OPEN SEASON ON DEER ENDS

The curtain was let down on the 1925 deer hunting season in Eastern Oregon last evening, after several nimble made last minute efforts during the day to procure a buck or two.

Several deer have been brought into La Grande during the period of legal hunting but high honors are still held by J. W. Knowlton, circuit judge, who, as far as he was concerned, opened and closed the season the same day. He bagged two bucks on the opening day of the season and his feet had not been equalled in the county, according to available reports.

Phoebes hunters are still returning with birds. The season will not close until October 21.

The open season on grouse and native pheasants ended yesterday. The duck season will not close until January 15, next year.

WALLOWA HUNTING FAIR.
WALLOWA, Ore. (Special)—A considerable number of deer hunters have been in the timbered sections during the final days of the open season in search of game. Reports from some who have returned home indicate only a moderate degree of success.

Many hunters have been in the field since the opening of the pheasant season, each trying to get the limit of birds. The amount of shooting indicates that the birds are being found and the hunter's bag boys take out. Pheasants are plentiful in many parts of the county, especially in the valley.

NIMRODS GET BIRDS.
UNION, Ore. (Special)—Local hunters have been out after pheasants during the opening days of the season. Several of them succeeded in securing the limit.

Seven Ring Champions Named by Boxing Body

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Champions in the seven major pugilistic classes were named by the National Boxing Association of the United States in concluding its sixth annual convention here.

Decision of the association was based upon the report of a special committee composed of E. A. McAvoy of Michigan, Louis W. Ellis of Michigan and Thomas K. Donohue of Connecticut.

The champions named include Jack Dempsey, heavyweight; Paul W. Harrison, light-heavyweight; Harry Greb, middleweight; Mickey Walker, welterweight; Jimmy Goodrich, lightweight; Louis (Noll) Kaplan, featherweight; and Edith La Barba, flyweight.

He's Pro Gridder Now

No doubt you remember Lyle Bonner, former star grid of the Vandenberg team. He was rated one of the greatest blockers ever turned out in the south and gained all-America recognition. Now he is a member of the New York Giants professional eleven, named in the National Pro League class.

OFFENSIVE IS OREGON'S HOPE

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore. (Special)—A drive for offensive.

This is the program of the Oregon football team in the last minute preparation for the California eleven. Oregon, heretofore a doubtful quantity, insists the big test of the season Saturday against the Bears in Portland.

Coach Dick Smith, hampered by a crippled team, is driving his men through a week of long, strenuous hours of grueling practice in an attempt to get a scoring team. Oregon so far this year has been weak on offense, and this is Coach Smith's problem. He is using every means to secure a co-ordinated offensive machine.

A slow moving line has handicapped the team in the three games played this season, but from the way the men are going through their paces this week on the field and against the plunging machine the word "speed" is becoming a part of the new spirit.

Oregon has two backfield combinations working out this week. One, composed of Lynn Jones at full; Louis Anderson at quarter; and Wetzel and Vitus at half, is scheduled to do the heavy work of line plunging. The other, made up of Kiminki and Minnaugh at the halves; Hodgins at full; and Harrison at quarter, is a lighter combination and may be used in case the former combination is unable to gain ground. This quartet is fast and shifty.

Wetzel is an exceptional punter and will be used to give Oregon an even exchange in California's "percentage" football.

The Webfoot aggregation hopes to give California its hardest battle this year as the coaches and team have been pointing toward this contest since the opening of practice last September.

BOXING

LONDON DEFEATS GARDINI
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jim London, Greek wrestler, defeated Renato Gardini, Italian, two falls out of three here. London outweighed 25 pounds, staged a comeback after dropping the first fall. The program was an international affair, eight nationalities being represented on the bill.

BROWN RETAINS TITLE
LONDON (AP)—Johnny Brown retained his title of bantam weight champion of Great Britain, when he defeated Mick Hill of Tooting by a knockout at the National Sporting club. The knockout came in the twelfth of what was to have been a 16-round bout.

GARCIA DECISIONS KRAMER
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bobby Garcia, Baltimore feather weight, won the referee's decision over Jimmy Kramer, Philadelphia at the end of a fast ten round bout. Garcia weighed 127½, Kramer 125½.

CERVANTES K. O'S WARREN
SALT LAKE (AP)—Nabe Cervantes, Mexican lightweight of Denver, knocked out Cracker Warren of Portland. The Colorado boy had the best of the boxing go throughout.

CAMEL BONES FOUND

BEND, Ore.—Buried ages ago in the soft sands of the great Pleistocene lakes which spread over a considerable part of the south central Oregon country, fossilized bones of huge camels which lived in this part of the world thousands of years ago have been found by Dr. L. Packard of University of Oregon geology faculty.

It is the belief of Dr. Packard, who passed through Bend today with the mineralized bones of the prehistoric camels on his way to Eugene, that the newly found fossil locality is rich in remnants of faunal life which ranged on the shores of the ancient lake. It is his opinion that fossil of mammoths, strange birds, and many creatures now extinct will be found in this locality in the Enkevis country.

COYOTE INVADERS SALEM

SALEM, Ore.—A young coyote, which entered a poultry pen at the state school for the blind here, was shot and killed by William McCarroll, engineer at the institution. Officials said the coyote probably was responsible for the death of a large number of young chickens at the school in the last few weeks.

The coyote first was noticed by Mildred Mortenson, landlady at the institution, who closed the door after it had entered the pen. She then called the engineer.

Castle Rock Postoffice Burns
