NERVE FREEDOM

When the nerves are free from constraint and have room to function properly, all is well with the nervous system, but when they are impeded and pinched, as in the illustration, disorders are bound to ensue, bringing untold suffering in their wake. Here is where chiropractic adjustments are needed for health restoration.

from widely separated sections of La Grande and from diversified trades are in the main distinctly favorable, either disclosing a further increase of activity or giving promise of future gains. Of actual expansion of business, that which appears in the steel industry is especially significant, because it reflects prosperous conditions in different lines. The railroads, which are handling the heaviest freight traffic in their history, have begun to make replacements. There is a steady demand from automobile manufacturers, whose operations keep up at a notable high rate; implement makers, with their position improved by the enhanced buying power of farmers, have taken large tonnages of bars, and building contractors have made extensive purchases of materials as a consequence of the unprecedented volume of new construction. With the inflow of orders from these and other sources, steel output has risen above 75 per cent on the average, and producers are firmer in their views as to prices.
