STATE'S CASE STRENGTHENED

SALEM, Ore. (By the Associated Press)—Two blows were dealt the defense in the Tom Murray murder trial here yesterday when X-ray photographs were introduced by the state, showing the course of the bullet which brought death to John Ewemy, guard. The bullet was identified as from a 32.20 caliber revolver, the same caliber as the one taken from Murray when he was captured at Centralia, Wash. The second blow was a series of pages taken from a note book found beside the body of "Oregon" Jones, on which was written with a blue pencil: "I would like to see Doc (a brother in the penitentiary). I love him. I love the Jones people. I die game."

"Oh my, how I hurt. I hate to die. I am shot. They will hang me if I don't. I shot myself."

The note was signed by "Oregon" Jones, and the writing was identified as similar to that of the dead convict.

The defense planned to show that John Davidson, believed responsible for the shooting of the escaping convict, killed him in cold blood. Instead of the contemplated extensive grilling on the death of the guard, the defense satisfied itself with a 15-minute examination.

LAY PLANS FOR PARK AT MEACHAM

The plan for financing the park calls for authorization by congress of an issue of 1,000,000 gold dollars which would be sold for $2 each. The extra million dollars would provide for the creation and maintenance of the park. This matter will be placed before congress at the next session, it is believed.

A notable feature of Mr. Penrose's address was sounded, in the opinion of those present, when he said there are three salient features connected with founding of the memorial park—first, to honor the late President Harding; second, saving the blue mountain forests from future destruction; and third, the honoring of the heroic past virtues of the pioneers.

Mr. Penrose is president of Whitman college, which was named after Marcus Whitman of historic fame in the northwest and the McLoughlin school where the meeting was held was named after Dr. McLoughlin, who was Whitman's co-worker.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Esther Sunquist Bowers, a violinist of national fame, and the singing was led by Cyril Mead of Spokane, who led the singing at the Multnomah field when the late president spoke there in 1923.

Among the La Grande people who were in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dennis, A. W. Nelson, secretary of the Oregon Trail association, and W. C. Kelley, representing the Union County Chamber of Commerce.

Church 3-Year Budget Set at $18,000,000.00

Now amounts to $9,500,000." Mr. Franklin continued, "This increase is largely due to the response of the appeal for Japanese relief."

The total giving for all church purposes increased from $24,000,000 in 1919 to $39,000,000 in 1923; the report declared, although gifts toward the regular operating budget showed a decrease that in two of the last three years was less than the expense.

The budget for the next three years allows for these items: New construction in mission fields at home and abroad, $4,500,000.
