VETS HERE REMEMBER DAY IN 1918
... he relates mournfully.
Justice Hugh E. Brady had the unique experience of celebrating with the legion guards at Peking, China.
Celebrated in China
"When the flash came at 5:20 a. m. the American sergeant of the guard took it upon himself to sound the alarm. He gathered all the buglers into one place and had them blow peace at intervals for a full half hour.
"Most of us didn't know what it meant, but before 6 o'clock every inhabitant of the legion quarters which stretched two blocks wide and a quarter of a mile long, was in the streets. Americans, French, Italians, English, Japanese, Portuguese, Greeks, Chinese—everybody rejoicing at once. The British, the French and the Italian, who had been under the strain for so long, embraced each other with tears streaming down their cheeks. I saw a poor old American colonel smile when a French dandy con-communicated with the folks at home. The boy was fed and cared for, then started toward mother and father.

Such instances as these are frequent in our work. The Salvation Army is not all beating a bass drum and shaking a tambourine. Ask the police department if they ever use the Salvation Army when it becomes necessary to place a woman, girl or child under arrest. The Salvation Army is usually called upon to help in caring for the unfortunate. The police know that we are subject to call any time, day or night.
The Salvation Army is always on duty. We offer Salvation to the man or woman who is down, and also help the man or woman who is up. We know no difference in social status. People are just God's children to us and it is our business to follow the teaching of the Savior and render service. Service is the watchword of the Salvation Army.
We are a part of La Grande and feel that we deserve the consideration of those who feel that we are an actual benefit to the community. We are still carrying on our campaign for funds, with which to carry on the work here in La Grande. To those whom we have been unable to call upon up to this time we wish to say that we will call soon and hope that you have made up your minds to help us.
Somewhere in the Good Book is the statement that "He who giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord." The Salvation Army deals almost entirely with the poor. If you like the good security that the Salvation Army has, how much you are willing to help when she calls upon you this week.

University's Homecoming Plans Feature Welcome
A. C. at Hayward field will begin at 2 p. m. and in the evening the Homecoming ball beginning at 8:30 p. m. will take place in the Wagon building.
20,000 Expected.
Sunday—Mortar Board breakfast at the Anchorage, 8 a. m. The Mortar Board is a Senior Women's Honorary organization. Vesper services at Music auditorium, 7:30 p. m. At these services the Rt. Rev. Walter T. Sumner, Episcopal bishop of Oregon will deliver the sermon. A musical program has been prepared by John Stark Evans, dean of the school of music.
It is estimated that there will be 20,000 present at the Homecoming this year, and preparations are made to accommodate that number. "Back to Back—Our Oregon!" is the slogan of every student on the campus. And those who do come back will find that the old alma mater is just as good as it ever was, that the traditions and customs are still being respected and observed, according to the head of the directorate.
The Homecoming committee extends a hearty invitation to alumni of any other college who may be too far from home to attend the Homecoming of their own institutions, and to all citizens of the state.

LEGIONNAIRES REMEMBER DAY
Fort Dodge, Iowa, with one of its favorite sons home for Armistice day, in making the observance of the day this year the greatest since 1918. James P. Barton, national adjutant, is to make the chief address.
Chicago's Armistice day celebration in Grant park stadium "will surpass any similar demonstration in the city since the war." Legionnaires said last night.
Formal dedication of a memorial tablet commemorating the visit to Montgomery, Alabama, of the Marquis de La Fayette, immortal French soldier and friend of America, is to take place at the state capitol grounds today.
Motion pictures of the first Armistice day celebration in Oakland, Cal. will be shown at an Armistice ball here tonight.
Galveston, Tex., is to hear an address by Alvin Owsley, past national commander.
A turkey shoot will engage Legionnaires of Nampa, Idaho.
La Grande, Portland and other Oregon towns are staging celebrations.
"The Spirit of No Man's Land," a great military spectacle with tanks, airplanes and heavy artillery alternating, is the way Legionnaires of Orlando, Florida, are observing the day.
This is the Legion observing the anniversary of the day that heard more prayers of thanksgiving and more shouts of joy than any day in history.

PARADE IS FEATURE OF MORNING
Frank Pilling of Pendleton, his challenger, is already hailed as champion of western Canada and looks on new worlds to conquer.
Hutton vs. Kid Meier
The preliminaries match Kid Meier of La Grande and Joe Hutton, another ambitious wrestler from Pendleton. They will step to the mat at Eagles' hall promptly at 7 p. m.
The bias west of town will flame into glory this evening when the fireworks Lynn Bohlenkamp and C. V. Talbot have been gathering are set into action.
Eagles' and Zulus' halls are festooned in the national colors, the floors are polished to a mirror finish, and the orchestras are all ready to go. Dancing will cap the climax on the seventh and best Armistice day celebration La Grande has ever known.

The old La Grande school half a century ago.
Mr. Carter resigned as teacher to enter the book and stationery business here, then going to Island City, which was much more of a business center than La Grande in those days.
Mr. Carter was a fruit rancher at Hood River for 19 years, but is now retired and is living in Portland.

FRUIT SHIPPING FINISHED
MIDDELDORF, Ore.—The Rogue river valley fruit shipping season is practically over and the majority of the packing houses have closed, but there are several hundred cars of pears in cold storage to be shipped later during the winter.
To date approximately 1765 carloads of pears, 487 carloads of apples, 18 cars of peaches and three cars of mixed fruit have been shipped from this city.

turn out en masse, and school authorities are asking that the townspeople and visitors accord both teams the utmost courtesy. La Grande high feels that the days of "poor sportsmanship" are past and ask that all present look upon the battle, not as one of two deadly enemies, but rather the meeting of two football teams, each composed of clean young Americans, out to settle a score in which bitterness fails to enter.
A rally assembly was held at the high school yesterday afternoon, presided over by President Wesley Brownson, and featuring a junior class stunt and talks by members of the football squad.

The junior class stunt consisted of a telephone conversation between two feminine members of the high school after the game. Adelaide Synhorst and Adelaide Clark were the principal characters, with Golon Epling enacting the part of the former. Two boys were separated by screens and the two girls, waking in the morning, conversed over the phone about "the game, which ended 27 to 0 for La Grande." They commented how "perfectly wonderful" Captain Strand's muddy face appeared, and various other salient points were discussed. At the close the two returned to the abode of Morpheus. The stunt was a rollicking, mirth-producing one from start to finish and was given hearty applause and much heartier laughter.
Jack Coolidge, attired in his parachute pants, led in yells, assisted by Brick Anderson and LaVaun Boylen.
Coach Dutton then delivered an interesting address which was followed by talks by some of the players, including Gullon, Glass, McKennon and others.
