OFFICE CAT

By Junius

A man is in love when he wants to give his sweetie everything including himself.

Harri: "Why does a railroad company always pick out single men for brakemen?"
Karl: "Because no married man would ever dare to slam a door the way those boys do."

ETERNAL TRIANGLE.
Fablegram: "Tis said that a mouse is afraid of a man, a man is afraid of a woman and a woman is afraid of a mouse. Moral: There is a crowd."

The tallest man in the world has been arrested in New York for debt. He was found to be eight feet five inches tall and fifteen hundred dollars short.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Question: "Tell me how long girls should be loved?"
Answer: "Same as short ones."
Question: "On what side is one's bread really buttered?"
Answer: "Drop it and you'll always find it's the bottom side."
Question: "What's pasteurized milk?"
Answer: "Milk from cows that have been out to pasture."
Question: "Why do old maids wear cotton gloves?"
Answer: "Because they 'ave no kids."
Question: "Should there be more clubs for women?"
Answer: "Good gracious, no! Try kindness first."
Question: "What's overhead expense?"
Answer: "Hair nets."

It's all right for a girl to close her eyes while being kissed, but it's not right.

It's better if she keeps her mouth shut afterwards.

Some people make the fatal mistake of advertising themselves a lot before their goods arrive.

GRANDMA FITCHIE.
"Bob, if you please, This old gray head, For I must be In style," she said.

The farmer didn't need federal assistance in the old days. He could raise the fuel for Dobbin.

The spin a woman "loves to touch" in the ermine's.

Landlady: "I think you had better board elsewhere."
Boarder: "Yes, I'll admit I frequently have."
Landlady: "Have what?"
Boarder: "Have better board elsewhere."

Call a girl a "good sport" and she is highly complimented as she was two years ago when you called her a "perfect lady."

Some girls have a bonnet at home, which she uses the mirrors in the chewing gum machines.

Obituary

GEORGE THOMAS, who has been at the Grande Falls hospital for some weeks and was suffering from a lingering illness, died at 11:20 a. m. Sunday. Arrangements for the funeral are not complete, but the body probably will be sent to E. Terpore for burial.
The decedent, who had been an employe of a lumber company at Enterprise, had no known relatives in this country. A brother, who is a President of an mine, is known to reside in England.
Women may be slaves to fashion. But, in summer, their burdens are very light.

THE JOY OF A BOOK

(Contributed)
"When a totter of frost creeps in the air, And the north wind's soaring bugles blow; When the long, gray evenings gather down From the hills that shadow the walled-in town; When the dripping caves in a bleak refrain Chant the wail of a winter's rain, Oh, where is the poet left to sing: A song of dream in the land of Spring? A song of dream that may compare To a volume—a book—and an easy chair?"

The days for "hammock tales" and "strollers for a shady nook" are very many gone. But the public library is ready with just the sort of books you are going to want for those evenings when a touch of frost creeps in the air. An easy chair, a fire in the fireplace and just the right sort of a book makes life worth living. What will you have?—a delightful group of essays, an interesting travel book, a biography of a world-famous person or a new novel? We make the following suggestions:

- "The Real Sarah Bernhardt," Bertin & Woon.
- "From Bangkok to Bombay," Carpenter.
- "In the Land of the Laughing Buddha," Hall.
- "Beyond the Moon Gate," Housinger.
- "Ariel Life of Shelley," Andrus Maurus.
- "Shadow of the Gloomy East," Oczkowski.
- "New Decalogue of Science," Wigzom.
- "Mark Twain's Autobiography," "Twisted Tales," Ward.

SHIPS WHEAT TO PORTLAND

STARKEY (Special) — Many of the farmers are hauling their wheat to the Jordan creek landing and loading it on the cars there for shipping. Most of the wheat is being shipped to Portland.

PENDELTON ROUND-UP.
Oh! The Round-Up, what a success, Cowboys and cow-boys and Indians in bright dress; Bulldozing, roping, racing, twirling the lariat, Yes, money was up for the very best.

Thousands of people viewing the stunts, Pulled out by the world's champion bunch, The riders, both men and women, Including the native Umatilla Indian.

The best bands of the world Were there, playing songs new and old, Pleasing the public of this great northwest And making the Round-Up a grand success. September, 1925. —J. Tuttle.

HEALTH

MILK (By Dr. Frederick Stricker)
Milk may carry disease germs and in this way infect persons using milk. To prevent this, milk is often pasteurized. In preventing the transmission of disease germs, greater emphasis should be placed on the methods of obtaining the milk. The dairyman should have clean pails and clean hands, and the udder of the cow should be cleaned before milking. The farmer who takes the milk pail from the fence and, without washing his hands, milks the cow which has been standing in a dirty stable is not getting clean milk. Furthermore, he is neglecting a duty and responsibility he owes his family and his neighbors. The germs and dirt in milk are real sources of danger to the body, but they can be eliminated by the careful collection and distribution of the milk supply. The cows should be cured for in a sanitary stable and every means used to keep them clean and healthy. Cows should be cleaned preparatory to milking. Covered pails should be used to keep the milk free from dirt. It is very important to keep the milk clean after it is collected. All bottles should be sterilized and the hands should not be allowed to come in contact with the milk or inside of the bottles. Flies and dirt should not gain access to the milk at any time. In spite of the care exercised in many places in collecting milk, a certain amount of infectious material gains entrance to milk after it is collected. To prevent these organisms getting into the body and so causing diseases, pasteurization is widely practiced. Cities after pasteurizing milk have noticed a drop in the amount of sickness and in the number of deaths.
