both lost its mystery, whereof shall it be mystified? Well, there is yet to be learned how it came to be there. Was it an innocent bit of refuse from a show dealer's housecleaning? Or did a prankster, who mistook the date of Halloween?

The chief of police is not concerned. He laughed his hearty laugh and called it a joke. As for the deputy sheriff, he is doing double duty these days with the sheriff gone to Oklahoma for a prisoner, and is glad to be relieved of the mystery. The coroner, had already told him that the possibility of identifying remains even if he should find any would scarcely warrant the expenditure of the county's tax money.

Nothing's free in this world, even though you may not realize just how you pay.

'Dig!' Says Anne

Demand that John W. Hubbard, show king, should cut half a million or more in a suit filed at Pittsburg by Anne Caldwell, actress, Hubbard failed to carry out his promise, says the actress to make her showings in America and install her in the beautiful Pittsburg mansion show.

Sister Mary Says:

(By Sister Mary) Breakfast—Chilled apple sauce, cereal, thin cream, creamed dried beef on toast, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Children under school age should not be served the creamed dried beef for breakfast but the child who must go to school should be served school and either carry a lunch or hurry home needs a hearty breakfast.

The toast sticks are suggested with the soup to provide a dish that requires thorough mastication. If children are allowed to break their toast into bits and drop it in their soup they defeat the purpose of the toast and learn poor table manners.

Noodles. One egg, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup flour (sifted), 1/2 cup water, 1 egg and beat well. Mix and stir with fork. Roll into egg washers, fork. Work until smooth. The dough should be as stiff as putty. Roll on a slightly floured mending board until as thin as pasteboard. Cover with a towel and let stand 20 minutes. Roll like a jelly roll and cut in as thin slices as possible. Shake out and drop into boiling hot broth. Roll 15 minutes. Pour to six cups of broth, should be used.

The Garden

ONIONS FOR FALL PLANTING Two members of the onion tribe ought to be installed in the garden this month if you haven't them for early spring. These are the multiplier or potato onion and a few clusters of chives. Both are hardy perennials. The multiplier onion gives the easiest of all young onions for the garden as it will be ready to pull in April. The chives will be ready for clippings in late April or early May as flavoring for salads, omelette, soup and the like. The chive is a tiny, grass-like onion whose fine leaves are sheared off for use and speedily reproduces the crop. It makes an ornamental border in the garden as it thrives up heads of very pretty lavender flowers in late May. There are a great many ways in which the chive is used. It is one of the ingredients of thousand island dressing for salads, according to some recipes. It is often mixed with cream cheese for sandwiches or salads, or is chopped fine and sprinkled over potatoe potatoes, or it is cooked in the potatoes instead of onions. The chive is a very convenient plant for it will grow almost anywhere. A bunch can be placed in a flower pot and be kept going in a sunny kitchen window all winter, giving sufficient leaves to cut for salads. It can also be available almost every day all winter if placed in a cold frame. Now and then you see a salad sitting on the table looking almost good enough to eat.

ing for reapers, he said. They are the rural frontier, the logging camps and the transit communities.

Last Sunday the superintendent visited a community, within 150 miles of La Grande, where the gospel had never been preached until a year ago. Four generations have lived there and, with the exception of their religious education in other parts of the United States, they had never had a church or a Sunday school where they might hear the gospel.

Mr. Hamilton's talk was supplemented by a ceremonial given by a group of Queen Esther members from North Powder, who performed under the direction of Miss Joseph Brockland.

Missionaries at work. In her talk last evening, Mrs. Brock described scenes from the missionary activities of the society among the mountain whites and the foreign populations of the cities.

The missionaries are at work, she said, but cannot do their part fully unless the members at home are willing to fulfill their share in the responsibility.

The national society now has 456,258 members. Last year a total of $2,325,436 was raised and spent in mission activities on the mainland, in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and San Domingo. There are 1395 missionaries and deaconesses employed in 219 institutions, Mrs. Brock stated.

Mr. R. F. Tyler and the Queen Esther girls of La Grande have prepared an elaborate exemplification of the initiation ceremonial as their part on the program this evening, which closes the convention.

The delegates to the convention are being entertained at luncheon next dinner in the parlors of the church, the local society acting as hostess.

DIVORCE SAID CANKER IN LIFE OF AMERICA

LONDON (AP)—The Rev. William H. Carnegie, canon of Westminster, who has just returned from the United States, is quoted in an interview given the Evening News as saying that "the canker in the life of America is divorce, and as divorcing 'with all seriousness' that America is degenerating from a human society into a monkey house."

"It may well mean the end of their civilization," he added.

MANY BOATS USE LOCKS CASCADE LOCKS, Ore.—Seventeen boats have gone through the locks this month, towing more than 665,000 board feet of lumber, according to the reports in the office of V. B. Tomkins, engineer in charge of the government locks in the Columbia river here.

The boats used for this work are twin-screw gasoline boats and tow from 25,000 to 60,000 feet at one time. The logs from the Wind River mill here have all been taken down to the lower mills, since the mill stopped operation about two months ago.

There are still many logs to be taken down this fall before freezing weather begins and the work is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

President Riley stated that the contracts for the buildings would be let immediately upon his return from New York city and work would be started to complete the buildings in time for next year's term.
