Famous Polish Painting Undergoing Restoration

WARSAW (AP)—Poland's most-revered picture, the celebrated Madonna of Chenstohova, is under restoration in the hands of John Rutowski.

On a table by St. Luc. It passed, according to the legend, from Byzantium to South Russia and was stolen there by a Polish prince who intended to take it home. But while he was passing the Chenstohova monastery his horse refused to go further. The prince accepted this as a divine order to leave the madonna in the monastery.

When the Czechs repouled the creed of John Huss they are supposed to have plundered the monastery. They tried to carry away the famous madonna, but their horses refused to move, and in their anger the Czechs cut the face of the madonna. A wound appeared on the face from which blood flowed, according to the legend. Traces of the cut still remain on the picture in spite of repeated efforts to remove them.

It is historically established that King Jagiello ordered the picture repainted in 1429 and the restoration was made by an unknown artist who was familiar with the technique of the picture and did his work with much skill.

CLOSING DATE TO BE EARLIER

NEW YORK (AP)—Disagreement of the American and National leagues over abbreviation of the playing season was settled decisively Thursday afternoon by Commissioner K. M. Landis, who announced September 21 as the closing date.

With that bold and decisive stroke organized baseball's dominant figure thus broke a tie in which managers of the National league voted solidly against the new date, voted the storm clouds which hung threateningly over the joint session of the two circuits and burred his stern rebuke at the unopposed forces of nature which have so disastrously pelted year upon baseball's annual classic.

Commissioner Landis was a conspicuously drenched spectator at the post-season struggle between the Senators and the Pirates.

As the 15 clubs went into the closing meeting of their three-day session Thursday, the commissioner was faced with solid opposition from the National league, but he was backed by the complete lineup of American league clubs.

At the closing date was the outstanding feature of what was characterized by the magnates themselves as a brief and peaceful meeting. Possibility of an outbreak of war with the minors over proposed extension of the present optional player limit from eight to fifteen was averted by failure of the magnates to act on the question.

Discussion of playing problem, including the use of rosin by pitchers, likewise was averted by announcement of the commissioner that he would convene a meeting of the joint rules committee in February.

Recommendation to the minor leagues that the period of player options be extended from two to three years, completed the day's work of the magnates.

Paul Berlenbach to Battie Jack Delaney

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavyweight champion, will step into the ring in a 15-round title match at Madison Square Garden tonight against the only man who ever knocked him out, Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn. Prior to Delaney's victory—March 14, 1924, at the old Madison Square Garden—Berlenbach had achieved a mark of 23 consecutive knockouts.

After this setback Berlenbach rallied against the best in his division and reached the height of his form when he outpointed Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, in a hatless exhibition at the Yankee stadium, June 29, 1925. Since winning the crown Berlenbach has protected it against Young Marullo, Jimmy Slattery and King Solomon.

Delaney finished work Wednesday, weighing 165 pounds, while Berlenbach completed his training at 175 pounds.

The 16-round semi-final bout will bring together George Cook, heavyweight champion of Australia, and King Solomon of Panama.

THYE DEFEATS YOKEL

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Ted Thye, Portland's claimant to light heavyweight wrestling honors, defeated Mike Yokel, Salt Lake, in a two-hour match here Wednesday night. Thye was awarded the decision as he took the only fall of the contest, which came at the end of an hour, 40 minutes, 40 seconds, and was the result of an arm seizure hold.

TIGER FLOWERS WINS

HESTON (Ky.) The Associated Press—Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Ga., won a judges' decision over Frank Moody of Wales in their 10-round bout here last night. Flowers outpointed his rival in every round and knocked him through the ropes in the second round.

Sport Gossip

SPORT THREAT. A star in any line of sport has a value other than the things he actually performs but also gridders' greatest threat.

I have in mind the threat that such a star constantly carries for the opposition.

Babe Ruth's ability to hit home runs, made him not only the greatest slugger of all time but baseball's premier threat as well.

"Red" Grange of Illinois, who has forsaken the ranks of the colleges for professional football, stands out not only as a sensational backfield performer but also gridders' greatest threat.

Take any of the famous fighters who owned a punch and regardless of how the fight may be going, the dynamite they packed in either hand served as a threat for the opponent and a thrill for the spectators.

The threat that Red Grange of Illinois carried as a grid performer was proved to me beyond a doubt in the Ohio State game.

ANENT GRANGE. With Grange in the game it seemed as if every Ohio State player had his eyes on the Illinois flash. Any time Grange made a move, several State players immediately sought to checkmate it.

If Grange carried the ball there were several waves of State players running parallel with him in an effort to force him out of bounds with a minimum gain.

When Grange faked a play it always carried with it enough decep-

There was always a chance that he would get away for one of his long runs. Grange didn't start the third period. While he was on the sidelines Green attempted the play that had been so successful a half dozen times and never once gained.

REAL PROOF. That to get back to my original assertion that Grange carried a threat that was as great as the brilliant plays he executed.

During the first two periods in which Grange took part, Illinois had another halfback in the lineup by name Green, who performed most creditably.

Green was used on a delayed play off tackle, in which Grange failed the receiving of the ball and started around end, only to have Green take the ball and slip through an opening in the line.

During the first half of the game Green carried the ball perhaps a dozen times and never failed to gain. It was always anywhere from two to eight yards.

State had been coached to watch Grange and as long as he was in the game he was a constant threat.

The fifth carload of coal is due to arrive any day. Come on with your orders while the big lump lasts. It is only $12.50 per ton and goodness knows that is cheap enough. It may be that Stiles is to blame for the low price on coal. If so, good for Stiles. He must have a heart in him that feels for the poor people. We cucked up a profit on four carloads of coal and find that it was very small. In fact it was so small that we are building a high fight board fence around the coal pile and putting a vicious dog inside and a man to watch. If someone loses the seat out of their pants it isn't our fault.
