YEAR TERM GIVEN TWO OFFENDERS

stature that provides for both fine and imprisonment.

Although Viola Draper and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Do Gray, of Cove, petitioned for leniency in the case of Allen Delaney, whom a jury convicted Monday with a recommendation to the extreme mercy of the court, Judge Knowles declined to parole the prisoner.

Parole Not Favored
"I have never yet granted a parole in a case of conviction on a statutory crime," the judge said this morning.

"The penalty is intended not only for the punishment of the criminal, but also to deter others from committing similar crimes. If the court should grant paroles promiscuously, both purposes would be defeated.

"I sentence you to be confined in the penitentiary, fixing the maximum sentence at one year. The effect of the sentence is that unless pardoned by the governor, you shall be compelled to serve the maximum term."

H. E. WILLIAMS NEW HEAD OF ENCAMPMENT

Pendleton veterans for the purpose of making final arrangements for the state encampment. The ladies auxiliaries of the three encampments will be present at the meeting, and also several state department officers for the two organizations. The officers elected last night will be installed at that time.

FIVE COUNTIES PLAN EXHIBIT

This section of the country, in general, an organization will be formed for planning and arranging the exhibit.

Elmer I. Stoddard and Frank R. Appleby have been named to represent La Grande at the conference. Fifteen to 20 business men are expected to report from the outside counties. The meeting was arranged by the local chamber of commerce.

There will be no outside speakers at the conference. Most of the delegates have heard the proposition explained at meetings addressed by Ren H. Rice, of Tacoma, who is exhibition commissioner for the exposition.

MORE MONEY NEEDED FOR NEXT YEAR

change was proposed for the marine corps.

War department expenditures show a cut of $4,125,406, much of which is taken up through retentions in the estimates for rivers and harbors. That item amounts to $6,957,500 compared with $29,277,320 for the present 12 months, the new estimate covering $10,000,000 for flood control on the Mississippi river. For the army air service the estimate is $18,050,000—an increase of $2,000,000 over 1925—designed to maintain the present status of heavier-than-air craft and assist in purchase of modern planes.

The treasury department is given an increase of $2,325,309, doubtfully to the cost of prohibition enforcement. The coast guard's increase was from $26,597,825 to $24,248,340.

Interior Department Cut
The interior department suffers a greater cut than any other single agency. Estimates of its needs for next year are $11,288,001 below its present appropriations. Estimates for reclamation projects are reduced by about $1,300,000.

The increase of $102,508,148 for the postal service is based on an expected deficit of $26,000,000 on the year's postal business.

Veterans bureau requirements under the bonus law are increased from $50,000,000 in the current year to $140,000,000, and for compensation under death or disability provisions from $127,000,000 to $140,500,000. Conditions point to the need of an additional $106,000,000 for the bonus before the year 1927 is over.

Although the department of justice has $161,205 added to its estimated needs as compared with last year, the itemized statement discloses a reduction from $2,177,560 to $2,000,000 for "detection and prosecution of crime" and from $225,000 to $125,000 for enforcement of anti-trust laws. The appropriation of $1,000,000 available this year for prosecution of war frauds is entirely omitted for 1927.

Honestly, the best policy is to let all's well that ends well enough alone.

Finds Movie Acting Has More Thrills Than Dancing

BERLIN (AP)—Tamara Karsavina, idol of lovers of the artistic dance, has gone into the movies because she finds film acting more exciting than dancing.

The wonderful thing about film acting is that one always feels as though it were a first night performance," she said. "Everything is final, never to be repeated. The most important role requires short but complete concentration. There is a charm of creative acting about it that is nowhere to be found on the stage."

London, New York, Berlin and other large cities, however, will continue to see Karsavina's unique dance, because dancing, after all, is her life's work.

Tall Buildings Safer Than Low During Earthquakes height during earthquakes, in the opinion of Dr. Talley Dills, professor emeritus of geology at Stanford, and seismologist.

This view, contrary to the general conception of the layman, is supported by Dr. Willis on the theory that the period of swing in a building of more than 200 feet does not coincide with the earthquake's period of swing, and, hence, the inertia of the building mass stops jerking when the theoretical pendulums pass.

A building 100 feet high swings with the earthquake and this reduces the maximum jerk when the subterranean population changes its swing, he said.

"There is almost no danger to the ordinary light dwelling houses unless the chimney comes through the roof," Dr. Willis continued. "The most dangerous place is on the outer edge of the sidewalk and quaker's period of swing, and, hence, the inertia of the building mass stops jerking when the theoretical pendulums pass."
