Future Plans For Lake Big

But in the middle of each week the business has been light. So it has been necessary to hold a complete organization over several light days to have it ready for the heavy days.

It is the belief of Mr. Macpherson that the business can be changed to regular vacation business, with patrons remaining there for several weeks. Already there is a promising development of this, as guests from Portland and other distant points have learned of the lake and mountains.

Charges and Service

Mr. Macpherson said plans for the future were not worked out, but he felt the resort must be able to take care of a larger volume of business. Charges for accommodations and for the various services rendered are no higher than last year, but there have been reductions in some instances with revision of menus, at the lodge, breakfast as served from a bill where the charge will be from 25 cents up, according to the taste of the patron. Luncheon is 75 cents and dinner, a dollar.

COMMANDER ELEVATED BY WILBUR

searching ships saying hopes of listen to radiated messages from rescue were abandoned, while, because of dropping the antennae under the water, they were unable to send messages themselves.

One member of the crew said: "We were forced to land after the second day out from San Francisco. We sighted a merchant vessel five miles off and signals were sent up repeatedly but the vessel went on. After that no planes were sighted until last Tuesday, when we saw a plane off the Oahu coast."

Morale Kept Up

Commander Rodgers said the plane was seaworthy and stood the rough weather well.

Members of the crew could not give Rodgers sufficient praise, saying that "Rodgers pulled us through. He should receive all the credit. He kidded us and not once lost heart. Doctral messages we kept picking up failed to impress him."

The men related how Rodgers shared rations with them and refused to share theirs when his own rationed exhaustion on the fifth day out. The original rations consisted of 13 sandwiches, three pints of coffee, three pints of soup, 24 lumps of sugar, six oranges, four containers of water to each man, with emergency rations of 30 gallons of water, canned beans, hard-tack, dried bread and prepared chocolate.

One of the crew said "Rodgers stood ever watch. He wouldn't sleep. He buckled us up every minute and when we looked downhearted, he told us about men he knew who had floated 15 days clinging to a log."

Indiana to Dedicate New Stadium Nov. 21

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The new memorial stadium of Indiana university will be dedicated November 21. The ceremonies preceding the Indiana-Purdue football game. The stadium represents a gift of $250,000 from alumni and friends and is one of the projects of a $1,000,000 group of memorial structures commemorating the part of Indiana university and its students in the World war.

A $400,000 women's dormitory, provided for by the fund, will be opened this fall and a men's union building remains to be constructed.

The stadium will seat 22,000 persons and is designed to permit enlargement to a seating capacity of 30,000 if that need arises. It can be emptied in five minutes through four ramps on its sides and exits on the curved surface, the top of which rises only slightly above the natural amphitheatre into which it is set.

In the preparation of the football field several feet of limestone were blasted out. New ground was brought in and leveled and a depth of six inches of cinders rolled into the surface. Twenty inches of selected sandy loam surround the cinders and on top of this is a two-inch covering of sand. A network of buried tiles assures perfect drainage.

The new field will be used for four games previous to the dedication, including that with Syracuse university October 17.

Impossible for everyone to make as much money as they say they do. If they did they would say more.

Many Housewives Seek To Emulate U. S. Budget

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The federal government, by getting on a budget basis, has inspired countless housewives throughout the country to emulate it.

The Bureau of the Budget here is receiving many requests from the holders of family parsimonies and even from members of congress for hints on saving money by making a budget and recording household expenses.

The office of General H. M. Lord, director of the bureau, however, is forced to reply that the government has prepared no schedule of proposed expenses for the household. Although dealing with an outlay of billions of dollars, the Budget Bureau has not yet shaped a course for expending salaries of $1000 a year and up, and is not now considering it. The nearest approach has been distribution by the bureau of a publication put out by a cash register concern, outlining a proposed budget for use by individuals and families.
