

Attractive "New Apparel For School And College Wear -- Modest In Price

If you are planning your clothes for school or college it will be like opening the latest book of one's favorite author to see these first inklings of what Fashion has written for Fall. In the index we see navy blue has a chapter, and long sleeves, and back fullness, too. There are the new colors, etc.! But you must look in at our store if you want to see what Fashion really has turned out, as right now we have the very first of Fall fashions to show you.

There are beautiful flare models; those with godets at the front and side and pleated and shirred tunics; and those with pointed neckline and smart long reverses. All in the new Fall colors and material.

One of the most delightful things about the new models we are now showing, is that they do not destroy the slim lines that women are so proud of.
That—
Collars are very popular for Fall. Sometimes they are as high as the old-fashioned ones, and other times they open into narrow reverses or combine with sweet lace or long tails.
That—
Because of this prevalence of collars the pointed neckline is very good. Collared necklines are often round or square.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland and Washington battled for 12 innings Thursday before the Senators won, 1 to 0, in the final game of the series.

Marberry took second base on Hodapp's wild throw at the start of the twelfth. Rice struck, S. Harris hit Hodapp and Marberry was thrown out at the plate. J. Hargis fouled out but Goslin's third hit scored Rice with the run that made it three straight for the champions.

Although Washington made 13 hits off Miller, the colorless southpaw, he was effective with men on base. He received excellent support and the Indians executed fast plays. The Senators gave their pitchers good support also, having three double plays.

Perk, Severid and Goslin had 10 of Washington's 13 hits.

Zachary, after leading Cleveland to five hits in eight innings, retired in favor of a pinch-hitter and was replaced by Marberry, who went in as a relief pitcher for the third consecutive day. Score: R. H. E. Washington 1 1 1 1 Cleveland 0 0 0 0 (12 Innings.) Batteries: Zachary, Marberry and Severid; Miller and L. Sewell.

St. Louis 7, Philadelphia 6. ST. LOUIS (AP)—Right Fielder Harry Rice's home run and Manager George Sider's triple with a man on base in the ninth inning of Thursday's game gave the St. Louis Browns a clean sweep of the three game series and relegated the Philadelphia Athletics to second place in the league standings. The score was 7 to 6.

Washington, by virtue of its 12 inning victory over Cleveland, now leads the American League by a scant six point margin.

The Browns pounded Walberg and Groves for an even dozen hits, including two home runs, a triple and a double. Five pitchers were used by Manager Sider in stemming the Athletic tide.

Dyke's home run with two men on base in the fifth inning featured Marty MacManus, second baseman of the Browns, also hit for the circuit. Score: R. H. E. Philadelphia 5 6 6 St. Louis 7 12 2

Batteries: Walberg, Groves and Cochran; Guard, Stauffer, Jaxid, Danforth, Vandiver and Hargrave.

Chicago 11, Boston 7. CHICAGO (AP)—Ten Blankenship registered his eighth consecutive victory Thursday when Chicago defeated Boston, 11 to 7, making a clean sweep of the three game series. Erratic fielding behind Ruffing and Zahnizer who were both hit hard in spots gave the locals their runs. R. H. E. Boston 7 11 6 Chicago 11 15 1

Batteries: Ruffing, Zahnizer and Heving; Blankenship, Connolly and Schalk.

Game Postponed. New York at Detroit, postponed; rain.

National League.
NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Kauffmann held the Giants to three hits in eight innings Thursday and played off a desperate rally in the ninth to give Chicago a 5 to 2 victory. Dentley went the full distance for New York and drove in all three runs. The defeat put the Giants three games behind Pittsburg in the league race. R. H. E. Chicago 5 11 2 New York 2 2 2 Batteries: Kauffmann and Hartnett; Dentley, Koshler and Snyder.

Pittsburg 2, Brooklyn 1. BROOKLYN (AP)—Bryan Clifton's break home run in the sixth inning Thursday gave Pittsburg the margin by which it defeated Brooklyn, 2 to 1, and made its advantage in the pennant race a full three games in New York but to Chicago. Caylor's hit appeared to be an ordinary single, but bounded high over Brown's head in center field and rolled to the exit gate.

In the fifth with Brooklyn's players crowding the bases, Caylor laid down a triple from Brown's but with a sparkling one hand catch, Brooklyn's only run was a home by Zack Wheat in the first. Chicago's Caylor's hit appeared to be an ordinary single, but bounded high over Brown's head in center field and rolled to the exit gate.

The score: R. H. E. Pittsburg 2 8 0 Brooklyn 1 0 0 Batteries: Krenner and Smith; Grimes and Taylor.

Boston 6, St. Louis 2. BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Braves swept a four game series with St. Louis, by taking the final game Thursday, 6 to 3. Rogers Hornsby, league leading batter, against went hitless in four trips to the plate. He made only one hit in the series. The Braves' infield backed up Barnes in sensational style in the pinches. High lights of the game were home runs by Hatley and High, each with a mate was on base. R. H. E. St. Louis 2 7 2 Boston 6 9 3 Batteries: Main and O'Farrell; Barnes and O'Neill.

