paul Heyl, chief of the sound section of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, has been working on the machine for one year. Incidentally the earth's weight has been set at 6,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

Prussian Women Become Forgetful When in Diet

BERLIN, (AP)—Female members of the Prussian Diet it would seem are far ahead of their male colleagues in sort of forgetfulness and losing things. A large bank board, representing the diet's lost and found office, bears testimony to the preoccupation of the lady parliamentarians. Feminine bags of every description are here reported as found. They have ceased to be a problem, however, for the loss of the keys of the committee of the house has become so well drilled that they are now able to designate the absence of almost every bag at first sight.

Four pairs of women's gloves are not quite so costly to restore, any more than the stink of pearls, a gold brooch, a ring, numerous handkerchiefs and a Chinese shawl. A silver drinking cup has for several days proved a source of much conjecture among male and female parliamentarians.
