Billy Evans Says:

Harvard is taking its football reverses none too graciously. Once upon a time Harvard reigned more or less supreme in the east. That was in the old days of the Big Three.

Of recent date, Harvard has been trampled upon most severely by Yale and Princeton, particularly the latter. It has not done too well. Last season Princeton defeated Harvard 24-0. This year the Tigers won the 1924 score: two points better. Harvard doesn't fancy being trampled by Princeton.

Back about five years, Harvard threatened to start Princeton from its schedule because it played the game too tough. It is now or was a college tradition not to drop a team after a defeat.

Perhaps the Tigers were inspired by that truth in handing Harvard the whoppings that have been administered of late.

GREAT GAME

Harvard thrived on success, regarded football as a great game. It means that the Crimson has been unable to digest failure and success. Harvard through the college paper, the "Crimson," strongly advocates the importance of football to be maintained.

Many suggestions are offered by being about such a happening. Class games are proposed with variety meetings between Princeton, Harvard and Yale as the climax.

The "Crimson" would do away with the amateur system that has become highly specialized. It would also have only two coaches, instead of a board of strategy or six or more.

To make the affair purely collegiate it would limit the spectators to undergraduates and alumni. Nothing doing on the common folks.

AGAINST SELECTIONS

The "Crimson" would also do away with all-American selections. To that end Harvard has this year discontinued the naming of an all-student team, an annual custom. I do not believe that the attitude of the Harvard Crimson reflects the real feelings of the many great stars turned out at the Cambridge institution.

The names of such players as Eddie Mahan, Charlie Beckley, "Tacks" Hardwick and Eddie Casey are synonymous with all that is great in football. They were fighters, had the will to win. It would seem that the proper spirit of the present generation at Harvard would be to fight back. No doubt there is a good reason for Harvard's failure to keep pace in football, that could be easily remedied.

If Harvard's motives for the uplift of the game came when the Crimson was a winner, no exceptions could have been taken. It appears as if the Harvard press-loss spoken a trifle out of turn.

3 DOGS BATTLE COUGAR

CULI, CHEEK, Ore.—W. B. Patton, well-known hunter of this section, bagged a 6-foot cougar a few miles above this place. His old roan dog with two pups six months old, took the trail and bayed the cougar on the ground, it refusing to tree. One of the pups was seriously hurt and all three dogs show signs of the battle.

When Patton arrived, the old dog had the cougar by the throat, while one of the pups had a horn held, the other dog being knocked out. Mr. Patton said that the old dog would have finished the cougar in a few minutes, but as a safeguard to the dogs he dispatched the animal with a bullet. This is the second cougar Patton has killed this year.

Hold your orders on No. 2 Cedar Shingles, as we are out again. The price next time will be 15 cents per M. higher. That will make them $2.10 per M. We sold the last two years of shingles out in 10 days. If you will all do your best we may sell the next two cars out in 2 days. The Star-Away will be $2.85 per M. We don't seem to be able to keep the wholesale price down. Every indication points to a steady increase in building material prices.

Give Her a HOOVER, and You Give Her the BEST

So say over 1,700,000 Hoover owners

As Christmas time draws near, how will you answer the question: "What shall I give her?" Naturally, you will consider, first, her need for those things that will make her life pleasurable.

You will want your gift to ease her tasks and speed them; to give her happy, care-free hours. You will want it to be a thing substantial, whose span of life will be not months, but years.

"What is this gift?" you ask. It is a Hoover—the complete home-cleaning servant. Will Christmas morning find it by her favorite chair—the token of your thoughtfulness? Come see us today. We will help you answer that question.
