REVERE THE CREATOR.—Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power; for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.—Revelations 4: 11.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Now that Thanksgiving has arrived let us remark the billing and cooking doesn't end in June. Just the cooking.

Nineteen-inch trouser bottoms will be the limit, say the clothiers. They are!

Man, watching trombone player, sneeringly remarked: "There's a trick in it, he don't swallow it every time."

Let us be thankful today, most of all, because we have one day to be thankful for—besides pay days.

Let the men be thankful that women will wear their skirts farther up than down.

Let women be thankful that men generally refuse to wear trousers traps in their trousers pockets.

Let us all be thankful that evaporated milk doesn't come from dry cows.

Boo—Will, did you read the letter I sent you?

Office Boy—Yes, sir, I read it inside and outside. On the inside it said, "You are fired," and on the outside it said, "Return in five days"—and here I am!

All articles in a contemporary tell us how to keep young. And with this housing shortage the difficulty is to know where to keep them. Wasn't that point well taken?

Relatives are persons who visit you on Thanksgiving day when you have to do all the cooking.

Today is Turkey Day. And the newspapers say "Great from barren women of Turkey seek husbands."

La Grande women often seek their husbands, too.

HEROIC DAYS OF 1621 ARE REMEMBERED

of America. It was the time when the first harvest planted in the new world was still far from ripe and the leader one day wrote to the grim fact that there remained but one pint of corn in all the settlement. The people were emaciated together from their seven little log cabins and the slender stock of provisions was divided partially among them—five kernels of corn being the share for each man, woman and child in the colony.

Three or four months passed away before they again tasted either corn or bread, and meanwhile they were forced to live on shellfish, berries, ground nuts, worms and other things that the wilds provided.

Watched Corn Ripen

It was so imagined how much corn, then, the settlers watched the ripening of the golden corn. At length the harvest was gathered in. An ancient report tells that "The corn yielded well, but the peas were a failure owing to drought and late sowing."

Early satisfied Governor Bradford nevertheless appointed three days of Thanksgiving and feasting. He dispatched a company of hunters into the forest in search of game and fisherman along the beach to secure fish and oysters, while the women brought the food from their stores. After Massachusetts and other friendly Indians were taken to the forest and brought with them four ground deer.

All the people were justly grateful for the first harvest in their new home. But, as we of this day look back across an interval of more than 250 years to that first Thanksgiving Day in America, it would seem to most comfort-loving people that the Pilgrims had little cause to be grateful because Christians now do not give thanks for the harvest. The national Holy Day has degenerated into a worldly holiday.

and that each interest is increasing every day.

"Probably the progress of our good roads program is our chief cause for gratitude in Union county," Judge W. K. Condit reflected as he made some final purchases for his Thanksgiving dinner. "We are thankful for the good roads, but when we have to pay tax, we aren't quite so thankful," he concluded.

"The county attorney is thankful that he possesses a car," concluded Carl H. Hater, attorney, who is making his rounds in the county in the judge's motor car.

"It is a season of rejoicing for the Red Cross society," declared Mrs. Vera Palmer, county chairman. "Not a case has been reported of an ex-service man's family in need of assistance this Thanksgiving day."

god in glass bottles. Fruit will make a very good cocktail. Chill the fruit, put some lemon juice and ginger ale with it, to give it zip, and serve in tall glasses. The red cherries for garnishing are also easily obtained.

The following menu will prove excellent: Chilled fruit cocktail, salted almonds, nutty slices, turkey cranberry sauce, fried, candied potatoes, creamed onions, peas, succotash, hearts of grapefruit on lettuce, french dressing, pumpkin pie, cheese and eggs. The cranberry sauce, the onions, the sweet potatoes, the apple fruit hearts, the cheese, the turkey and the pumpkin pie can all be prepared beforehand and so all you need to serve, which simplifies the Thanksgiving dinner, and makes it the best and easiest ever enjoyed.

REV. RALPH M. CONRAD

Preaching every night in the Church of God chapel, corner X and Spruce. There has been good attendance and we expect better attendance over Sunday. Conrad is very positive in his preaching. He does not beat around the bush or play peek-a-booo with the devil. He does not call white, black, or black, white. He does not believe in white-washing but washing white.

STANFIELD AT MEDFORD MEDFORD, Ore.—Under the auspices of the Greater club and before a large non-partisan dinner gathering of citizens at the Hotel Medford, including members of various service clubs, United States Senator Stanfield this evening delivered an address on the Oregon and California land-grant situation in which he urged general public support of the movement to obtain an adjustment of the tax revenues paid to Oregon counties through congressional action of 1916 diverting the Oregon & California railroad and land grants to the Southern Pacific and reserving them to these lands in the federal government.