Cincinnati 8, Phillies 4. PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Cincinnati made it three out of four by taking Thursday's game with Philadelphia, 8 to 4. Rice was touched for eight hits in the first five innings, but lightened up over the last four innings and kept the home safe. Score: R. H. E. Cincinnati 8 15 2 Philadelphia 4 10 2 Batteries: Riney and Harrgrave; DeLoach, Couch, Knight, and Henline.

Billy Evans Says

TRICK STUNTS.
No sport compares with baseball in exciting trick situations. Probably that is one of the reasons why the game has such a hold on the public.

Despite the fact that I have seen 20 years of service in the big league, I learn a number of new and interesting things each year about the trick possibilities of baseball.

Yes it is true that many of the unusual situations that develop in a ball game can be traced back to some "home" play on the part of the athletes.

As a matter of fact, the failure to touch a base has caused more trick plays than any other feature of baseball.

Such a situation has been the cause of scores of letters I have received during the past month. A well meaning expert, created the play that has caused all the trouble. The utter impossibility of answering all the letters causes me to take this method to clear up the dispute.

THE EXPERT ERRS.
In a magazine article featuring trick plays in baseball, the well meaning expert had me as the authority for a rather unusual happening.

According to the article the play came up in a big league game in which I officiated. Possibly my name connected with the play gave it a tone of authority. However, the play described was all foreign to me.

While appraising the fact that I was given space in the article, unfortunately for me, the author of some answered the question directly contrary to the way I would have. In other words he was wrong from my angle.

Despite the fact that no play like I ever came up in a big league game in which I was the umpire, the solution of the problem was credited to me. And since it was incorrect, I have been the largest for many letters on the subject.

The puzzle feature of the play hinged on whether or not a run that crossed the plate legally scored.

UNUSUAL PLAY.
This was the play: With runner on second and third and one out the batsman hit safely to center field. The runner on third crossed the plate as the ball from second was thrown out at home, making the second out.

The batsman reached second on the play but failed to touch first base. The ball was thrown to that base, an appeal made to the umpire and the runner on second was called out, retiring the side.

The question was did the runner who crossed the plate from third, score? The article quoted me as saying he did. The writer said that the runner who failed to touch first was really automatically out when he neglected that formality and therefore was the second out.

Of course that wasn't so. On a failure to touch a base, the runner is not out until the ball is thrown to the base not touched. If the runner's attention is called to the fact that he failed to touch the base, he is entitled to return to that base and be safe, if he can get there ahead of the ball.

As a matter of fact the run did not score, since the runner really crossed the plate on a play in which the batsman failed to reach first base for the third out. Failure to touch first made such a play of it.

BUSH FOREST TRAIL WORK. WENATCHEE, Wash.—Work is being rushed to complete the Ingle Creek trail, which runs across Stuart pass to the head of Jack creek, forest service officials said. The trail is planned to aid in fire protection and will also be used by hikers, who go up both Ingle and Jack creeks.

Forest Supervisor Sylvester, accompanied by Roy Hadley, Washington, D. C., and A. O. Wann, Portland, Ore., left today on a week's inspection trip in the Wenatchee forest.

WHEAT FIELDS YIELD HIGH. HANSEN, Idaho.—Wheat crops now being threshed in the vicinity of Hansen are returning high yields, according to reports brought here.

A field of 30 acres of wheat grown by Peter Link on his farm three miles south of Hansen, returned a yield of 66 bushels per acre.

In the same neighborhood, a field of 10 acres of wheat grown by E. H. Harkins on the A. J. Donmore farm, produced a yield of 59 bushels, or an average of 52 bushels per acre.

STATE AID CONSIDERED. SALEM, Ore.—Members of the state irrigation securities commission left here by automobile for Bend and other central Oregon cities, where they will inspect a number of irrigation districts that have requested state aid.

Among the members of the commission on the trip are Governor Pierce, State Treasurer Kay and E. H. Loper, state engineer. Sam A. Koger, secretary of state, accompanied the party as a representative of the desert land board. The members of the commission probably will return to Salem Saturday or Sunday.

Peach preserves will keep much better if placed in a closet where the children can't find them.

Eddie Off the Field

Eddie Collins, manager of the Chicago White Sox, enjoys nothing better than a good game of solitaire after a hard day on the ball field. He finds it restful recreation. Eddie, by the way, is quite a card shark and can hold his own with any of them. The above photo was taken in the last hour after the White Sox had finished a tough series. Eddie seems to be in deep thought over the next play.

Oak-leaf Harvest Halted. OAKFALL, Wash.—After a week of cloudy, smoky weather a gentle rain began to fall and bids fair to continue. Combining and threshing were in full swing and will be interrupted.

Crops are mainly of the spring variety in this district. What fall wheat was left after the freeze last fall is yielding about 25 to 30 bushels an acre. Spring grain on summer-fallows will yield slightly less and stubble spring grain, 15 to 20 bushels as an average.
