OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

By Condo

How many thrills can be crammed into one play?

The answer can be seen at the Star theater, where "The Circus Cyclone," Art Acord's sensational new Blue Streak Western production released through Universal, is now playing.

The cyclonic Western hero, perhaps the world's greatest stunt rider and acknowledged the world's champion broncho rider at the Pendleton Roundup, has a role in which the thrills of a circus and the thrills of the Western range are all combined into one fast-moving, hard riding concentration of excitement.

Acord plays a cowboy in love with a circus girl in a show playing a border town. He has to battle a whole circus and a lynch mob to get her—and the result is a play that holds the audience in breathless suspense from start to finish.

Acord dives from the "Big Top" to a stampeding horse; he and Albert J. Smith fight a desperate battle on a careening automobile hurtling itself over a cliff road. There is a spectacular ring fight before a circus audience; a wild ride to rescue Cesare Graciani from a mob of Western lynchers, and many other stirring incidents from the action. A pretty romance runs through it all.

Nancy Dever, charming heroine of "Wolf Bang" and other productions, in leading woman, Cesare Graciani, Albert J. Smith and other standard artists complete the cast.

At the Arcade

"Man Without a Conscience" Is Powerful Picture

Opening Thursday at the Arcade theater will be the William Fox production special based on the recent stage success, "The Bachelor." The cast includes many prominent stars, among them George O'Brien, Alma Rubens and Madge Bellamy.

The story is laid in the Argentine and London and concerns itself with the square-dealing Tony, proprietor of Tony's Bar. George O'Brien as Tony is madly loved by Maxine (Alma Rubens), the dance hall girl. Tony resists her attentions and at last discloses a childhood affair with Una (Madge Bellamy), his childhood sweetheart, whom he has promised to marry.

But this was long ago and now Una is a gay flapper in a London circle of dance-mad friends. Her guardian exhorts her to marry the wealthy Evan Caruthers (Freeman Wood) but Una refuses. That night she leads Evan on and with the stimulating effect of wine in her veins, in a scene fraught with allurements, she yields to his embraces.

At this time Tony, who through the death of his uncle is now wealthy, comes to London to claim his girl-child. The wedding day arrives and Tony and Una meet for the first time in many years—this cold is the realization of the broken dream—Tony is overjoyed and anxiously awaiting their life together. Upon questioning, Una reveals the cause of her coldness and as Tony turns his back, Una swallows poison.

Tony returns to his bar and Maxine who still holds out to the heart-broken man her love, is overjoyed at his return to share the life of notorious "Tony's Bar."

DANNUNZIO GIVES MANUSCRIPT
GARDONE RIVIERA (AP)—Gardone D'Annunzio has given the original manuscript of his book "Alecione" to the Ambrosian library in testimony of his appreciation of its important work as a fount of Italian culture.

A bachelor is a man who can't even enjoy staying away from home.

Money won't get you into society, but lack of it will put you out.

I have several modern homes located in different portions of the city. All are priced right; several I can sell on very liberal terms. I have a few where a substantial payment is required, where the owners realize to assure these payments they must offer extraordinary values. Now is the time to buy La Grande property. Remember this statement: Those who buy now will save money over those who wait until next spring. Sales invariably follow conditions when good houses to rent are scarce. That is the condition in La Grande today and the renting problem is going to be pronounced more and more during the coming year. It is the "original thinker" who is the success. The majority, always have and always will follow leaders—they buy when the buying boom is on, they stop when the other fellow stops, but the shrewd buyer awaits his opportunity. That opportunity is now. Permit me to show you some real home bargains.
