explained, has come to the association through earnest study of needs and the promotion of action into law.

He gives the teacher body credit for the establishment of additional normal schools, referring to the weight its influence had in the re-establishment of the school at Ashland.

East Oregon School Sought—A school for Eastern Oregon is now earnestly sought by the association, he said, and the members will not give up until the school has been established.

Election of officers for the Walla Walla and Union county units was followed by the recommendation of nominees for state office.

J. A. Churchill, the present state superintendent of education, who is soon to become the head of the Ashland normal college, brought to the teachers a collection of tests aimed to direct the interests of the pupils to the history, geography, industry and commerce of Oregon.

Teachers of the smallest pupils had the counsel this morning of Miss Maude Reagan, who for 16 years has been a primary teacher in the schools of Portland. Miss Reagan was at Baker before she went to Portland, as a teacher under Mr. Churchill during his superintendency there.

"Being, not seeming to be" was the keynote of the address that Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette college, gave before a good-sized audience at the latter Day Saints tabernacle last night.

"Secret of Success" was the keynote of the address that Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette college, gave before a good-sized audience at the latter Day Saints tabernacle last night.

Dr. Doney's talk was spiced with humor and concrete illustrations that held his hearers from his first word to his last.

R. J. Hamner opened the program with two brilliant solos, "Prologue" from "Fidelio" and "The Invictus" by John Ruskin. Miss Ruby Lobs Dillon, leader of the school orchestra, played two selections on the flute.

When he talked to the teachers, this morning on "The Magic of Words," he urged them to enlarge their vocabularies that they might enjoy more not only the things of literature but the things of life.

"It is a crime for a teacher to use slang," he declared. "You, the leaders, should have enough words to express yourselves without resorting to crass language."

Resolutions adopted by the association at a late hour today were framed by Roy Conklin of Union, Frank Bennett of Enterprise, James Eason of Wallowa, Orin Sampbell of Enterprise and E. S. McCormick of Elgin.

FRENCH MESS

REMAINS IN UNCERTAINTY

Socialists will demand a capital levy to balance the budget and provide a fund for the payment of France's debts, to the exclusion of further inflation or increased taxation.

May Increase Taxes

M. Calliaux's measure probably will involve a further limited inflation, with a sinking fund to retire new bills and increased taxation. The political situation arising from the conflict of the opposing programs of the government and part of its parliamentary majority is so complex that no political experts risk a forecast of the outcome.

The uncertainty as to the future gives rise to alarming rumors, but the French nation as a whole, with undisturbed equanimity, watches the franc tumble with increased rapidity and listens to the threatening reports of a capital levy, inflation to the amount of 10 billion francs and a possible cut of from 50 to 50 percent in the interest on government bonds is considered without a trace of financial stampede. This is the saving feature of the situation, and on the bourse Thursday, despite the weakness, the franc was firm.

In the Aleutian Islands in Alaska the temperature never falls as low as zero and tropical heat is experienced in summer.

Sidelights

There are motherly women with silvered hair and kind, wrinkled eyes among the registrants at the teachers' institute in La Grande today, and there are young girls to whom life is a gay adventure with its illusions all unpricked.

"I'm 51," proudly whispered a spy little veteran from Burns, in Harney county, as she leaned across an intervening seat to press the hand of Miss Maude Reagan, of Portland, one of her former pupils.

Mrs. Nellie Neill, who teaches in the Riveria school, and Mrs. Stella Ingie, of Central, are La Grande's representatives among the registrants who boast the right to the title, "Grandmother."

Down at the other end of the aisle in 10-weeks old Anna Kathleen Devon.

Anna Kathleen has never enrolled in a teachers' agency, but the Day Ridge school at Flora will tell you that she has just been contracted with her mother, Mrs. Olova Devon, to take charge of the district for another term.

Mrs. Devon began teaching in the Day Ridge school when the baby, her fifth child, was only two weeks old. She has a small bed for her in the schoolroom, and Anna Kathleen lies there without a whimper while her mother hears classes. Mrs. Devon has two of the older children among her pupils.

J. J. Conley, who is superintendent of the schools of Wallowa county, and Roy Conklin, superintendent of Union schools, are among the patriarchs at the institute, both having taught for more than three decades.

Mr. Conley, who has 40 years as a teacher to his credit, introduced Mrs. A. E. Ivanhoe, who completed her eighth year as superintendent of Union county schools last January, during the morning session today.

Mrs. Ivanhoe — affectionately called "Mother" Ivanhoe by those who have come under her direction and counsel—spoke a few words that were encouragement and inspiration to the educators.

California to Get Fugitive

Agner was said to have escaped on July 4 of this year while employed in a road camp.
