Westerner Tumbles Down Cliff to Find Lost Ranch.

In "The Mystery of Lost Ranch" the western melodrama that comes to the Sherry Theatre today only, Pete Morrison adopts a holly unique method of gaining knowledge of a lost ranch he has been searching for without success for weeks. In trying to find a trail down a mountain, he eventually falls over a cliff, rolls and tumbles to the bottom and right to the hidden entrance to a beautiful valley in the midst of which lies the lost ranch. It was an exciting and realistic episode in the actual filming of the picture—so true that Morrison had to lay off work for three days to patch up his bruised and aching body.
 At St. John in his latest comedy success "Farce Please" is also being shown.

Well Balanced Vaudeville Billed At Arcade Sunday

Another avalanche of sparkling novelty, a well balanced vaudeville bill will be seen at the Arcade theatre on Sunday next.
 Featuring Williams & Weston in "The American Naval Artists," electrical drawings arranged and costumed to make a most entertaining and amusing bit of entertainment. Lester & Vincent in "Black & Tan," all comedy talking, dancing, and instrumental selections which are presented in tip-top style by this team. Les Desmarchais in "Dances & Steps," each member of the trio being a solo dancer and they combine both classical and acrobatic dancing in their act. Their repertoire includes all well known styles of dancing and some new creations. Gromin & Waldo, a comedy team with no limit of versatility. They are late musical comedy producers with a bundle of good cheer and catchy songs. Moore, "The Contortionist" with a routine of unusual feats. What he does with his body has never been attempted before.
 Orchestra and pictures also featured on the bill.

Buster Keaton's "Seven Chances" Coming to Sherrys

David Belasco sold his great stage success, "Seven Chances," to Buster Keaton and Buster's first moving picture version of a stage play is said to be seven times as funny as the original "Seven Chances."
 "Seven Chances," written for Belasco by Rito Cooper Mergue, and produced with tremendous success in New York, was adapted to the screen by Jean Haux, Clyde Bruckman and Joe Mitchell. It is coming to the Sherry theater on Sunday.

 It looks as if hereafter Buster will continue to make film versions of stage plays, for Buster's scenarios have transformed "Seven Chances" into the funniest scenario ever submitted to the comedy star.
 Buster is surrounded with seventeen of the most beautiful bevy of leading women he has ever had. T. Roy Barnes, New York musical star, and Snitz Edwards also are featured in Buster's support.
 "Seven Chances" tells the story of a young New York broker who was so big-hearted that he sold everything he had and gave it to charity, thereby ruining himself and partner and breaking his fiancée's heart.
 Then comes a bequest from a deceased uncle who wills Buster $7,000,000, provided he marries within 24 hours after notification of the inheritance. Whereupon some 7,777 women in bridal finery lined by Buster's matrimonial advertisement, come on the run looking for Buster.
 "Seven Chances" is released by Joseph M. Schenck through Metro-Goldwyn pictures. It was directed by Buster himself.
 Buster's supporting cast, selected by Lou Anger, general manager, consists of Ruth Dwyer, leading woman; T. Roy Barnes, famous stage and film star; Snitz Edwards, Jules Cowles, Marion Harlan, daughter of Otis Harlan; Lora Bara, sister of Theda Bara; a bevy of fifteen other beautiful "baby stars" and some 7,777 "brides" of all ages and sizes.
 Others who materially aided on "Seven Chances" are Fred Gabourie, art director; Denver Harmon, cinematographers Byron Houch and Eighn Lowley; Al Gilmour, Schulin Kull and Bert Jackson.
 A special comedy entitled "Daddy Goes a Grunting," completes an all comedy program.

The speeder jumped the track and rolled down a 30-foot embankment, carrying Crosby with it.
