WEBFOOTERS MAKING READY

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore. (Special)—Working on a mud strewn field, the University of Oregon football squad is endeavoring to make ready for the Oregon Aggie invasion Saturday. The game is the seventeenth annual Homecoming this week end. Probably several new faces will appear in the Oregon lineup, as the coaches are working on a combination to withstand the Beavers' attack. With this in view Harry Leavitt, veteran substitute but unknown in varsity ranks, has been shifted from prospective fullback to a first string guard. Leavitt is taking the place of Gene Shields, who was injured in practice Monday afternoon. Leavitt was given a try at guard because of his fighting qualities. His Williams line coach, said, who declares Leavitt is a comer as he is one of the surest tacklers on the entire squad, and in case he does start the Aggie game he will play guard on the offensive but will be pulled into the backfield on the defensive to play fullback.

"Oregon has been weak in its defensive this season, and one of our greatest problems is to solve this weakness."

Every man gradually is being worked into a fighting mood by the coaches. Players, varsity and scrum athletes, are being shifted to the first string and then back. Meutz and Smith are holding down the ends, and are almost assured of starting Saturday. Sinclair, Dixon, Mangum, Kerns and Warren are competing for tackles. Bailey, Hils, Leavitt, Sokolofsky and Shields are fighting for guard. Johnson and Carter are working at center.

The backfield probably will be composed of Jones, full; Anderson, quarter; and Wetzel and Hodgson, se. Voss, halves. However, Kiminki, Harrison and Langworthy may be sent in during the fray.

AGGIES DOPED BETTER TEAM

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, (Special)—With five victories and no defeats in the Northwest conference races, and but one defeat in the Coast conference, the Aggies are at the top of the pile in the former grouping and stand an excellent chance of finishing well up in the Coast race.

Sport critics even before the 26-0 victory over Pacific last Saturday, reported the Aggies 14 point favorites over their ancient rivals at Eugene for the approaching big game. Pacific held Oregon to 17-0 early in the season, while Montana at a 27-7 defeat here turned on Idaho and won 20-14 notwithstanding the latter took Oregon's measure 6-0 a few weeks before. Regardless of dope, however, Schissler is taking no chances. He knows the Oregon game is always a hard one and hence he is spending the week polishing every point of the Aggie's play.

11,600 Visit Champeeg SALEM, Ore.—Federal assistance in maintaining and improving Champeeg park, one of the most historic spots in the Pacific northwest, was advocated by Albert Tozier, caretaker, in a letter received at the office of the state board of control.

During the summer of 1925 a total of 11,600 persons visited the park. Three thousand automobiles were registered. It was predicted by Mr. Tozier that 20,000 persons would visit the park next year. The park, which is located in Marion county, is now supported by state appropriation.

Shipment of Salmon Eggs Reach Enterprise

ENTERPRISE (Special)—The first large shipment of salmon eggs this season reached the Enterprise hatchery recently, in 23 cases of chinook eggs from the United States hatchery on the Little White Salmon river at Cook, Wash. The boxes contained 3,000,475 eggs and were in charge of Warden C. L. Curtiss of the Cook hatchery who remained over a day while Supt. Irvine French of the local hatchery placed the embryo fish in troughs. This was the largest shipment ever made from the government hatchery.

The Enterprise hatchery has hatched 200,000 spring chinooks this fall and turned the tiny fish out into feeding ponds, and about 250,000 yank eggs are in the troughs. More yank eggs are added every day, from the fish taken at the head of the lake. A small number of the yanks will be marked and turned out into the river, as a means of studying their life cycle, but far the greater part will be put in the lake to help maintain the supply there.
