EDUCATION WEEK PLANS MATURING (Continued from Page One.) recently announced his candidacy for United States senator on the Republican ticket. In addition to Stewer's address, several other items will be included in the luncheon program, which are now being worked out. Churches Plan Observance. Through the president of the Ministerial association, the Rev. William Crosby Ross, a request is to be sent to La Grande pastors recommending that they devote their sermons of November 22, designated a "For God and Country" day, to educational topics. In the public schools, the great- est proponent of education in America, the week's program will be carried out. Friday, November 20, set aside as "Know Your School" day, will find parents and citizens visiting the schools at the special and urgent invitation of the faculty and board of directors. Parents are urged to see the schools functioning at a normal pace. Details of the observance in the grammar schools is in the hands of the principals. In the high school an educational assembly will be held early in the week with students of the civic classes in charge. Talks on the constitution and on patriotism will be given by special speakers and by members of the faculty. The English department, in which all high school students are enrolled, will feature themes, essays and talks on pertinent subjects. JEFFERSON IN LOVEABLE ROLE (Continued from Page One.) life that almost was relieved by "Lightnin" Bill Jones, he of the deliberate steps and who always kept his promises—albeit he sometimes was even more deliberate in making them. He was versatile and original. Nothing humanity possible had been left in him by his earlier days, from driving a swarm of bees across the plains in the dead of winter without losing a one, to fighting Indians, rebels, and booze. But "Lightnin" wasn't the only character well presented. His wife, a source of worry to him at times, a womanly when he was home, found perfect representation by Mrs. Frank Bacon, Bessie Bacon, cast in a comedy role, certainly lived up to advance notices as did her partner in matrimony, representing Lemuel Townsend—a human judge supporting them was a cast of talent and ability. Marquerite Miller was attractive as the adopted daughter of the Jones', and Jack Marvin was the hero who sought to keep daughter and Ma Jones from selling the hotel to swindlers, "Lightnin", influenced by Jack, refused to sign, the deed and after a court scene that was side-splitting, all ended happily. READING CLUB IS ORGANIZED (Continued from Page One.) grades for a program that the primary youngsters have prepared. Those who will take part are pupils of Miss Mildred Hoyt, at Central; Miss Galloway, at Riviera; Mrs. Lowell Williamson, at Greenwood, and Mrs. Nellie Thacker, also of Greenwood. Only one list of books has been submitted for the contest the library is conducting to arouse interest in children's home libraries, but Miss Mabel Doty, the librarian, says that many boys and girls have asked questions about what they should do to compete for prizes, and she is positive that many more lists will be turned in tomorrow, which is the last day. Each list has to have 25 names with their authors that would be suitable reading for boys and girls. It is estimated a great many people will get strong exercising to keep warm this winter.

DRY WEATHER HANDICAP TO FALL SEEDING (Continued from Page One.) 800 bushels of all wheat for Oregon for 1925. Favorable weather prevailed throughout the harvesting season, and the crop was gathered without material fall damage. The United States crop estimate likewise remains unchanged at 697,272,000 bushels for 1925. Early rains and snow interfered with the harvest in some of the later producing states, and it is reported that some acreage is still uncut, particularly in Montana. Grain threshing in Canada has been resumed after several weeks delay from unfavorable weather conditions, according to telegram received Oct. 31 by the U. S. department of agriculture from U. S. consuls in the prairie provinces. The quality of the grain has been lowered considerably by the unfavorable weather. Rough estimation places the amount of wheat yet to be threshed (Nov. 1) at about 119,000,000 bushels. European conditions are reported as having been very favorable for seeding in the winter wheat growing countries, and some increase in acreage over last year appears probable. In the southern hemisphere the Australian crop is reported as being badly in need of rain, and even with immediate rainfall only an average yield could be expected. Conditions in Argentina continue to be favorable for a large wheat crop according to latest reports. Corn Yields 30 Bushels. As usual the Oregon corn acreage was largely utilized for silage and green fodder. Yield per acre of that portion of the crop harvested as grain is estimated at 33 bushels per acre. Italy weather at planting time, and very dry weather later in the season were unfavorable factors affecting the Oregon corn crop. The United States corn crop for 1925 is estimated at 3,162,350,000 bushels. The 1924 crop was estimated at 2,438,512,000 bushels, and a five year average of 2,925,000,000 bushels.

Stars Give Views Upon Spinsterhood vs. Career (Continued from Page One.) few years. "Women can progress whether they are married or not. I intend to prove to the world that I can continue in my career, although I am married." Blanche Sweet, aside from being a star of the first magnitude, is in private life, the wife of Marshall Nellan, director. She contented herself with remarking that "a woman has the right to both glory and a home." And then Miss Daniels takes up the other side: "Every woman must choose between love and fame—between marriage and spinsterhood," she declared. "Dozens upon dozens of marital disasters have proven that no girl can hope for both marriage and a career. If a girl chooses love and marriage, it is glory that she covets, that, too, admits of no rival interest. If it were otherwise, perhaps I wouldn't be Blanche Daniels." "For myself, I am happy in my work, content in my efforts toward the achievement of the goal I have set myself. Will I ever change? Perhaps, but I doubt it." Miss MacDonald, retired from the screen a few years ago to marry Charles Johnston, millionaire musical roll manufacturer. "I suppose I'm a little bit old-fashioned," she said. "I wouldn't trade my baby and husband for all the movie glory in Hollywood. You can have your spinsterhood and glory. I am happy in my own life." And that seems to leave the whole argument just about where it started.

Claude C. Pratt Lumber Co. "The Poor Man's Friend" Oppo. Foundry, Phone M-218 No Sunday Business. We notice that a few days ago that some poor fellow by the name of White, who was operating a second-hand store advised people in his ad not to come to the Claude C. Pratt Lumber Co. all the time, as he wanted part of the attention that some one bought out his whole store. Now poor old White is wearing a black coat, walking the streets, and does not know what to do. If he comes to your back door through the winter months, give the poor fellow a biscuit. If you want to cause a stampede among the buying public, just mention the name "Pratt". We sell glass and coal, fence posts and kalsomine. We have shingle nails and door locks. No. 2 cedar shingles, $1.95 per M. We have some more of the popularly milled "1" and "2" shiplap at $17.00 per M.
