Coyotes Prey on Turkeys
BOARDMAN, Ore. (Special)—Coyotes entered the yard of Walter Knauff the last week and killed 17 young turkeys. The Knauff farm is located in a well populated section, but the coyotes have become numerous and bold, often entering the settlement. A government trapper was stationed at Faler's lake a short time.

In Concert Last Night

J. H. Shearer, organist, and Anne Strubbe Shearer, soprano, who appeared here in concert last night at the Presbyterian church.

Plan to Rise at Salem
SALEM, Ore. (Special)—Ground for Dr. Halburn, when it will be broken here Monday for the plant of the Western Paper Converting company, which is to be erected at a cost of approximately $200,000. The announcement was made by E. A. O'Neill, vice-president and resident manager for the company.

The plant will be completed within three months and will employ more than 100 men. Operations will be confined to the manufacture of paper specialties.

LARGE CROWD CHARMED BY MUSICIANS
though not blessed (or cursed) with modern high powered publicity methods he has comparatively few superiors in this country.

He is thoroughly versed in theory and this is enabled to make the most satisfactory arrangements for the organ, he understands the mechanics of the instrument and its capabilities as few do and above all he loves to play. The organ he round lake country was too high for Dr. Halburn. When it was broken here Monday for the plant of the Western Paper Converting company, which is to be erected at a cost of approximately $200,000. The announcement was made by E. A. O'Neill, vice-president and resident manager for the company.

BRITON DIES AT MEDFORD
MEDFORD, Ore.—Dr. Charles Britton, a resident of Elsie, died yesterday at Sacred Heart hospital as the result of a heart attack, which began last Tuesday, while he and his wife were camping on Diamond Lake road several miles from the lake.

Dr. and Mrs. Britton had been touring the United States by automobile. The attitude of the Blacomes an ethereal instrument beneath his slender fingers. No mechanical manipulation here, no straining for unusual combinations or effects. Instead it is played with such sympathy of feeling such inner powers of expression that the music rises away and above into physical limitations and becomes a thing of beauty and consequence to a joy forever.

Mrs. Shearer's vocal solos were very pleasing. Her control and powers of expression are above the ordinary. Here again the organ enhanced the beauty of the selection. There are accompaniments and accompaniments but few equal an organ when well played. In fact it might be said that an organ has no instrument to equal it for accompaniment work. It approaches that ideal—all orchestra in which each member is in absolute pitch and harmony of expression.
