noble houses unopposed failed to remedy the trouble because idle men were willing accomplices when paid with free drinks.
The whole empire is alarmed at conditions, and every measure intended to improve them only makes matters worse. Treguhart declares he fears a big labor upheaval in England before spring.

LOST MERCHANT FOUND

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—Leo Houston, prominent Klamath Falls merchant, was found by a posse headed by his brother, Fred Houston, after being lost in the wilds of the Pokesgama country on the lower Klamath river.
Houston was hunting deer when he lost his way in the thick underbrush. He kept walking throughout the latter cold night and had found a forest service road, down which he was slowly plodding when the posse reached him today.

PROMISE MEN RETURN HOME

PROMISE (Special)—Reuben Barton and Mr. Smith arrived last week from West Virginia. Edgar Barton went to La Grande to meet them and bring them to Promise.

Those who attended the county fair from Promise were Mr. and Mrs. N. Poulson, Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Carper, Mr. and Mrs. Will Carper, Harold and Ralph Carper and Harvey McDonald.

Charles Carper took a load of prunes to Wallowa Friday.

W. I. Sanner took a load of prunes to Wallowa Thursday.

Mrs. Reed, who has been visiting her son, Will Reed, for several weeks, returned to La Grande Thursday.

W. J. Peed and Holes Newby went to Wallowa Thursday.

Glady Roby is staying with Mrs. Julia Sanner.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Lively and family, of Mexville, were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Lora Carper, who has been attending high school at Wallowa, returned home Thursday. She is ill with a cold.

Mrs. Ward Clark and son, of Oregon City, visited here with Mrs. Clark's sisters, Mrs. Gorbett and Mrs. Marshal Fleishman and Mrs. P. Carper, last week. They returned home Monday accompanied by Mrs. Emily Phillips, who goes to the Willamette valley to spend the winter.

Robert Carner returned from a two weeks' stay in La Grande last Friday. He also made a trip to Eagle valley while away.

Miss Eunice Courtney and Miss Lillian Carper went to Troy Friday evening.

Mr. Porter was over to Eden last week gathering up some cattle, which he drove to Wallowa by way of Powesatka and sold, returning Saturday.

Old Ironsides Week To Begin October 15

Because of the conflict with the teachers' institute in La Grande October 22-23, the observance of "Save Old Ironsides" week has been advanced to Thursday, October 15. "Themes on subjects named by the leaders of the national movement will be written by children in all grades from fourth through high school. The observance will culminate Wednesday in programs in each school building, with a member of the Elks lodge, which sponsors the movement, as chief speaker.

BOARD TO HELP MINERS

BAKER, Ore.—George R. Wiegand, supervisor, member of the Oregon state board of mines survey for the district of eastern Oregon, left here for Salem to attend a meeting of the board.
"The subject to be taken up will relate to furnishing direct and practical assistance to the prospector and miner engaged in developing his property," Mr. Wiegand said.
A program will be adopted looking to the classification of the mineral resources of the entire state and the board will recommend such legislation as may be deemed necessary for the benefit of the whole mining industry.

Whether a friend in need is a friend indeed usually depends upon what he is in need of.

DEVELOPING OF OREGON BIG FACTOR

The competition of northern transcontinental lines in the Klamath territory and that duplication should be avoided by the joint use of existing lines, was made to the interstate commerce commission hearing yesterday by Governor Walter M. Pierce.

This pointed recommendation from the state's chief executive was made at the completion of the most bitterly contested session in the hearings which have been conducted during the past 10 days by Charles D. Mahaffie, director of finance for the commission.

SERENE GENEVA STIRRED BY RICH MAHARAJAH

GENEVA (AP)—So accustomed is Geneva to greatness within its borders that it rarely gets excited over an important newcomer, but it awoke with sudden interest with the advent of the Maharajah of Patiala, who came as one of the Indian delegates to the league of nations assembly. The maharajah is credited with being the world's richest resident.

In the ballrooms of the hotels where various delegations gave receptions with dancing a feature, the maharajah was the center of attraction. Despite his rather ponderous body he waltzed gracefully with some of the fairest of the ladies present. His bosom glittered with precious gemstones and in the lobes of his ears shone huge pearls encircled with diamonds.
The maharajah came with a suite of 14 persons. He proved a source of material delight to Geneva shopkeepers. He is reported to have spent $10,000 alone in the purchase of watches and binoculars, for which he seems to have a passion as a collector. He developed into such a fantastic and interested personality that eventually to escape the crowds he was forced to leave his hotel by the kitchen door to attain his automobile unmolested.
But if the maharajah was ever in the public eye his spouse, the maharane, and her two ladies-in-waiting, remained in obscurity, for which she seems to have a passion as a collector. He developed into such a fantastic and interested personality that eventually to escape the crowds he was forced to
