INDIAN PARADE ENDS SESSION

SPOKANE (AP)—The Pacific Northwest Indian congress cannot officially to a close Saturday night with a parade of braves and their families from the four northwestern states. Ponies and their riders, men, women and children, were bedecked with a king's ransom of beads, furs and feathers. "Princess America," Miss Alice Garry of the Spokanes, blood descendant of old Chief Spokane Garry, the white man's friend, rode in a float of state, surrounded by the Indian beauties of the north-west. Many other floats were representative of events of the early history of the region, among them one commemorative of the work of the Jesuits during more than half a century, on which rode Father Joseph Cataldo, himself a veteran of more than 60 years' service.

Pioneer Floats Feature Others recalled the place of the Walla Walla, Okanogan and Columbia valleys in the development of the northwestern states and the evolution of the Indian's place in the society of that region. The Yakima and Coeur d'Alene tribes were represented both by floats and by large delegations of mounted and walking Indians. Indian "royal blood" mingled with American civilization and education asserted itself in the selection of the most beautiful Indian maiden and the nearest perfect Indian baby of the Pacific northwest.

almost successful when suddenly all trace of the young man is lost. Then she meets some old friends who are near the verge of poverty. In order to assist them, she sinks her own aristocratic personality in that of a refined but humble Irish servant.

She carries her schemes to success, not only assisting her friends, but finding romance and lively adventure for herself. Music for the play, which is to be given both Friday and Saturday evenings, will be furnished by the orchestra under direction of Miss Ruby Dillon, and by the high school chorus and quartet with Miss Isabel Miller directing. Miss Trillian Ashby, a junior, will contribute an Irish dance as her part in the entertainment.

Miss Mabel A. Bennett who, with Misses Florence Thompson and Mabel Dillon, is directing the junior play, spoke enthusiastically this morning of the readiness of La Grande people to provide the cast with required properties.

'ABIE'S IRISH ROSE' SCORES

"Shall I ask the brave soldier who fights by my side in the cause of mankind, if our creeds agree? Shall I give up the friend I have valued and tried, if he kneel not before the same altar with me? From the heroic girl of my soul seek somewhere else a more orthodox kiss? No, perish the hearts and the laws that try Truth, valor, or love, by a standard like this?" —Tom Moore.

"Abie's Irish Rose," Anne Nichols' hit that is still running in New York after four solid years, came up to all expectations when it was given by a talented cast before a La Grande crowd at the Arcade theater Saturday night.

From beginning to end the play was one side-splitting comedy, each situation resulting in clean mirth that was highly contagious. The plot, built around a Jewish boy and an Irish girl who were married three—by a Methodist minister, by a Jewish rabbi and by a Catholic priest—in an effort to satisfy the parents, and themselves, naturally involved funny situations. The cast made the most of its opportunity throughout.

Weldon Heyburn and Dorothy Cochran were likable as "Abie" and "Rosemary," the much-married couple, and handled their leads in an infectious manner. Jacob Frank, as "Isaac Cohen," a hen-pecked Jew, enacted his part to perfection, both vocally and physically. Arthur S. Ross played the part of "Abie's" papa and Austin Walsh was "Rosemary's" father. "Father Whalen" and "Rabbi Jacob Samuels" were portrayed by Carl Gilin and Ross Gibson, and "Mrs. Isaac Cohen" was Berta Walden.

THREE TEAMS LEADING RACE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The football teams of Washington and Stanford emerged victorious from coast conference encounters Saturday. Washington defeated Washington State, 23 to 0, at Pullman, while Stanford, playing in her stadium gave Oregon another trouncing, this one 35 to 13.

California, performing outside the conference, used second string men largely to defeat Pomona, 27 to 0, at Los Angeles. Washington, Stanford and California are the only teams undefeated in the conference and the next three weeks will determine which is destined to be champion. Next Saturday at Seattle, Stanford tacked Washington. The Saturday succeeding, Washington will come down to Berkeley to take on California and on the third Saturday California and Stanford will clash in the Stanford stadium.

The Oregon Aggies, whose only defeat was administered by Shenandoah a week ago, knocked over Montana, 27 to 7, at Corvallis. Southern California had swampy Idaho, 51 to 7, at Moscow Friday. Previously Southern California was humbled by Stanford.

Oregon Death Rate Up, Federal Figures Show

MAN DIES UNDER TRAIN

MARSHFIELD, Ore.—Ed Richardson, 51, ex-factory operator on the Coquille river, committed suicide at Coquille by crawling under the wheels of a Southern Pacific logging train which had stopped for a short time. To make his death certain he crawled under the car between the two sets of wheels and waited for the train to start or back up.

Dependancy over ill health was given as cause of suicide. He leaves three daughters in Coquille and a divorced wife in Bandon. He had been absent from the county seven years, and returned two weeks ago to visit his children.

ELLIOTT LEADING SCORES ON COAST

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Howard Elliott, fleet quarterback of the University of Southern California, retained his premier position as leading scorer of Pacific coast football over the week end by his touchdown against Idaho Friday, although the 12 points scored by his alternate in the U. S. C. quarterback position, Morton Kaer, put Kaer only three points behind.

In collegiate games played by the Los Angeles university this fall Elliott has carried the ball across the 100 yard line and has made three points by conversion for a total of 47 points. Kaer has 11 touchdowns to his credit.

Met Ingram of Gonzaga added nothing to his string of point scores in the Haskell game Saturday, but his total of 54 was good enough to hold him in third position.

Two touchdowns by Earl Jahn of California against Pomona raised him from his tie with Nevada at Stanford from seventh place to a tie with George Wilson of the University of Washington for fourth position.

Hugh Beckett of Washington added nothing to his scoring laurels Saturday and Ernie Nevada's touchdown for Stanford brought him even with Beckett with seven touchdowns for a total of 42 points.

Schulmerich, Oregon Aggies' star backfield performer, out of the O. A. C. lineup against Montana, dropped from sixth to eighth position, maintaining his total of 37 points for the season. Shidler, University of Washington, and Edwards, O. A. C. both heavy scorers early in the season, added no points to their totals of 34 and 24.
