locating before. Hartley returned, gave himself up to the justice court, was acquitted, and asked the officers for damages, which the jury allowed.

Mary Beaudain and her brother, William, were loser and winner, respectively, in the cases involving them before the court.

Miss Beaudain sued E. H. Gaskins, cashier in an Enterprise bank, for damages, growing out of a transfer of funds. The jury found for the defendant.

Another Acquitted. William Beaudain was acquitted of the charge of larceny of the contents of a homesteader's cabin brought against him by the district attorney.

Judge Knowles dismissed the case involving about a statutory charge brought by a young woman, who appeared in court with her baby, the jury having failed to agree on a verdict after an all-night deliberation.

Little French Girls Do Not Bob—Mama Does

tioned doll with the innocent baby eyes, gingham dress and long golden locks has come back in style. Doll fashion experts have decried with the approbation of shopkeepers that the sophisticated looking playthings of the past few years are a nuisance to children's morals.

The doll has gone out for the Christmas season that children must be given playthings they can understand. They fail to realize why a doll face should be rouged, the eyes beaded and eyebrows painted, and the dresses cut like evening gowns. Instead of fondling a baby, doll madonnas say, a child cannot help but realize that it is cursing a miniature of its mother.

Climate and Surroundings: A Suicide Factor in Germany
BERLIN (AP)—Climate conditions and natural surroundings are predisposing factors in suicides, the Berlin Tagblatt has found.

If order to establish authentic suicide statistics in Germany, the newspaper analyzed the complaints of a number of government bureaus, resulting in several peculiar disclosures.

Regions with a pronounced change of seasons recorded the greatest number of suicides and this was given as one of the reasons why self destruction was more popular in Central Europe than in the extreme northern countries or in the tropics.

Altho also appeared to play a significant role, the analysis showed, suicides in the lowlands being far more frequent than in the mountains.

In Germany, Monday and Tuesday were suicide days, though women frequently showed a predilection for Sunday. Most suicides occurred at night and indoors was the favorite scene for the acts.

A startling percentage of suicides was recorded among divorced persons. Generally speaking, countries with a high birth rate recorded much fewer suicides than others.

Mental derangement, and not disappointment in love, was the principal cause of self-destruction.

Little Willie, in a car, pressed the starter, just too far. What a wreck! Dad raised a noise; Mother smiled: "Boys will be boys!"

A New Kind of Mermaid

Miss Reba Curtis, 18, of San Diego, Calif., is believed to be the first woman in America to go down in a diver's uniform. She made her trip in San Diego harbor and liked it. "Just like floating through the air," she said afterwards.

ROUND-UP BODY MEETS
PENDLETON, Ore.—A decision to invite the officers of the national organization of the humane society to attend the 17th annual Pendleton Round-Up September 15-18, 1926, was made by unanimous consent at the annual meeting of stockholders of the association which was held here.

The stockholders re-elected all of the present members of the board of directors as follows: H. W. Collins, George C. Baer, R. E. Choupek, H. W. Dickson, L. G. Praeger, R. C. Bishop, F. W. Bond, E. B. Tulloch, G. W. Wyrick, D. S. Tatop and H. P. Whitman. The directors re-elected the present officers.

The stockholders authorized the board of directors to enter into a contract with the Pendleton public parks association whereby all profits made by the show will be used in beautifying city parks.

SCHOOL DANCING URGED
SALEM, Ore.—Dancing in the Salem high school in lieu of several organized plays, which were discontinued recently by the school authorities, was advocated by Max O. Burden, ex-member of the school board.

"In suppressing societies in the schools the board has eliminated what organized social life the students had," said Mr. Burden. "Nothing has been furnished in the way of a substitute. If dances were conducted in the schools the parents would have no occasion to object. The dances could be held under proper supervision."

rythe the communications activities during an emergency. The report showed that in the fiscal year 1924-25 more than eight million words in messages were transmitted with a saving of $155,000 to the government in commercial tolls.

General Saltzman deplored the lack of funds which has prevented research work on new communication equipment and appliances, especially radio developments. His report also declared that the situation as to trained personnel is critical if the corps continues to maintain radio and telephone systems and performs its other functions as well.
