

CLEARING OUT SAWMILL POND

CLOVER CREEK (Special)—Jacobs brothers are clearing out their mill pond and preparing their mill for an early start next spring.

Farmers in this section have completed their fall plowing. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dahlstrom of Baker were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. B. C. Dahlstrom.

A dancing party was given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Blaise.

J. P. DeVore has been delivering hay to the Jacobs sawmill for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson McCausse, Mrs. J. T. DeVore and Mrs. McCausse's brother were Saturday visitors to La Grande.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson McCausse and Mrs. Delbert McCausse were Sunday visitors to La Grande.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson McCausse have moved to the Bagwell farm in this vicinity. Mr. McCausse has had the place leased for the past two years, but just moved there recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Blaise were La Grande visitors Monday.

Mrs. and Mrs. J. T. DeVore are preparing to move to Union soon.

Several from North Powder are hauling slab wood from the Jacobs mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Watkins will move soon to the Jacobs sawmill from the William Watkins farm.

Mr. Watkins has a logging contract for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are now located on the Scott place and will remain there this winter. They came here from near Pendleton.

WOULD SAVE TIME AND PRIDE BY DROPPING STATE NAMES

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Much ink, labor and local pride would be saved, in the opinion of Raymond Phelan, professor of business administration, Otterbein College, if the state designations were dropped on letters to important cities.

In a letter, Professor Phelan urges the postoffice department to take under consideration a plan of arbitrarily specifying a list of cities so well known that the state is unnecessary.

The only successful substitute for luck is work.

Mother Sought in Kidnaping

Vernous and Beatrice Walsh have not been seen since they disappeared while on their way to school in Peru, Ind., Sept. 10. Their father, Thomas J. Walsh, divorced their mother five years ago and was awarded their custody. He charges the mother has kidnaped them. Vernous is 7 and Beatrice is 8.

Divorce Brokerage Becomes Popular Paris Profession

PARIS (AP)—Marriage brokerage has been almost entirely displaced by divorce brokerage as a profitable profession in Paris.

American fathers and mothers are extremely reluctant to provide the dot necessary to pay the marriage broker's fee. But wealthy husbands and wives who want their freedom are willing to pay liberally for fast action.

The brokers work on the steamers coming over from New York and hunt the fashionable hotels along the Champs Elysees and the Rue de Rivoli.

Negotiations are carried on at tea parlors and at the merry dinner dances at Ciro's and the Perroquet, which wealthy Americans frequent.

The methods are very similar to those of the American ambulance chaser. Divorce brokers make the acquaintance of all Americans on the Paris-bound boats who look unhappy. Casual references are finally made to the speed and lack of publicity with which Mrs. Gold Potts got her divorce in France the previous month.

"Oh, yes, it was that wonderful lawyer, Mr. X, who turned the trick. He is so clever and has never failed to get speedy results. And he is such a gentleman and so discreet."

Mr. X may be either a Frenchman or an American. The brokers pay little attention to nationalities. Many of the brokers are divorcees themselves and supply personal testimonials as to the painless and effective methods of the attorney they are touting.

An American woman of considerable wealth, who has never married, remarked to a group of friends in a hotel de luxe on the Place Vendome:

"A mere spinster isn't in it in Paris any more. The dancing men pay attention to the married women and try to get them to hit the divorce trail. It pays. It isn't necessary for married women to hire gigolos any more. The gigolos have all gone to work for the divorce lawyers. I think I shall apply for a job myself."

Competition has become so keen that one enterprising broker is trying to get steamship lines to announce special accommodations for divorce seekers in the third class, so more less wealthy Americans may be induced to avail themselves of the French courts.

Painless divorces now are advertised on the billboards of Paris along with painless dentistry.
